☞ The National Hotel at Washington, now looks like a great sepulchre. It is quite deserted, closed up, and enveloped in a mystery so profound as that of the grave itself. The wisdom of the wise fails in accounting for the "epidemic," that devased the premises.

Whatever may be justly said against the administration of Gen. Pierce, he shows himself a man of some forethought, in that, by avoiding extravagance in the presidential mansion he has been enabled to save one-half his four years salary, ($25,000 per year.) This is a very comfortable sum to set up business with in almost any village in New Hampshire, and will do more to make friends while it lasts, than any other commodity.—Milford Rep.

President Pierce has a wife who is neither extravagant nor showy—who went into the White House a heart-stricken woman, for her only son,—and who doubtless rejoices to be out of it,—and if her life and health be spared, would choose to live with her husband far away from Washington.

RATTAN BASKETS.—A year ago, Messrs. John A. Powers & Co. commenced manufacturing Rattan Baskets, at Milford, N. H., which are said to be better than any others in use. Twelve to fifteen hands make from 1500 to 2000 baskets of all sizes and descriptions a month, requiring about a ton of rattan, besides the other material. That part of the rattan now used for baskets, was considered a few years since of no value, and was sold very cheap, but since it has been used to so good advantage in the manufacturing of baskets, it has rapidly risen in value, and it is found difficult to obtain as much at any price as is desired.

☞ The Milford Republican says "we are of the opinion that the peddlers of tin ware and Yankee notions, are as honest, on an average, as traders of any other class." We believe that—and also that the travelling tinmen are a great public convenience, not to say blessing—in carrying off old rags and other rubbish, which would otherwise accumulate to an extent dangerous to property and health. There are certain classes and trades eternally traduced—and chief among these come the peddlers. "No doubt among them rogues you find"—but we guess our Portsmouth drivers at least (and these are all we need to deal with) will average pretty fair.

THE GREAT WESTERN RAILROAD CATASTROPHE.—The Hamilton Banner of Wednesday contains the verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of the recent terrible railroad accident. The protracted inquest was closed and the jury locked up, after being charged by the coroner, Tuesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. After an enumeration of the names of the persons, on whose bodies the inquest was held, the verdict proceeds to state that the deceased persons came to their death by being precipitated into the Desjardins canal, by the breaking of the swing bridge:—That the cause of the accident was the breaking of the forward axle of the engine truck close to the wheel, which caused the engine to run off the track:—That the locomotive had recently been thoroughly repaired:—That the bridge over the canal was strong enough provided the locomotive and cars remained on the track, but not otherwise; and therefore they urge the building of a permanent bridge forthwith, with seperate tracks for the Toronto and Great Western lines; and finally they recommend the renewal of the law compelling trains coming to a dead stop before passing over bridges. The whole report is a very common-place affair.

☞ Magee and Cater, the State Prison murderers, were brought into Court in Boston on Saturday, and sentenced to be retained in custody for one year from the 11th day of April, and then at such time as the Executive shall appoint be taken to the place of execution and hung by the neck until they are dead.

In reply to the usual question of the court, if the prisoner had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced on them, McGee simply replied that he had no remarks to make. Cater delivered a written speech, in substance, reiterating the allegations of his address to the jury, in regard to the poisoning of his food—statements, he said, which, uncorroborated as they were, would not be believed, but nevertheless he averred, were strictly true.

☞ Godey's Lady's Book for May, is on hand as usual, "prompt as a gun." It contains a beautiful engraving of a beautiful child "Dining Out,"—and of a beautiful Dog who longed for her bread and butter, but did not get it. A circular says Godey has 2,000 exchanges, of whom not more than half have given a notice this year. "We don't train in that company," as we have noticed every number.

☞ A slate quarry has recently been discovered in Littleton, N. H., which is said to promise abundant supply of the best of slate.

☞ The cost of railroads in New England has amounted to a hundred and fifty million dollars; about one-half the whole is in Massachusetts.

☞ A revolutionary patriot, a native of Long Island, passed through Eaton, Pa., on Monday last, on his way to the place of his nativity, having walked all the way from the State of Illinois. He seemed in excellent condition to complete his journey. He gave his age as 110 years.

"BALM OF A THOUSAND FLOWERS"—A COUNTERFEIT. A person pretending to have been a partner with W. P. Fetridge in the above article, is palming off a spurious preparation on the public. All are counterfeits unless the name FETRIDGE & Co., is written on the side, and W. P. FETRIDGE & Co., printed on the front of the label. The genuine article is for sale by all respectable Druggists, who frown down counterfeits and impostors.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

We know nothing of its merits save what we read, but that is sufficient, when we see such testimonials of its efficacy as the following which we clip from the Ottawa Free Trader:

"Having tried successively sundry highly recommended 'hair tonics' on our own half denuded crown, we about lost all confidence in nostrums of that sort until a week ago we met a distinguished politician of this State whom we had seen three years ago with thin hair, and as 'gray as a rat,' but now boasting as fine a head of hair as one could wish. We demanded the secret of his improved appearance, when he readily accounted for it by ascribing it to the virtues of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We shall try that next."—[Rock River Democrat.

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to Dr. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and we should have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

Columbian Pills,

IN Dyspepsia and Indigestion, as well as for Liver Complaint. A gentleman in West Stockbridge, troubled strangely for years with indigestion, says:—

"MR. RENNE—I was so terribly affected that sometimes when those fits of 'blue devils' were on me—although myself of a naturally pleasant and jocular turn—I felt as though I wanted to kick somebody, especially if young persons were about, laughing and happy. I was truly a victim to indigestion, with constant sour stomach, without energy of body or mind, cast down, afflicted, tormented, almost loathing any society, until I commenced the use of your COLUMBIAN PILLS, and thank fortune and you too, they have cured me! I feel better, look better, and weigh 20 pounds more than when I commenced their use, and I verily believe them worth all the pills ever made."

These Pills are purely Vegetable!
These Pills expel disease and pain!

BOWEL COMPLAINTS of Children cured by the use of LAWRENCE'S CARMINATIVE.

LOCAL.

CITY COUNCIL.

Thursday evening, April 9.

BOARD OF MAYOR AND ALDERMEN.—Orders were passed;—That the Street Commissioner clear a culvert on Dennett street;—that he cause the culvert near Mr. F. C. Jarvis's premises in Islington street, to be enlarged immediately so as to allow a free passage to any amount of water likely to flow there; and that he grade and pave so much of Pleasant street near the Universalist Church, as the Mayor may judge proper.

☞ We understand that several of the city pastors, on Sunday, notified a temperance meeting to be held on Wednesday afternoon, at three o'clock, in the Temple—similar to the Youth's Temperance Meeting which took place there on Fast Day.

VERDANT.—In the window of Mr. Shores' book-store are some large india rubber foot-balls, by the side of which is a card announcing "Gigantic Hemp Seed for sale here." A countryman, seeing the placard and foot-balls in so close proximity, naturally enough supposed the latter to be the Gigantic Hemp seed referred to, and with distended eyes and gaping mouth, exclaimed, "Jerusalem! but aint they whoppers!"

NUMBER FIFTEEN.

Our old friends, Messrs. S. B. and Frank Allen, having already "with Paine" announced their new and beautiful store No. 15 Market street; we need only refer to their advertisements and their stock to show that this is a first rate place to buy dry goods, &c. They have one of the best stores in the city; a stock new and fresh, and not small nor ill-assorted; and are themselves worthy successors of the glorious good fellow who moved next door to make room for them. As this is a good deal to state, we will copy what is said of them by our neighbors, to show that we are correct.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE.—The new and elegant dry goods' establishment opened by Messrs. Allen & Paine at No. 15 Market st., during the past week, is just now attracting no little attention from the ladies, and their extensive and tasteful display of seasonable goods very naturally becomes a prominent topic for tea-table discussion. The goods show and speak for themselves; but concerning the gentlemen comprising the new firm, we must say a few words. At the head stands S. B. ALLEN, Esq., of Kittery, who, though still adhering to Blackstone, and neglecting no part of his very considerable legal practice, yet does not hesitate to unite with the two young gentlemen who are the active members of the firm, in purchasing for cash a very extensive stock of goods, trusting to fair dealing, low prices, and the excellent taste manifested by his partners in a selection of goods, for an ultimate remuneration. His brother, Mr. F. A. ALLEN, late of Portland, and also a member of the firm, will be remembered as whilome a clerk in the store of Messrs. Wm. Jones & Son, and his pleasing address and obliging disposition will ensure him a host of friends in his new relation. Mr. A. G. PAINE, of Portland, is a stranger here, but his thorough knowledge of the business in which he is engaged, together with his gentlemanly address, will in our opinion add materially to the success of the new establishment. The store itself, admirably re-modelled since the removal (next door) of Mr. Albert Laighton, is most invitingly fitted up, and cannot fail to attract a crowd of visitors through the approaching season.—Gazette.

One of the greatest improvements in Market street:—Messrs. ALLEN & PAINE have fitted up a store in all the magnificence of a bridal. It does the eyes good to see the display in the opening arrangement. Certainly with such good taste in store arrangements it would be strange to find a lack of it in the selection of the stock. Mr. F. A. Allen was formerly a clerk in the store of Wm. Jones & Son. Mr. Paine is an enterprising young man from Portland—and a sort of silent partner is Stillman B. Allen, Esq. who is always so pleasant, that we think he could stand behind the counter as gracefully as before the bench. While we look with regret upon the loss of some of our best men, who are looking to the west—we give a hearty welcome to all enterprising new comers who step in to fill their places.—Journal.

THE LONDON PRESS.—No less than three of the London newspapers, "three instructors of the public mind, three great organs of opinion," are in the Bankruptcy Court. "The Morning Herald," "The Standard," and the "St. James Chronicle," are advertised for sale by assignees!

☞ A new mill has just been completed and put in operation in Nashua, where the old No. 1 Mill was burnt. It has 9000 throstle spindles and 300 looms, and will manufacture 75,000 yards of cotton cloth per week. It is very neatly and substantially built, and its machinery of the most approved contruction.

CHRISTIANITY IN THE KITCHEN, by Mrs. Horace Mann, is announced as a new work in press.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Ex-Governor Geary returned to this city this morning, to close his official business with the government. He has stated to his friends that he will be drawn into no newspaper controversy, being satisfied that while Governor, he honestly and to the best of his abilities discharged his duties. He also says he will not be responsible for publications of reported conversations, many of which are contradictory, but is willing to be judged by his official acts, and the statements by himself committed to paper.

The presents from the King of Siam to the President have been deposited in the State Department. They include beautifully executed swords and spears.

NEW YORK, April 11.—A letter in the Tribune, from a passenger in the Arago, states that Senator Sumner's health had greatly improved during the voyage, and there was a fair prospect of his thorough restoration.

NEW YORK, April 10.—U. S. Steam Frigate Niagara.—As the Niagara was getting ready for sea this morning, one of the cylinder heads gave way, and it is said a delay of a week or ten days will occur before she can be repaired.

CHICAGO, April 10.—The Republican State ticket in Iowa City and Burlington, has a small majority.

The ice has not yet moved out of Lake Pekin, Iowa.

MILWAUKIE, April 10.—Election.—Chief Justice Whiton is probably re-elected by 10,000 majority, over Cather, Democrat.

NORFOLK COUNTY, Ms.—The whole number of prisoners in the jail at Dedham is 82; in the House of Correction, 75. Nine of the latter are for liquor selling, and 26 for being common drunkards.—Bos. Tel.

We hardly know whether or not there is such a thing as good or bad luck in the world, everything considered; but our friend Mr. Joel H. Gutterson had, a few days since, a streak of what human perception would call bad luck. He lost a good horse by some disease, which he had hardly consigned to some appropriate place, before his best cow was found dead in the stable. She had slipped upon the floor and ruptured a blood vessel, and died instantly.—Milford Republican.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic defines its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHNIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession

It is put in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simille of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN

Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is a delicious tonic beverage, and by its peculiar flavor (so different from other gins) is universally esteemed by all who use it. It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

TO TEACHERS AND SCHOOL COMMITTEES IN NEW HAMPSHIRE.

The rapid and extraordinary success of Sargent's Readers in New England, where they have been already introduced into a majority of the schools, seems to have induced interested parties to resort to extraordinary means to obstruct, as far as possible, the extension of that success.

In March, 1856, the Board of Education of the state of New Hampshire, by a vote of the majority of the entire Board, recommended Sargent's Standard Series of Readers, in connection with one other, for use in the public schools. Individual efforts were subsequently made to exclude Sargent's series from the recommended list, but were promptly repelled, until in March, 1857, at a thin Board, several members being absent, these efforts were carried out, though under circumstances which must deprive the exclusion of all efficacy, and must react against those who thus tried to make the will of a minority paramount.

It will be seen by the following paper that a majority of the whole Board, namely six members out of nine, wholly disapprove of the action of the minority of this case. To this majority we might add the name of the late Daniel A Bowe, Esq., of Coos county, who was well known as favorable to Sargent's Reader, but who died before he had the opportunity of joining in the protest against the minority's action in regard to them. His name would exhibit the Board of Education of New Hampshire as seven to three in favor of Sargent's Books.

The reader will put his own interpretation upon this eager attempt on the part of a minority, to avail themselves of the opportunity of a thin meeting of the Board to reverse the vote and known wishes of the majority. The majority have not characterized this action in terms too strong when they pronounce it "unjust and uncalled for." Signed:

PHILLIPS, SAMPSON & Co., Publishers of Sargent's Standard Readers, etc., 13 Winter street, Boston. April, 1857.

STATEMENT OF THE MAJORITY.

The undersigned, a majority of the Board of Education for the State of New Hampshire, feel it to be our duty to make this statement in relation to the Reading Books recommended for the schools of the State.

When the question of Readers came up, at a full meeting of the Board, it was found that both Sargent's, and Tower & Walker's series were somewhat extensively used, but in different parts of the State: that both had their excellencies and their friends; it was, therefore, deemed best to adopt both series.

At a recent meeting, this decision was revoked by a minority of the Board, and one of the series, and that the most extensively used, was stricken from the list.

This act, we think, was uncalled for and unjust; and calculated to create confusion in the schools. We prefer that each series remain on the list of recommended text books; that each stand or fall on its own merits; be used or not used, as the experience of the public shall decide. Signed:

A GOOD REFERENCE.—A stranger said in a religious meeting, "If you don't believe I am religious, go and ask my wife. She will tell you." This came out so bluntly, that it came near causing an explosion.—But is it not a good reference? Many a man's boasts might be proved all vanity by just asking his wife, and getting an honest answer from her. How does his religion make him act at home? is the pungent inquiry—that is the great test. See to it, reader, that this reference be to your credit.

A young man by the name of Edward Hawkins stole a horse in Estill last week, when Constable James Land and a Mr. J. Irwin gave pursuit and caught him before he was out of the County. He gave himself up to the officers to be taken to the County Jail. They had not proceeded far, when Hawkins having espied a revolver in the breast pocket of the officer, drew it forth, and discharged the contents of a barrel in the head of Mr. Land, killing him instantly; then levelled the revolver at the head of Mr. Irwin, discharging another barrel, and killing him also. The audacious murderer then took to the fields and woods, and escaped, it is supposed, to Ohio.—Mt. Sterling (Pa.) Whig.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Another of those fatal accidents caused by attempting to get on the cars while they are in motion, is to be recorded.

Mr. Samuel D. Smith of Madbury, in attempting to get on the cars at the Depot, in Dover, on Monday last, fell down between the cars and the platform.

Mr. John Merrill, Baggage Master at the Depot, held him away from the cars while three passed him; but his legs getting entangled in the wheels, it was impossible to hold him longer, and he was dragged three or four rods along the track. His legs were broken, and his feet shockingly mangled. He died about 4 o'clock Tuesday morning. He was about 40 years of age, and leaves a wife and child.—Dover Gazette.

Rev. Mr. Hatch, who, in a public meeting advocated the running of the Brooklyn, N. Y., horse cars on Sunday, has been refused admission into the congregational association of New York and Brooklyn.

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. Tansey & Co are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers call attention to, is that persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. The particular class to which tickets are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication comes to hand. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent out unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Tersmy combination. Prices vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY, solicitor of Patents,

(Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837.)

No. 76 State st, opp. Kilby st, Boston,

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions, and to report by letter advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, which are not in any respect immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below give some idea of what I mean by SUCCESS IN THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he believes these testimonials will not disprove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office, as he had; and the manner in which it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilled Solicitors in the Patent Office business, and leave no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application upon a form for obtaining a patent early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner of Patents.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse.

LOTTERIES.

THE Lotteries of Samuel Swan & Co. are chartered by the State of Georgia, and have sworn commissioners appointed to superintend their drawings, and certify that everything connected with the same is done in a strictly honorable manner. They offer to the public a fair opportunity for investment, the interests of parties at a distance being as well protected as if they were present. The Manager would respectfully call attention to the fact that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Georgia, as the lotteries of Samuel Swan & Co. are legalized by the Legislature of that State. A lottery will be drawn every Saturday throughout the year, all the numbers being filled in the drawing to take place after the whole number of tickets are sold. RECOMMENDATIONS.

MR. W. F. LAWRENCE—Dear Sir:—Having made trial of your Carminative, in several severe and very critical cases of Bowel Complaints, attended with Prolapsus, with entire success, and from a knowledge of its virtues, I cheerfully recommend it for the complaints for which it is designed, as the best medicine with which I am acquainted.—A medicine of this kind has long been needed, and I doubt not will be a favorite with all mothers and the Medical Faculty as soon as known.

NAPT'L BATCHELDER, M. D.

Epping, July 23, 1853.

MR. LAWRENCE:—Dear Sir—I have used your "Cherry Pectoral," and "Carminative" ever since they were first introduced by you, and am now purchasing them by the gallon. They have proved themselves successful in every case of trial, and I regard them as very valuable medicines.

Yours truly, JOSEPH DALTON, M. D.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS FOR FEMALE S.

Prepared by an old Physician of 40 years experience

THE combination of ingredients in these Pills, is the result of a long and extensive practice; they are mild in their operation, and certain in restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. They are a certain remedy for those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deathly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whenever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or a by other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. Headache, pain in the side, palpitation of the heart, loathing of food, and disturbed sleep, that most always arise from the interruption of nature; and whenever that is restored, these pains will immediately remedy all these evils. In all cases of painful menstruation, or nervous and spinal affections in the back and limbs, low

DEATH OF JUDGE WATSON.

The Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) Examiner says "another and a brilliant intellectual luminary has been extinguished. Another lamp, filled with legal lore, has gone out. The drunkard's grave is being filled to repletion. Judge Malone Watson reposes in that forbidding sepulchre. He died in New Orleans on Wednesday, the 1st inst.

The habits of the Judge had for a long time been very intemperate—so much so as frequently to incapacitate him for the performance of his judicial duties. The consequence was, the business before the Supreme Court of the third district was very much neglected and delayed.

Some months since, the Judge set out on a Southern tour for the recovery of his health, which had become greatly impaired. In his absence, the Legislature appointed a committee to inquire into his business and other habits. In the prosecution of this inquiry, the committee were placed in the possession of evidence fully warranting the Legislature in serving upon him a notice to show cause why he should not be impeached. A notice of this kind, we believe, was left at his residence in Catskill, and a copy of it sent to him.

Truly, this is a sad case; and it is another of the accumulating multitudinous reasons why the soul-and-body-destroying drink should be speedily, utterly and forever extirpated. The case becomes melancholy when a Judge of the Supreme Court for any reason so far loses cast in society as to render necessary and proper the service of a paper upon him demanding that he show cause why he should not be impeached by the Legislature of his State. But when that reason is found in the drunkard's cup, does not the case become soul-harrowing, and for sadness exceed the power of language for portraiture?

The erring and unfortunate Judge needed not to have gone South in search of his lost health—it took not its flight in that direction. A physician and an all-sufficient remedy for his harassing disease could have been found at his very door.—Nay, more—the remedy was offered him without money and without price. It is not uncharitable to say that he died as the fool dieth. The remedy proffered was Liquor Prohibition; the physician prescribing, the Sovereign People.

With this appalling case before it; with a lively recollection of the recent death by delirium tremens of the Clerk of the Court of Appeals; with the full knowledge that each one is the representative of a constituency some portion of which, at brief intervals, goes down to the drunkard's grave; with the unerring evidence before it that a large proportion of the cases of lunacy, seventy per cent. of the pauperism, and seventy-five per cent. of the crime in this State are the results of intemperance;—with the fact staring it in the face that forty thousand drunkards die annually, and that annually $45,000,000 are worse than wasted for intoxicating drinks; with the drunkard's cry for protection, his wife's shriek for mercy, and his children's melting appeals for pity; with God's voice thundering anathamas against the workers of iniquity, His awful threatenings against the drunkard, and His timely warning to those who cause their brethren to stumble; with the wails of lost ones welling up from the Pit of Despair; with the voice of Humanity pleading the cause of common brotherhood;—how, oh! how, in the light of these things, can the N. Y. ligislature turn deaf ear? How can it throw the State's broad shield over, and thus make legal the odious and infamous rum traffic? Better for the members had they never been born than that they should be guilty of this high-handed outrage against God and man.'"

DEATH IN THE HOUSE OF CORRECTION.—Coroner Smith was called to hold an inquest on the body of Thomas Johnson, who died at the House of Correction, South Boston, on Friday. The testimony of several witnesses was taken, and the jury returned the following verdict: "That the said Thomas Johnson came to his death in the Hospital of the House of Correction, South Boston, at about 8 o'clock this A. M. from consumption hastened by intemperance. The jurors find that deceased received every necessary care and attention. The jurors further find that the condition of the deceased, at the time of his commitment, was such as to render him a more suitable subject for the Hospital than for the Prison."

SUDDEN DEATH.—"I Love Rum"—An inquest was held yesterday at the 3d Ward Police Station, upon the body of Geo. B. Smith, a young man who, a few hours before, fell dead in the street. The deceased had for some years been an inveterate drunkard, and rum finally brought him to his grave. He belonged to a respectable family in Massachusetts, but owing to an unfortunate love affair, was compelled to leave his native village. He came to this city soon after, and for months did nothing but to loiter about a rum grocery in the third Ward. On his right arm he had tattoed his name, and a figure of two hearts pierced by a dart. On his left arm the words "I Love Rum" were tattoed in large letters. He died of epilepsy, produced by intemperance, and a verdict to that effect was rendered by the jury.—N. Y. Express.

The Hon. Samuel W. Harris, of Alabama, a member of the House of Representatives during the late and two previous Congresses, died at his lodgings, on Pennsylvania avenue, in Washington, on Wednesday, of inflammation of the throat and lungs. His family was with him at the time of his decease. Mr. Harris was a gentleman of fine abilities, highly esteemed and deservedly popular. He was about 45 years of age. His remains have gone to Alabama, with an escort under Mr. Glossbrenner, the Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives.—Exchange.

MISDIRECTED SYMPATHY.—Sunday, in School street, Boston, the best emotions of a crowd of spectators were enlisted by the dreary appearance of a young lady, whose melancholy slow pace and abstract features excited general attention. She seemed the very image of wo itself. It was raining at the time, and the muckiness of the atmosphere helped to sadden the picture. She walked and looked for all the world like one under some terrible bereavement—mother, husband, prattling babe, all gone! A few persons followed her into Tremont street; one more tender-hearted than the rest, spoke to her gently—"Madame, you appear to be in distress. If you are sick and need assistance, I shall be but too happy to aid you. Do you want a carriage?" To these soft words she responded: "If you've got a larger umbrella, I'll take it! Mine is so small, I have to take short strides so as not to toss my dress outside its circumference. I've been out to church two or three times lately, and each plaguey day I've got wet through." The philanthropist retired upon this stout speech, which was distinguished by energy rather than elegance.—Boston Courier.

SCRAWL FISHING.—The American cod-fishermen at Provincetown, Newburyport, and other places, have taken up the style universally practised by the French in fishing for cod, viz: scrawl fishing. It has already been practised at Provincetown for two years, and from the fact that vessels are now to be fitted out in this style argues that Americans think it may be made profitable. A scrawl is a long, stout rope, one end of which is buoyed upon the surface of the water with a large cork or wooden float that may be seen at considerable distance; and the other end, to which is attached a great number of hooks, well baited, is sunk to the bottom, to be drawn up once or twice a day. The fish thus taken are much larger than those taken by line, and bring a higher price in the market.—The universal practice among our cod-fishermen now is, for the crew of the vessels to range themselves along the sides of the vessel, each man with two lines, and haul up the fish as fast as they get hooked.

☞ A dreadful catastrophe happened last week on the St, Lawrence river, between Cape Vincent and Kingston, by which ten men were drowned. The boat, it appears, was on the ice, and was about being launched into the water, when the passengers rushed into the boat, causing it to tip forward, and precipitate passengers, baggage and mail into the water. There were some fifteen or twenty passengers in the boat—only two of whom were saved: It is not known whether the mails and baggage were recovered, or the names of the passengers drowned.

HARD CASE.—T nchester Mirror states that Howard Judkins, in that city, who was before the Police Court on Friday for drunkenness, lives at Hanover, where he has a wife, but has been at work down in Maine the past winter. He was on his way home with his money. He was found so drunk that he had to be removed to the lobby in a job wagon. He says he was never drunk before, but admits that he was so that night, and was in such a state of utter unconsciousness that when he came to in the lobby he didn't know where he was, or how he came there. All his money has been spent, and as he was unable to pay his fine he will have to go to the House of Correction for 30 days.

☞ The Louisville Journal says that in that city, recently, an old Irishman, who is verging on the grave, was sent to the work-house in default of bail. He is a very finished scholar, and was once the professor of mathematics in an Eastern college. He has been living there for many years, leading a quiet life without family or friend, and devoting his time to trading in old iron, brass, and similar articles.

ST. LOUIS, April 12.—Kansas advices to the 7th inst. have been received. Messrs. Robinson and Deitzler appeared at Lecompton on the 6th inst., to stand their trial on the charge of treason, but the time, place and Court having been changed, they were directed to appear on the first Monday in May.

The requirements of the law not having been carried out respecting the census lists, no voting at the coming election was to be allowed in Lawrence or Lecompton, and four obscure places had been designated in which to hold the polls.

WORCESTER, April 12.—Factory Burned.—The estimet factory of John A. Hunt, in the westerly part of Worcester, was burned at 11 o'clock Saturday night, with all its contents, including four thousand yards of cloth ready for market. Loss, $5,000.—Insured for $3,500.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN

Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is a delicious tonic beverage, and by its peculiar flavor (so different from other gins) is universally esteemed by all who use it. It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Passages, Epidemics, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

Poudrette, Guano, &c.

FARMERS and Citizens having Gardens will find the IMPROVED POUDRETTE one of the best fertilizers, as well as the cheapest substitute for manure where there is difficulty in procuring sufficient for garden and farm purposes.—Its chief recommendations are, that it is neat, inoffensive, contains no seeds of weeds, is very quick and powerful in its operation upon vegetation, and at the same time is so harmless that it can be put in direct contact with the seed or plant without injury, which is totally unlike other fertilizers. It will bring early crops of peas, beans, potatoes, sweet corn, &c., and for lawns and grass plots is unrivalled. The small quantity used and ease of application render it very economical. The price for 1 barrel is $2; over 5 bbls, $1 85 per bbl.

It may be bought of J. F. SHORES, Jr., No. 1 Congress Block, who also sells No. 1 Peruvian Guano, Super-phosphate of Lime and Tafeu. j a14

SACKCLOTH AND ASHES.—Judging from the style of coat that seems inclined to be prevalent the present spring and coming summer, all mankind in this vicinity is disposed to go into mourning. The only material in use will be sack cloth. The ashes, we presume, will be supplied by the cigar smokers.—Sunday Times.

"BALM OF A THOUSAND FLOWERS"—A COUNTERFEIT. A person pretending to have been a partner with W. P. Ferridge in the above article, is palming off a spurious preparation on the public. All are counterfeits unless the name FERRIDGE & Co., is written on the side, and W. P. FERRIDGE & Co., printed on the front of the label. The genuine article is for sale by all respectable Druggists, who frown down counterfeits and importers.

WHITE TEETH, FRAGRANT BREATH, BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION can be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the Balm of a Thousand Flowers would render it sweet? m28 dawlm

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

We know nothing of its merits have what we read, but that is sufficient, when we see such testimonials of its efficacy as the following which we clip from the Ottawa Free Trader:

"Having tried successively sundry highly recommended 'hair tonics' on our own bald denuded crown, we about lost all confidence in nostrums of that sort until a week ago we met a distinguished politician of this State whom we had seen three years ago with thin hair, and as 'gray as a rat,' but now boasting as fine a head of hair as one could wish. We demanded the secret of his improved appearance, when he readily accounted for it by ascribing it to the virtues of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We shall try that next."—[Rock River Democrat.

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER BITTERS that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians. Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection I resolved to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored. Schnapps is a "Schlagen" in the German for drink—Cognac, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular exobration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons, in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

POLICE COURT.

MONDAY, April 13.

Before Justice Odell. Alfred Pierce was brought up, charged with an assault and battery committed on Wednesday last on the person of Mr. John Coult of Manchester, who was complainant in some liquor cases, while Pierce the assailant, is said to be the keeper of a grog shop.

The complaint was made by T. H. Miller, who was with Mr. Coult at the time, and an eye witness of the assault. His testimony was direct and positive that Pierce and others followed them out of the compact part of the city, and that Pierce committed the violent, bloody assault, without provocation. He also testified to the appearance of Mr. Coult before and after the assault.

Other witnesses testified to the appearance of the sufferer in Court, &c.

The principal witness was very briefly cross-examined by Mr. Hatch, counsel for the prisoner, who now asked for a postponement; saying that the respondent would not undertake to deny that he gave the blows which inflicted the injury, but that he did it in self-defence and under the provocation of Coult, who attacked him!—that the prosecution was entirely unexpected by him,—that the principal witness, Coult, had been suffered to go away; that there had been a warrant out against Coult for assaulting Pierce, but that he (Mr. Hatch) thinking the "poor —— had been punished enough," had directed the officer not to serve it if he left the city:—and he had been told that four men would swear that C. struck first, before Pierce struck him.

W. H. Y. Hackett, Esq., the counsel for the complaint, did not object to a continuance, and so the case was postponed to next Saturday afternoon, at the Court House, when and where all decent people, who wish to see a choice exhibition of tall swearing, are respectfully invited to attend.

DUTY OF THE CITY.

A DIALOGUE.

N. H. Gazette.—When Portsmouth asks aid to enforce the liquor law or any other local enactment, it will be time for our good friends from abroad to concern themselves in our behalf.

Uncle Toby.—The "Act for the Suppression of Intemperance" is a Law of the State of New Hampshire, and not a local police law of Portsmouth. By the Charter, our City Council have the right to make ordinances, "to regulate, restrain, or prohibit the sale or use of intoxicating liquors" provided these ordinances be not repugnant to the Constitution and laws of New Hampshire. The city has not done it; therefore the laws of the State are all the law we have on the subject.

Gaz.—One correspondent writes: "We have good citizens and good officers enough in Portsmouth who understand our society, and our laws better than outsiders can. Our officers are chosen for the purpose of enforcing violated laws and maintaining good order. Not caring to interfere with the police regulations of other towns or cities, we cry hands off to all outsiders."

U. T.—Who says this? We have no idea that the mayor or the city marshal wrote the correspondence. If it be merely the rum power dictating the manner in which itself must be dealt with, it don't amount to much.

Gaz.—Portsmouth is blessed with many good temperance men and an abundant supply of officials, among whom are sheriffs and police officers, who are always ready to attend to all complaints for the violation of the laws, which may be made to them. If Uncle Toby or Uncle anybody else is aggreived at the wickedness which prevails, the remedy is before them. Let them make their complaints in the proper manner, and every officer is at their disposal, and justice will be meted out to them.—They need not employ a corps of strangers to enlist in the service.

U. T.—The value of a promise, or the reliability of a statement, depends somewhat on the person or power that makes it. Gentlemen of the City Government!—does this man who here speaks for you, and as it were in your name, speak the truth? Does he speak your language? If so, if you are really ready to give your aid in the matter, to Uncle Toby, he is ready to make a batch of complaints which will close the open sale of liquor in every tippling shop in the city—and you can keep them closed if you will. But hark! what noise is that? The State of New Hampshire speaks.

State of New Hampshire.—An Act for the Suppression of Intemperance:

Sec. 20.—It shall be the duty of the mayor and Aldermen of every city, and the selectmen of every town and place, to prosecute, at the expense of such city, town or place, every person guilty of a violation of any of the previous provisions of this act, of which they can obtain reasonable proof; but nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent any persons from making complaints and carrying on prosecutions under this act, and police officers are hereby authorized to serve all warrants and notices issued under the provisions of this act.

Uncle Toby.—Now our Mayor and Aldermen have taken the usual oaths to do their duty under the laws of the State: If they will express to Uncle Toby, in writing or orally, by the Mayor or City Clerk, their willingness to attend to his complaints, furnish officers enough to serve the warrants, and pay the expenses, as the law says, the old gentleman will furnish them with a most liberal and impartial batch of documents, the very rumor of which would clear the liquors from almost every shop in 48 hours.

It would not cost over 500 dollars,—and probably would not cost half that sum.

Come, gentlemen, will you do it? If so, well. If not, don't prevent me, or any other person, from doing the duty you have sworn to do, but will not do. And don't you suffer a lawless mob or a wicked conspiracy to overawe or maltreat any such persons.

THE CHRONICLE.—As a few of our subscribers have 'taken it into their heads' to discontinue their subscriptions to our Daily, on account of the connection of the paper, and especially of one of its editors, with the Temperance movements of the day,—and these disaffected ones have threatened to kill our business; we have concluded to comply with the suggestions and requests of several inquiring friends, and state how such things can affect us.

First, however, we will say, the Chronicle has never deviated from the independent course we adopted at the start—we have and shall freely express our opinions on any and every subject we choose, as we stated in our prospectus,—without regard to any party, sect or clique. We think temperance better than drunkenness, and shall do what we can to promote it.—As to the occurrences of last week, the publisher of the Chronicle did not happen to know anything of them till they were all made public; though, like every other temperance man, of course he wishes all such efforts success.

Perhaps we shall lose a dozen Daily subscribers or so, out of twice as many hundreds on our Daily and Weekly lists. As to advertising and other printing, from this class of patrons named—we should not notice the odds in our business, if it was all withdrawn. But are there not a dozen or two of temperance men in Portsmouth, not now on our list, who will subscribe for the Chronicle, to prevent us from even a cent's loss on such an account? We shall see.

Meantime, we will close by stating that our business was never before so good as now; and that we wish to retain on our list those only who like to stay there; and that all those we shall be pleased to serve with such as we have, whether we agree on all points or not. F.

ROWDYISM.—At a prayer meeting in this city, on Sunday evening last, a squad of fellows who probably consider themselves young men, disturbed the devotions of those present by means of several "crying babies," so called. After being requested to desist, one of them was put out; and the disturbance continuing, another and larger chap was told to go, but refused Whereupon the gentleman who had taken the matter in charge, took sufficient hold on his coat to tear it from his back—and the ensuing bustle broke up the meeting.

The young rowdies remained about the door, threatening; and a couple of friends of the self-constituted sexton accompanied him home, to preserve him from harm.—But there was no need of this—for one decent man could frighten a regiment of fellows who are cowardly enough to disturb a prayer meeting. These chaps, and others like them, should be made "crying babies" of, and the law against the disturbance of religious meetings should be put to them besides.

We are glad to see the prevailing rowdyism of our city taken hold of anywhere.—Sunday noon we were pleased to observe the City Marshal with his "eye on" some of the loafers who infest Congress street continually, day and evening; and which nuisance should be abated, even if the Marshal has to put his hand on all such offenders.

☞ Uncle Toby has seen some editorial bosh, about how much better it is for our own citizens to prosecute offenders at home, and that all the wrath of the lambs of the groggery is directed against outsiders. But alas, it's all humbug.—A man came in from the Shoals, two years ago, to make complaint against a man in his own place,—but was knocked down on the steamboat wharf and badly hurt.

☞ On Easter Monday, April 13th, 1857, being the Annual Parish Meeting, the Rev. Charles Burroughs, D. D., Rector of St. John's Church in this city, sent in a resignation of his pastoral charge;—the consideration of which was assigned for Monday next, to which time the meeting stands adjourned.

STREET SWEEPERS.—A New York letter in the Boston Transcript says;—"It is no uncommon thing for an impoverished French nobleman, in Paris, to sweep the streets. Many a starving, but proud man, according to the anecdotes of the police, dons a blouse at midnight, and flourishes a long broom over the pave until dawn.—Then, he receives his four or five francs—a daily fortune to a Frenchman—performs his ablutions, takes his frugal breakfast, and loiters away the day on the Boulevards or in the Champs Elysees, content to sweep all night so that he may be idle all day;—the philosopher of the broom is not recognized, and enjoys himself without sacrificing his amour propre.

Here it is different. Manual and menial labor is the last resort of an American bankrupt or indigent; he tries everything first—school keeping, editing a paper, sell-railroad tickets or shaving notes. Accordingly, when the murmurs of the Gothamites forced Commissioner Ebling to clean the streets, he only found recruits among the newly arrived Irish and Germans; of the resident population none volunteered except—who think you? Chinamen and Italian organ-grinders and image-venders; curious destiny for these children of the East and South, born among tea gardens and olive orchards—to earn a livelihood by sweeping the streets of New York! For a day or two it was a mystery what had become of the bowed and scalped figures so often encountered in Broadway with a stock of bad segars, and where had grown silent the everlasting refrains of 'Casta Diva' and 'Oh Susannah,' when the 'familiar faces' of John Chinaman and Jocko's dark-eyed master were recognized in the ranks of the sweepers."

SHOOTING AT RANDOM.—On Friday, John Stetson, known as a pedestrian, and keeper of the bar room called the Metropolitan, on Main street, Charlestown, Mass., after drinking freely of his own stock in trade, went into the bar room of the Eagle Hotel, kept by Mr. J. T. Barker, where he began to flourish a revolver and expressed a desire to shoot somebody. Mr. Barker advised Stetson to put up his pistol and go home. The only attention the latter paid to the remark was to discharge one barrel of his revolver. Mr. Barker sprang towards Stetson for the purpose of securing the pistol, but at the same instant the lights were extinguished, and before the pedestrian could be secured, three more discharges occurred.

No one was injured, and the friends of Stetson assuring the watch that the pistol was only loaded with powder, he was released. A subsequent search disclosed the battered balls upon the floor, but by the time a warrant was issued, Stetson had sold out and left for parts unknown.—So says the Boston Herald.

☞ The St. Louis Republican says that if the present flood of emigration continues through the Spring, there is no extravagance in the estimate of those who anticipate the arrival in Kansas, this season, of seventy thousand, as a portion of the permanent population of the Territory.

The Dalton divorce case is to come off in Boston, this week. That will afford material for the further demoralization of society, and will no doubt be given in morning and evening doses.

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. Tyson & Co. are the managers, are authorized by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is conducted with the utmost honesty. He also certifies that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers of these lotteries think will recommend them to a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the week, Sundays excepted. Orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication comes to hand. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are forwarded unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Tertary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY, solicitor of Patents,

No. 70 State st., Boston. AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Also, Reissues, Extensions, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions,—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, it is no idle assertion to say, any agency that can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the chances for successful prosecution more accurate. The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast fund of specifications and valuable decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States, Great Britain, France, and on the continent, offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents, more extensively than any other person at that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the most informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a more competent and more trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a solicitor. I have ever found him perfectly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. THOS. EWBANK,
Commissioner of Patents.

LOTTERIES.

THE Lotteries of Samuel Swan & Co. are chartered by the State of Georgia, and have sworn commissioners appointed to superintend their drawings, and certify that everything connected with the same is done in a strictly honorable manner. They offer to the public a fair opportunity for investment, the interests of parties at a distance being as well protected as if they were present. The Manager would respectfully call attention to the fact that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Georgia, as the laws of Georgia and the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is conducted with the utmost honesty, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers of these lotteries think will recommend them to a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the week, Sundays excepted. Orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication comes to hand. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. DRUNKEN HUSBANDS, &c.—A correspondent calls our attention to the fact that there is a strong clause in the Act for the Suppression of Intemperance, giving some power to relatives of intemperate persons. He says:—

Would it not be well to suggest that every woman who has a drunken husband, and every child who has a drunken parent, should notify before witnesses every rum-seller in town, not to sell intoxicating drinks to such husband or parent, as the case may be. As every sale after such notice, makes the seller liable to a fine of five hundred dollars towards the support of such injured family.

We cannot make the suggestion any better than by simply copying the 21st Section of the act.

SEC. 21.—If the husband, wife, parent, child, brother, sister, or other near relative, guardian or employer of any person who has the habit of drinking liquors to excess, shall give notice in writing, signed by him or her, to any person not to furnish any intoxicating liquors to the person who has such habit, if the person so notified shall furnish any inoxicating liquor, for a consideration or otherwise, to the person who has such habit, at any time within one year after such notice given, the person giving such notice may, in an action of tort, brought by him or her, recover of the person, so notified, any sum not less than fifty dollars, nor more than five hundred dollars, which may be assessed by the jury as damages; and any married woman may bring such action, in her own name, notwithstanding her coverture and all damages recovered by her shall go to her separate use.

LIQUOR PROSECUTIONS IN PROVIDENCE.—The Providence Journal of Tuesday says:

There were issued yesterday on complaint of the City Marshal, more than sixty warrants under the act passed at the late session of the General Assembly declaring grog shops common nuisances. The places complained of embrace many of the taverns and lower order of shops where liquor is sold. We were told last evening that a meeting of the liquor dealers was to be held this morning to take means for the common defence of those engaged in the traffic.

ASSAULTS UPON THE LIQUOR SELLERS OF LOWELL.—The most energetic measures have been taken in Lowell for the suppression of the liquor traffic. We understand the authorities have already shut up more than fifty shops.

At the Common Pleas Court, now in session in Bristol County, verdicts of guilty have been given in quite a large number of liquor cases. The House of Correction, is staring the rumsellers of that county in the face. Some of the oldest and largest dealers have been convicted.

A BOSTON NEGRO TORTURED TO DEATH ON BOARD A BRITISH VESSEL.—A seaman named Hugh Orr, has lately been on trial at Exeter, England, for the murder of Edward Devoe. An English paper says:—

A case of such fearful cruelty and atrocity as detailed in the opening of this case, was, perhaps, never heard. The prisoner, a fine looking man, was the captain of a vessel called the Hannah Jane, of about 120 tons burden. The deceased was a black man, a native of Boston, about 32 years of age, and was engaged as cook in the ship. The crew of the ship consisted of the captain, six men and a boy. In February, 1856, the vessel sailed from London to Newcastle for a cargo of, coals and then proceeded to Senegal, then to Cape Verde Islands, to Rio Grande, and then back to England. While they were in the Senegal River the Captain commenced a series of cruelties—beating and flogging the cook day by day for four weeks, until, becoming weaker and weaker from these cruelties, death, more merciful than his persecutor, relieved him from his sufferings on the 3d of July. He was beaten by the Captain and the mate with ropes, with broom handles and with a "cat," and when his back was raw he was scrubbed with a brush. The poor fellow used to cry for mercy, and called upon the crew to come and help him, but the crew dared not interfere. When the vessel reached Rio Grande the crew informed the Consul there of the treatment of the cook had received, and of his death, and he said he could not do anything in the matter. The ship arrived at Plymouth in December, and an inquiry was instituted, which ended in the captain being sent to prison for trial.

One seaman testified—

I scrubbed the cook's back with sea water and a brush by order of the captain.—Once I saw the captain and mate flog him, and I counted the lashes. The captain gave him 48 and the mate 366. The captain beat him with the cat and the mate with a plaited rope with knots in it.—When he was dead, the body was cut everywhere. The mate saw him lying on the deck the night before he died, and kicked him on the breast with his heavy sea boots, and he struck him with a large heavy block. I heard him moaning after this, but I never heard him speak after that.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter, and the prisoner was sentenced to be transported for life.

GAMMON. — A sensible writer in the Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) Independent Examiner, writes as follows, in comment on the universal cry of the opponents of progress, that reformers do all the mischief, &c.

A sporting paper published in this city, speaking of the increase of intemperance, accounts for it on the ground that man being a hard machine to manage, any attempt to coerce him into obedience to law, only awakens his resentment; and so men now drink with redoubled energy because of the passage of a Prohibitory Liquor Law; and the editor thinks it will take three or four years more for the population to get thoroughly sobered to the consciousness that it no longer necessary to drink to an additional degree, by way of resenting an invasion of free will.

By a parity of reasoning, our streets should be thronged with nude people, resenting the law against indecent exposure—our houses should be mines, requiring only a match to blow ourselves and neighbors into eternity to spite the gunpowder law—and every other house a glue factory or bone-boiling establishment, to evidence our contempt for the nuisance laws. The astute philosophers of this school see everything through the medium of a brandy bottle; and it is not to be wondered at if their ideas are somewhat muddled. In fact, outside of the race-course, gaming hell, and tavern, they may be said to have no ideas.

SINGULAR CONVERSIONS.—Two well-known advocates of the "free love" philosophy, and harmless preachers of all sorts of sedition, have recently been received into the Holy Church at St. Xavier at Cincinnati. Mary Gove Nichols and Dr. T. L. N., her husband, received last Sunday week the rite of baptism. It is said they were warned like M. Hume in Paris, to seek salvation in the bosom of the Church. Dr. Nichols, the husband, confesses that he has been led through the interposition of the Holy Spirit, and, by the blessed teachings of St. Ignatius Loyola and St. Francis Xavier, to the renunciation of infidelity, and to the humble acceptance of the faith and guidance of the Church. Whatever in their writings and teachings, and in their lives, has been contrary to the doctrines, morality, and discipline of the Holy Catholic Church, they retract, repudiate, and, were it possible, atone for. The spirits have done wisely in converting these moral maniacs into sober, sensible members of the church.—Boston Chronicle.

GOING "WEST."—Almost every day we see notices of parties, larger or smaller, on their way to the far West. No doubt some of the persons will better their condition; a new country will awaken them to new life, and they will accumulate wealth and gain honors, and be more useful to themselves and mankind; but we often think, says a late paper, that few would venture on the movement so hopefully and joyous, if they could see the deprivations which await them and their families in their new homes, the process of acclimation they must go through, that will lay many in their graves, and cast others to labors or happiness in life.

It is worth a thought to the hundreds who are leaving this county—than which there is not a better spot on earth for the enjoyment of human existence—whether they can make the operation pay. Certainly if civilization, refinement, and literary and religious privileges, are valuable; if health, which is generally as sure on the spot where one is born as anywhere, and the friendships that strengthen in passing years are to be regarded, then there are great sacrifices to be made in the change; and if the persons were willing to make sacrifices and deny themselves here, it is evident they would have as much of wealth and as much of influence as they can acquire anywhere.

As to those who remain at home, we don't imagine that emigration will change their condition materially. In fact, but for missing our friends and acquaintances, we should never know anybody had left us.

RESIGNATION OF THE CHIEF JUSTICE OF UTAH.—The New Orleans Courier publishes a letter signed by W. W. Drummond, addressed to the Attorney General of the United States, in which he resigns the office of Chief Justice of the Territory of Utah. After announcing his resignation, Judge Drummond says:

"In the first place, Brigham Young, the Governor of Utah Territory, is the acknowledged head of the 'Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints,' commonly called 'Mormons,' and as such head the Mormons look to him, and to him alone for the law by which they are to be governed; therefore, no law of Congress is by them considered binding in any manner."

UTAH.—The New York Herald says the administration propose to send to Utah, a military force of twenty-five hundred men, officered by persons of character, who have families; and judges and executive officers of worth and high standing, who have families, are to be appointed in place of Brigham Young and his satellites. These measures will, it is believed, afford ample protection to the territorial functionaries, and at the same time impart an enlightened and purer tone to the morals of the community. The Herald connects the order recently issued from the War Department, withdrawing General Harney from the conduct of the Indian war in Florida, and directing him to repair to Fort Leavenworth, there to await special instructions, with the scheme.

FRESHET.—A gentleman who came from Conway, N. H., on Friday, the 10th inst., reports that the recent rains have caused a flood in the river, in the Pequawket region, unexampled since August, 1826, a period made memorable by the White Mountain slide. The water at Conway rose twenty-three feet in fifteen hours, and the intervals from upper Conway to Great Falls were all flowed; and the turbid water evidences that the surface had been washed of the richest portion of its soil. The numerous logs that have been accumulating in Swift River, Conway, for three years, are being scattered far and wide over the banks, mixed in with the sugar maples upon the intervales to a degree that will make them inextricable—a total loss to the owners.

HARVARD ON PARKER.—The Boston Courier is informed that the choice of Rev. Theodore Parker by the Senior class of the Divinity School at Cambridge, as Preacher of their valedictory discourses, was not sanctioned by the Faculty, in conformity with the law of the University relating to such elections, and the class has consequently recalled the invitation.

FAREWELL SERMON.—Rev. R. W. Clark of the Maverick Church, East Boston, who is about to remove to Brooklyn, N. Y., preached his farewell sermon on Sunday. During the five years of his ministration, two hundred and seventy-five have been added to the church—the present number being four hundred.

EXETER CORRESPONDENCE.

EXETER, April 13, 1857.

Dear Chronicle:—As it has very mercifully agreed upon that the weather shall invariably serve as a means for the opening of a conversation, we shall, without any scruple, make use of the same subject as an exordium to this letter. Perhaps no single thing could have been found better adapted to the purpose mentioned than the ever-changing developments of the heavens.—A very cold day or a very warm one, hundreds of which we may before have experienced, seems to excite so much astonishment at its appearance that every one on meeting a neighbor feels in duty bound to communicate to each other just what they both knew beforehand—what sort of weather it is. We don't claim, at this late period, to have made the remarkable discovery that this is all nonsense, for everybody else has undoubtedly had the same opinion of the subject. Therefore, we will simply remark that, as fifteen miles cannot give us sunshine here while you are suffering a succession of rain-storms, Exeter has in all probability enjoyed the same kind of weather as you have in Portsmouth; and any description thereof would be rather an infringement on Mr. Merriam's privileges than a source of news to your readers.

The all-absorbing object of interest for the last week or two has been the Teacher's Institute, which commenced a session at the lecture room of the first Congregational Church, a fortnight ago to-day. The attendance has been large, and an interest in the proceedings evinced that speaks well for the cause of education in old Rockingham. Several lectures have been delivered at the Town Hall, which have been listened to by crowded audiences. Among the lecturers were Rev. Mr. Whiting, of your city, and the well-known Lowell Mason, who edified our good people with a discourse on Music. Much credit is due to Rev. Mr. Fletcher, our efficient School Commissioner, for the successful manner in which he has conducted the exercises of the Institute. The ladies in attendance, aware of this fact, presented him with an elegant copy of Shakspeare's plays; the gentlemen followed suit with Dr. Kane's Arctic Expedition. The meetings closed on Saturday last.

The ladies of the second Congregational Church held a Fair at the Town Hall on Thursday evening. We were unfortunately prevented from attending, (Tompkins says "its 'cause we didn't have the money:" pooh! what does he know about it?) but understand that it was a very satisfactory affair. Every one appeared to be satisfied—that is to say, every one goes to a thing of this sort expecting to be humbugged and politely cheated out of his money, and frequently is not disappointed. We learn that the proceeds were about $200, which will be devoted to the payment of singers or to the purchase of a new bell. The latter step is needed sadly enough; for the machine that now attempts to serve the purposes of a bell gives forth sounds that can better be imagined than described—particularly by those who are familiar with the tintinnabulations of the farm-yard.

The appointment of Mr. W. F. B. Jackson to a professorship in Exeter Academy, we believe has already been noticed in your paper. The situation (which was recently created on account of the large number of pupils) has been ably filled, during the past winter, by Mr. Jacob A. Cram, of Harvard College. Mr. Jackson, who is a man of talent and ability, will unquestionably discharge the duties of his office with that fidelity which characterized his experience as a teacher in Portsmouth.

Yours, F. G.

A NORTHERNER DOWN SOUTH.

MOBILE, ALA., March 27, '57.

Friend Miller:—The Chronicle & Phœnix finds its way down into this region very safely, and is a pleasant reminder of "Auld Lang Syne."

Again we have Spring, and this time in all its glory. During nearly all of February we enjoyed fine spring weather, and before the close of the month peach trees were in full bloom, and the beautiful magnolia and other flowers began to open.—March came in with a blustering coolness, and chilled us with anything but gentle breezes from your snow-clad hills—checking vegetation, yet not killing the opening buds. We have had no frost since January.

Now everything is spring-like—"All nature smiles in beauty." We have a variety of spring vegetables—asparagus, cauliflowers, green peas, new potatoes, &c. Lettuce and radishes we had in January; strawberries also graced our table to-day. Delicious morsels! sweet repast!—Would that they might longer last.

The Mexican war-steamer Gurrero, which has been lying in our harbor for several weeks, awaiting the return of Col. Butterfield with despatches from Washington to the Mexican government, sailed yesterday for Vera Cruz, with the rejected treaty.—The Gurrero is about the size of the tug-steamer Forbes, of Boston harbor.

Come down and take a dish of strawberries with me, ere they pass away.

Yours, J. D. H.

CINCINNATI, April 13.—Weather and Flood.—A dispatch from Jackson, Miss., states that six inches of snow fell there yesterday.

The Missouri river had overflowed its banks at Weston, Lexington, and other towns.

The ice is still solid on Lake Pepin, but the river is open above that point to St. Paul's.

☞ The Pioneer states that there are in existence numerous Bills of the old Wolfborough Bank, which have had fictitious names signed to them as officers.

QUEBEC, April 13.—Our parliamentary election commenced on Saturday, and was the occasion of a serious riot at St. Rocks, where the chief of police and several subordinates were hurt, and the military called out.

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—Ex-President Pierce left for New Hampshire to-day, to return on Saturday. Mrs. Pierce remains in this city; her health is improving.

IT IS AMUSING!

The vote of Portsmouth was over 1500, and if each voter purchased a bottle of Lawrence's Carminative, it would cure at least 1500 children of diseases incident to Weaning and Teething.

"BALM OF A THOUSAND FLOWERS"—A COUNTERFEIT. A person pretending to have been a partner with Dr. Ayer in the above celebrated medicine, offers a spurious preparation on the public. All are counterfeits unless the name FERRIDGE & Co., is written on the side, and W. F. FERRIDGE & Co., printed on the front of the label. The genuine article is for sale by all respectable Druggists, who frown down counterfeits and imposters.

WHITE THEIR, FEATHERY HEALTH AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION can be secured by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the Balm of a Thousand Flowers would render it sweet? m29 dawlm

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

We know nothing of its merits save what we read, but that is sufficient, when we see such testimonials of its efficacy as the following which we clip from the Ottawa Free Trader:

"Having tried successively sundry highly recommended 'hair tonics' on our own half denuded crown, we about lost all confidence in nostrums of that sort until a week ago we met a distinguished politician of this State whom we had seen three years ago with thin hair, and as 'gray as a rat,' but now boasting as fine a head of hair as one could wish. We demanded the secret of his improved appearance, when he readily accounted for it by ascribing it to the virtues of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We shall try that next."—[Rock River Democrat.

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have no reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

FARMERS and Citizens having Gardens will find the IMPROVED POUDRETTE one of the best fertilizers, as well as the cheapest substitute for manure where there is difficulty in procuring sufficient for garden and farm purposes.—Its chief recommendations are, that it is sure, inoffensive, contains no seeds of weeds, is very quick and powerful in its operation upon vegetation, and at the same time is so harmless that it can be used in direct contact with seed or plant without injury, which is totally unlike other fertilizers. It will bring early crops of peas, beans, potatoes, sweet corn, &c., and for lawns and grass plots is unrivalled. The small quantity used and ease of application render it very economical. The price for 1 barrel is $2; over 5 bbls, $1 $5 per bbl.

It is to be bought of J. F. SHORES, Jr., No. 1 Congress Block, who also sells No. 1 Peruvian Guano, Super-phosphate of Lime and Tafea. j a14 to be sold cheap at the New Store, No. 15 Market Street. (a13tf) ALLEN & PAINE.

LOCAL.

☞ The Counting-Room, Composition Room, and Editors' Room of the Chronicle, are for the present at the Journal Office. We print in our own Press-Room, and may be found there, morning and evening.

☞ Friends abroad, who may like to know what effect the legal effort has had here, on the retailing of liquors, are informed that there is a pause in the business; that some of the more respectable dealers wish themselves out of it, and would be willing to see it all stopped, though if it must go, they cling to their gains; — that the importations in barrels and kegs, demijohns and jugs, has ceased from the day of search; and that only secret sales or gifts take place; while some of the best places refuse to sell at all.

☞ Why, Uncle Toby, said a friend, what will you do, when four men come to swear you down? I don't know exactly what I shall do, yet, was the answer; but all testimony is not evidence: and the man who swears against strong circumstances is very much like the man who runs his head against a brick wall; the harder he goes the more he gets damaged.

☞ The young people will not forget the Youth's Temperance Meeting, This Afternoon at 3 o'clock, in the Temple;—and if they should be as successful as on Fast Day, in getting up and conducting the meeting, the occasion will be more than equal to a happy play day.

☞ Speaking of Portsmouth appointpointments, the Concord Democratic Standard says:

"The appointment of Mr. Jenkins as Collector, is a good one. A better one could not have been made. Mr. Jenkins is a regular hard shdll democrat, of the New Hampshire kind, and his appointment cannot fail of giving general satisfaction to the citizens of Portsmouth. Mr. Jenkins ought to have been appointed four years ago, instead of the late incumbent, Mr. Clement."

☞ The great rain of Tuesday induced a rat to emerge from his hole into the school-room in the basement of the Franklin school, creating a great sensation; the girls jumped upon the seats and the boys jumped upon the rat, while the school-mistress gently hinted to the rat, (with the tongs) that perhaps he'd better be going; accordingly he took his leave, no doubt with the idea that it was better to go into a wet rat-hole than to venture into the haunts of learning. But apart from rats, this room is in a state which needs reformation, it being, as the committee stated in their report, very wet in rainy weather.

☞ Among others who have removed or are about removing to the West, from this city, are the following: Mr. Wm. D. Fernald, the well known spar and block maker, started for Ohio a couple of weeks since, where his four sons are now engaged in business.

Mr. Sam'l J. Dodge is also intending shortly to remove, with his family, to Buffalo, N. Y., and engage in the stationery business.

Mr. Henry A. Bigelow has also closed his business here, and started for the West a few days ago.

☞ The responses to our call for a settlement of arrearages in subscription, have been numerous; and many a word of grateful commendation and cheering encouragement has accompanied the more "material" but not more valued "aid," in letters.—We shall endeavor promptly to serve those who are thus prompt with us; and we would remind other readers, that they should follow their example. "Do as you would be done by," in this as in all other matters.

FROM SINGAPORE.—Washington, April 13.—A letter from Singapore has been received in this city, stating that owing to the disturbances at Hong Kong, and Canton, the disaffection amongst the Chinese, against the English, is rapidly spreading throughout the Celestial Empire. Singapore was, for the present, quiet, but there were apprehensions of an insurrection among the Chinese portion of the population, in consequence of the obnoxious police regulations of the British authorities, who, however, had made preparations to suppress any disorders which might arise. It was ascertained that the Chinese had been plotting secretly against the "devils," as they call the English.

APPOINTMENTS.—Washington, April 13. The President has appointed John J. McBrayon of Kentucky, Indian Agent for the Blackfeet and other neighboring tribes, vice Hatch, resigned. Vincent E. Guzer of California is appointed agent for the Indians of that State, vice Paterson, removed.

THE SOUND DUES.—The administration have just acquiesced in the plan of the European powers for the redemption of the sound dues.

A new Post Office has been established at Wolfborough Centre, N. H.

CALIFORNIA AND ISTHMUS NEWS.

NEW YORK, April 13.

Steamship George Law arrived shortly after noon to-day, bringing nearly $1,250,000 in specie and San Francisco dates to the morning of the 23d ult. She connected with the Golden Gate, which left San Francisco on her appointed day, but put back in consequence of a slight accident.

Dates from Greytown are to April 2d. Col. Lockridge went up the river, March 24th, with all his forces, to attack San Carlos. When last heard from he was at Machuca Rapids, intending to attack Castillo next morning, Sunday, 27th. He had removed everything from San Carlos and Serapiqui previous to leaving. There was nothing later from Walker.

There was some excitement on the Isthmus growing out of the apprehension of an attack of the natives upon the foreigners. The Railroad Company were taking every precaution to protect the passengers and the property in transit.

A bearer of despatches from Bogota took passage in the George Law, at Aspinwall, on his way to Washington, with the news that Mr. Morse had been refused all negotiations on the riot question. A proposition was made in the New Granadian Senate to send a force to the Isthmus, which met with opposition.

The California news is meagre. No further action had been had in the legislature concerning the state debt.

The prisoners in the state prison were starving. Some had already died. The legislature appropriated $5000 for their relief.

Trade at San Francisco was improving. Chinese produce had largely advanced—Teas fully fifty per cent. Flour had declined 25 per cent., closing at $11 for superfine.

Receipts of gold dust very large.

The Express publishes a despatch, dated Aspinwall, April 4, stating that Lockridge captured Castillo March 30, with great loss to the enemy, and but trifling to himself.

HARTFORD, April 13.—City Election.—The Democrats carry their entire city ticket, with only one exception, and half of the Aldermen and Council. They have the Mayor and the City government.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of a Gin, I completely succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection on my title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be hailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-similie of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is a delicious tonic beverage, and by its peculiar flavor (so different from other gins) is universally esteemed by all who use it. It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

"Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Jun per I have ever used."

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

TEMPERANCE IN NORWAY.—The Temperance Society of Norway held its annual meeting in Storthings Rooms some short time since. The President of the Society, the Bishop of Arup, on the occasion, in a few words, made known to the members of the Society the happy results of their labors. The Bishop said—"The Society has 16,000 members, more than one and a half per cent of the whole kingdom. Brandy is no longer a drink of the middle classes, and in many families where it was deemed indispensable on the arrival of a visitor, it is no longer used. In a great many of the country districts the publicans have ceased keeping brandy, there being no demand for it. At the marriage feasts and other festivals brandy is but rarely seen." The Bishop then thanked the clergy for their co-operation with him in his endeavor to prevent the evil of spirit drinking. The venerable prelate then complimented the government on the very energetic manner in which it had carried out the views of the Society.

PEW EMPTYING.—Baron Steuben probably has no directions, in his work on military drill, in the matter of emptying a church pew of five or six heavy sided men, on the arrival of a person clad in gown, petticoats and bonnet. Rules were, however, laid down with precision by a no less correct military man, and published in the Nashua Telegraph, a work the self-same author issues every week. These were given to the public months ago, and transferred, with effect, to other newspapers. The very unnecessary procedure seems going out of date—thanks, in a good degree, to the humorous pen of him of the Nashua Telegraph.

They had some full meetings week before last in the new North Church, in this city, and appearances warranted the belief that the old and ridiculous usage of turning half a dozen full grown men into the aisle to make way for belated misses, or even their matronly mammas, is becoming obsolete.

It remains now that such men as chance to become seated before the arrival of ladies, adopt the best possible means by which to facilitate their ingress. No one except a boor will refuse so to do. Let the "lords of creation" keep their boots and shoes in the best plight, acquire the habit of contracting their lower limbs into the least possible compass, and all will go along well and pleasantly, and the awkward usage be known no more.—Concord Statesman.

All very good—but we don't see how a lady in full modern style manages to get into a pew as they make them now-a-days, any how—much less when it is filled up with men before.

MRS. PARTINGTON SOLD.—'My gracious,' said Ike, rushing in with his eyes sticking out about a foot, 'I've seen such a sight!' 'What was it, dear?' said Mrs. Partington, putting her spectacles upon her forehead in order to enable her to open her eyes the wider. 'Why,' said he, 'a cart and four horses just run off the ferry drop down here and a man on top of it.' 'Do tell us!' cried the old lady, 'and were they drowned?' 'No,' said he, 'and what was the most astonishing thing about it, they landed on the other side of the river.'—'Well, that was strange enough,' replied she, 'and how did it happen?' 'Why,' said he with a grin on his face like a gridiron, 'the cart drove right on board the ferry boat, and was carried across.'—'Isaac,' said the dame solemnly, laying her hand on his arm, 'you mustn't go on in this way or you'll share the fate of the little boy who was devoured by the forty bears. It is very wrong to play natural fool tricks on the aged.' He went out with a pinhook and a piece of rag hanging to it, to hitch to some victim's coat.—Boston Gazette.

THE SLAVE TRADE.—It is calculated that the profits realized yearly from the African Slave Trade, amount to about eleven millions of dollars, while the capital invested does not perhaps exceed four millions; that there is a fleet of forty vessels manned by a total force of nearly a thousand men, and that by means of the fleet some thirty thousand slaves are exported yearly from the coast of Africa.

MANLY BEAUTY.—Respecting the necessity or desirability of men being handsome, a character in Mrs. Hentz's new story of "Love after Marriage," lays down the law thus:—"If a man is not ugly enough to frighten his horse, he is hand some enough."

LOTTERIES.
The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which E. Rowe & Co are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend the drawing, and everything transacted with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawing. And in fact which the managers call attention to, is, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are regulated by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication of the purchaser. The price of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are so on the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Ternary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

American and Foreign Patents.
R. H. EDDY, solicitor of Patents,
(Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837.)
No. 70 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston,
AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.
This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantage for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given are those of persons who have PERSONALLY AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The business continues to increase, and during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of Mechanical and Scientific works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
Testimonials.
"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office, and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in such a form as to secure to them a prompt and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
From the present Commissioner.
AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most competent professional practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

They offer to the public a fair opportunity for investment, the interests of parties at a distance being as well protected as if they were present. A lottery will be drawn every Saturday throughout the year, all orders received being filled in the drawing next to take place after the same comes to hand. According to the scheme one ticket in every ten is a prize. Tickets are $10; halves, $5; quarters, $2.50. No tickets sent unless the money accompanies the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket, and are so simple that none can fail to understand them. There is no combination of numbers to mystify the buyer. RECOMMENDATIONS.
MR. W. F. LAWRENCE,—Dear Sir;—Having made trial of your Carminative, in several severe and very painful cases of Bowel Complaints, attended with Prolapsus, with entire success, and from a knowledge of its virtues, I cheerfully recommend it for the complaints for which it is designed, as the best medicine with which I am acquainted. A medicine of this kind has long been needed, and I doubt not will be a favorite with all mothers and the Medical Faculty to recommend it.
NAPH'L BATCHELDER, M. D.
Epping, July 23, 1853.
MR. LAWRENCE:—Dear Sir—I have used your "Cherry Pectoral," and "Carminative" ever since they were first introduced by you, and am now purchasing them by the gallon, and they have proved themselves successful in every case of trial, and I regard them as very valuable medicines.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.
DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS FOR FEMALES,
Prepared by an old Physician of 40 years experience.
THE combination of ingredients in these Pills, is the result of a long and extensive practice; they are mild in their operation, and certain to restore regularity to the system, in every instance have the Pills proved successful. They are certain to open those obstructions to which females are liable, from whatever cause, or to any proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deathly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whenever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or from other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of the untimely consumptions among young females. Headache, pain in the side, palpitation of the heart, loathing of food, and a distaste for company, always arise from the interruption

THE WORLD OWES ME A LIVING.

Under the above caption, the Cayuga Chief holds the following talk. Every loafer should read it attentively:

That's false, sir! It doesn't owe you a farthing. You owe the world for the light of its days, the warmth of its sunshine, the beauty of its earth and sky, and for its love, affections and friendships, which have from your childhood, young man, clustered around and clung to your worthless trunk.

For all these, and other blessings of countless number, you are debtor. You have never even thanked God for health and life. You never made the world better for your living. You owe even for the breath you breathe, and the strength you enjoy. You haven't anything to your credit on the day-book or ledger of life—not a cent. You have never taken a dollar's stock in heaven. Were you to sink to-day to oblivion, you would not leave a single bubble.

The world owes you a living! Where is there a manly thought uttered, or a noble deed performed,—where is there evidence of your labor? Nowhere. You drink, gamble, and chew tobacco, but never earned your board. You have degraded our common manhood, instead of ennobling and elevating it, and in nothing, but the form and vulgar speech are you above the brutes that perish. And because you are too lazy to work, you claim that the world owes you a living!

Don't tell me that lie again, you sluggard! The world or society would not suffer loss were lightning to strike you or the cholera to take you off. There are too many of such. You are a sponge swollen with what you have absorbed from society. You dwarfed the intellect given you, and neglected the endowments it would have brought you. The tobacco you have chewed has only defiled everything around you, and the liquor you have drank has only been adulterated by your miserable nature, and been turned into rowdyism and profanity. You contaminate everything you touch, and even those like you will keep their children from the leprosy of your teaching and example.

No sir, you owe the world a better life.—Do and say something noble and manly; labor for some honorable purpose, and not inhale God's pure air for nothing.

☞ Williams, keeper of the hotel at Hydeville, was found guilty of violating the Vermont liquor law, and fined $120; upon default of paying which, lodgings were assigned him in the stone house at Rutland.

☞ The Philadelphia Bulletin says, "the world loves to patronize those whom it thinks are doing well—and liberal advertising is an unfailing sign of prosperity, as times go."

MAN SHOT IN WARNER.—"A Citizen" of Warner, N. H., writes to the Manchester American, under date of April 10th, as follows:

Messrs. Editors:—Those who are acquainted with this town are of course aware, that a certain portion of its people both old and young are given to liquor drinking. There are few towns in the State whose prosperity has been so much retarded by the free use of rum as Warner.

Last Saturday, three young men, having bought two quarts of rum, met at the house of Isaac Hunt about dark, to have "a time." Having partly emptied the bottle, Hunt and one of the others left for the house of Roswell Spaulding, a near neighbor, where all hands drank several times, but in doing so broke a tumbler.—An altercation followed, and Spaulding knocked down the youngster, who was helped out of the house by Hunt, and both left. It was about midnight, and when about twelve rods from the house, hearing a noise behind them, they saw Spaulding with his gun, which he aimed at Hunt and fired, lodging 95 shots in one leg, and 25 in the other. The wife of Hunt heard the report, and ran out in time to hear Spaulding's imprecations. Hunt was carried home, but has suffered severely from his wounds. Upon the representation of Mr. Hunt's son, Mr. Everett, County Solicitor, secured the arrest and examination of Spaulding, who is put under $800 bonds for his appearance at the next term of the Supreme Judicial Court.

WARNING TO "FAST" YOUNG MEN.—John Miller, aged twenty-eight years, died at Indianapolis, on last Friday night. The Journal gives a brief history of this sad case. He was born in Dayton, Ohio—was left an orphan with a large fortune, and to his own guidance—became a 'fast young man,' and rapidly spent his fortune, which was counted by tens of thousands. He kept a circle of dashing young men about him until his money was gone, who then deserted and left him. He sought Indianapolis for a home, and there, in some menial capacity, lived for a time, and died in a strange garret, friendless and alone.

☞ The Life Illustrated contains a striking likeness of Mr. Merriam, the meteorologist, and a pleasant description and brief biography.

The Phrenological Journal for April, and the Water Cure Journal for the same month, contain many valuable articles.

All three are published by Fowler & Wells, New York.

☞ Peterson's Magazine for May, is just received from the publisher, Charles J. Peterson, Philadelphia.—The literary contents are of a high order.

HOOPS DENOUNCED IN THE BIBLE.—The following is an extract from Isaiah iii. 18:

'In that day, the Lord will take away the bravery of their tinkling ornaments about their feet, and their combs, and their round tire like the moon.'

We don't think there would be much left of some women after this takes place.

LAGER BIER.—The New York Mirror says:

"Lager Bier, it is said, will be used in much greater quantities this summer than last. Brewers are making extraordinary preparations for a busy season. The number of beer shops has wonderfully increased, and consequently the number of beer drinkers. Lager bier, almost unknown four years ago, has gained a local habitation and name, and immense amounts of money are now expended for this drink."

☞ The New York Herald of Monday, has an editorial urging the political supporters of Col. Fremont to concentrated action, in view of the next Presidential campaign.

ONE OF THE SNAKE STORIES.—The Hartford Times has the following:

"Mr. Ransom White, of East Hartford, brought into this city to-day in a basket, 91 black snakes, weighing in the aggregate 81 pounds! He dug them all out of a snake burrow in that town, by the side of a stone quarry yesterday. They were in a torpid state, but could crawl about a little. They were found about two feet from the surface, and were wound up together like a ball. The average length of the snakes was about four feet. The awful creatures draw together in our street.

APPROPRIATE SIMILE.—The merchant who does not advertise liberally in the newspapers has been very appropriately compared to a man who has a lantern, but is too stingy to buy a candle.

NEW HAMPSHIRE DEMOCRACY.

Under the head, "Causes of the decline and fall of Democracy in New Hampshire," the Concord Democratic Standard has an article of more than two columns in length —of much interest to Democratic politicians. It says:

"The primary causes lie far back in the past. They are to be found in the organization of central and provincial cliques of politicians all over the State, under the auspices of the late President of the United States. These cliques were made up of politicians of very small caliber, whose highest ambition was servile obedience to the principal manager and wire-worker, in consideration of the paltry offices within the gift of the State, and the Democratic party, whose great interests were controlled by these petty and selfish cliques.

"Its nucleus was at the capital of the State; its co-ordinate centres in the capitals of the counties; and its ultimate agencies in every town. It was through such instrumentalities the State was governed and controlled for years, the masses of the Democratic party having the semblance of power, but not power itself. It only registered the decrees of the central managers.

"Another cause of the overthrow of the Democratic party in this State, was the abandonment of the democratic usages in the election of 1855. The Pierce faction of the Democratic party were the first to introduce and tamper with Know-Nothingism in this State. N. B. Baker, their candidate for Governor, early joined the councils of that party. A large portion, if not a majority, of the Democratic State Committee, of that year, joined the new party. And the agents of the Pierce faction were busy founding councils, and organizing the machinery of the Know Nothing party. Some of the members of the Pierce Democratic State Committee attended the Know Nothing State Council as delegates. And active Pierce men everywhere were busy in the new movement. We have some remarkable facts in our possession, coming home to certain important characters in Concord, and implicating them in the movement.

Now, it is idle to say that Mr. Pierce knew nothing of this movement. It is idle to say that he and his fuglers in this State, did not know that Nathaniel B. Baker was in the Know Nothing organization. Gov. Baker was the confidential friend and agent of Pierce in this State, and would have taken no step politically without his consent and approbation. And it is idle to say that the members of the State Committee, and the numerous body of Pierce managers throughout the State, were in the Know Nothing councils, without the knowledge of their friends here, and of Gen. Pierce at Washington. But we have proof which sets the matter at rest, with regard to the connivance of the Pierce administration with the Know Nothing movement in this State. They were implicated with it, until they lost its control. And then, and not until then, did their principal organ, the N. H. Patriot, denounce it.

THE FLORIDA INDIANS.—Washington, April 14.—The Secretary of the Interior has given full instructions to Messrs. Rector and Garrett, the Indian Agents, who have left Washington for the scene of their duties, to organise delegations from the Creeks and Seminoles residing west of the Mississippi to proceed to Florida in the autumn, on the especial business of persuading Billy Bowlegs and his followers to emigrate. The Florida Seminoles, the government is aware, are too proud to be forced to this step at the point of the bayonet, and hence this resort to peaceful measures, which will, it is confidently believed, accomplish that important measure. In view of the above-mentioned design, there will, meanwhile, be no active military movements in Florida.

Kansas.—There will be no troops stationed in Kansas who have, in any way, been concerned in the former difficulties in that territory. In addition to the large force detailed to accompany the Kansas southern boundary commission, a summer campaign to chastise the Cheyennes and Kioways is arranged, and several officers are here receiving specific instructions to that end. None of these troops are intended for Utah, as has been conjectured.

Naval.—The case of Lieut. Gillis, furloughed, is before one of the Naval Courts of Inquiry, and that of Lieut. Wm. Chandler before the other.

☞ There was a great fire in Baltimore, on Tuesday night. Loss $500,000. Several persons have been badly hurt, and it is feared that some are buried in the ruins.

A LIQUOR INCIDENT.—The Ellsworth American says:

"We are informed that a person at Milbridge sold some spirit to a young lad, who became intoxicated in consequence. The lad's sister informed the seller that if he did so again she would spill his rum for him. He sold liquor the second time to the lad; and his sister, as good as her word, attacked the man's rum cask and stove in the head, spilling the contents therof. We learn that the neighbors have subscribed $13 to purchase some silver spoons, on which they purpose to have engraved a cask with the head stove."

☞ Of 1245 arrests in Portland, last year, 508 were for drunkenness; and nearly all the rest were for such causes as might legitimately follow drinking.

FROM ENGLAND—APRIL 1.

NEW YORK, April 15.

The steamer Ericsson, bringing Liverpool dates to April 1, arrived here at midnight.

The elections absorbed public attention in England. Nearly all the contests in the Boroughs were brought to a close on the 29th ult, and the result has proved disastrous to the conservatives. Numerous opponents have been defeated. In fact the government has achieved a complete triumph.

Diplomatic relations between Sardinia and Austria will, it is said, be restored sooner than expected. The Times says that the intervention of the British and French governments for the arrangement of the existing differences between the Austrian and Sardinian governments has been favorably received.

The Neufchatel difficulty is also in a fair way of adjustment.

SPAIN.—A despatch from Madrid of March says: "The disposition to war is still continuing. The offers of Mexico do not satisfy the demands of Spain.

CHINA.—With the exception of an attack on the junks in the Canton River, no further active operations had taken place. Admiral Seymour was at Hong Kong writing for reinforcements.

A telegraphic message received at Bombay from the authorities of Calcutta states that the Emperor of China had sent orders to Yeh to conclude peace on any terms.

EMBEZZLEMENT OF SEVEN THOUSAND DOLLARS BY A DRY GOODS CLERK—ODD AFFAIR.—The following says the Boston Traveller of Tuesday, is a correct statement of the circumstances attending the robbery of Walter H. Tilden, dry goods dealer, Broadway, South Boston, by his clerk, a young unmarried man of about twenty-two years. It appears that Mr. Tilden, who has been in business there for a number of years, has within the past three years gone behind-hand, in a most unaccountable manner. He has had suspicions in regard to some of his clerks, and we are told, has dispensed with the services of one or two, though he had no direct proof of wrongdoing upon their part. In regard to his confidential clerk, however, he had no suspicions; he was steady in his habits, and appeared to live within his means. After some cogitation on the subject, Mr. Tilden, a short time ago, determined to set a trap for the unknown plunderer, and accordingly, a two dollar bill was marked, and placed in his money drawer. Much to the surprise of Mr. Tilden, his marked bill, was found in the possession of the unsuspected, confidential clerk, who was upon this exposure of his guilt, induced to confess that for the past three years or more, he had been in the daily habit of robbing his master's till, the sums thus obtained, averaging from seven to ten dollars per day, and amounted all together, to from seven to eight thousand dollars.

But the most singular part of the affair is, that this clerk had not, as is usually the course in such cases, squandered the money thus obtained, in riotous living, but had actually invested it, or the greater portion of it, in safe and solid security. About three thousand dollars had been placed in a mortgage upon a dwelling house, while a further considerable sum had been given to a young lady to whom he had been engaged to be married, who by his directions, had invested it in a Savings Bank, for future use. Of course the lady had no knowledge of the peculiar way by which the money was obtained.

All the accumulation of his three years of crime, the clerk has promptly returned to his master, who, before the discovery, was nearly in a failing condition, but is now rather unexpectedly placed in a situation to meet all his engagements. We do not understand that any arrest has been made in the case.

☞ We are much obliged to the publishers, Messrs. McFarland & Jenks, of the Concord Statesman, for a copy of "The New Hampshire Legislative Manual for 1857"—a very "neat and handy" little pocket companion. It contains the votes of New Hampshire, by towns, for Governor in 1856 and '57, and for President; lists of Members of Congress, Councillors, and Senators, with their majorities and politics; list of members of the Legislature, with their politics; and a statement of the Congressional and Senatorial Districts.

PITTSBURG, PA., April 14.—A disastrous fire broke out in South Pittsburg this morning. It originated accidentally in the planing mill of James Millinger, destroyed the entire building, and about 2,000,000 feet of seasoned lumber; also three adjoining dwellings. Millinger's loss is estimated at $80,000, of which $16,000 is insured.

The water in the channel of the river at this point measures 10 feet 4 inches, and is falling.

☞ The Christian Era, the Baptist paper in Boston, has stood up for Mr. Kalloch from first to last, and believes that a conspiracy was formed to ruin him. Perhaps there was; but conspiracies can't ruin a man, or his name, half so quick as he can himself.

GRAPES.—Those wishing to procure grape vines of an extra quality, should read the advertisement of Mr. Blood, of Newburyport, in another column. His seedling has become celebrated, and is very popular, at home.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Iowa Election.—The election returns from Iowa indicate the success of the Republican candidates for State officers by a majority equal to the November election.

ALBANY, April 14.—At our charter election to-day, the Democrats elected a majority of the officials.

A MAN may be so forgetful as not to be able to distinguish other ladies from his wife, unless she keep a wafer stuck on the end of her nose, and even then may occasionally mistake; but a mother can never forget that Lawrence's Carminative cured her Child of Colic, Sore mouth, &c.

☞ Dr. Clarke's valuable SHERRY WINE BITTERS, for medical quality, fine flavor, and cheapness, is far ahead of any other medicine sold. His agents sell daily an almost incredible quantity. all 1w

"BALM OF A THOUSAND FLOWERS"—A COUNTERFEIT. A person pretending to have been a partner with W. F. Fetridge in the above article, is palming off a spurious preparation on the public. All are counterfeits unless the name of FETRIDGE & Co., is written on the side, and W. F. FETRIDGE & Co., printed on the front of the label. The genuine article is for sale by all respectable Druggists, who frown down counterfeits and impostors.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

We know nothing of its merits save what we read, but that is sufficient, when we see such testimonials of its efficacy as the following which we clip from the Ottawa Free Trader:

"Having tried successively sundry highly recommended 'hair tonics' on our own bald denuded crown, we about lost all confidence in nostrums of that sort until a week ago we met a distinguished politician of this State whom we had seen three years ago with thin hair, and as 'gray as a rat,' but now boasting as fine a head of hair as one could wish. We demanded the secret of his improved appearance, when he readily accounted for it by ascribing it to the virtues of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We shall try that next."—[Rock River Democrat.

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

It will bring early crops of peas, beans, potatoes, sweet corn, &c., and for lawns and grass plots is unrivalled. The small quantity used and ease of application render it very economical. TEMPERANCE GROCERS.

The earth moves,—and some things on it move also.—Thirty years ago, when Messsrs, Barker & Wiggin, then Grocers in Portsmouth, gave up the sale of liquor at their store, it was thought to be a perilous experiment. No grocery store had every existed here without rum; it was doubted if one ever could.

Practically, they found their loss quite serious; yet never repented the change, but went into other business.

One or two attempts were made soon after, to establish temperance groceries here, but they were short lived.

Leaving untouched all the little haps and mishaps to the temperance cause and to business, which have occurred in the mean time, let us go out on Market Square and look at the city, to find a half dozen Temperance Groceries, where families can get supplies, without the sale of spirits.

We head the list with the name of the oldest grocer in the city, highly respected as a man of honor and honesty, and by no means committed to any fanatical notions about temperance or law. We mean, as every one knows, Mr. Stephen Pearse.

Besides him, we name:

Benj. Carter, jr., Exchange Buildings.
Joseph B. Chase, Market Square.
Frederick W. Rogers, Congress street.
Samuel Donnell, do.
William Bodge, do.
Samuel Moses, Pleasant street.
Rufus K. Oxford, State street.
A. A. Payne, Market street.
N. E. P. Union Store, do.
Joseph Harvey & Son, do.
Asa S. Tilton, do.
J. B. Upham & Co., (wholesale,) do.

Here are thirteen, certainly; and we may have omitted one or more. If so, and if the keeper thereof will notify us of the fact, we will gladly add to the list;—and moreover, all who place themselves on it will of course be exempted from Uncle Toby's general complaint, when he gets ready to make it. We may add that nearly all the above are among our subscribers and advertisers, as are also some of the others.

P. & C. RAILROAD.

At the meeting of the Grantees of the P. & C. Railroad, held at the Court House, in this city, Wednesday, April 15, John Stavers was chosen Chairman and James M. Carr, Clerk.

On motion of W. H. Y. Hackett, it was resolved that the Act of 1855, incorporating the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad, be adopted.

Joseph D. Pillow was then chosen Clerk of the new corporation.

On motion of J. G. Hadley, it was

Resolved, That the capital stock of the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad shall be fixed at the sum of $250,000, and that the same shall be apportioned to the creditors of the Portsmouth & Concord Railroad, (named in the report of the committee of the bondholders, made and dated Feb. 3, 1857,) and the bondholders, upon the principles and terms set forth in the report aforesaid, which is signed by the following gentlemen:—C. L. Woodbury, C. L. Frost, Henry Waignwright, J. C. Plummer, T. D. Bailey.

The following gentlemen were chosen as a Committee to procure subscriptions to the new stock:—C. L. Woodbury, C. L. Frost, John Smith.

The meeting then adjourned.

At a meeting of the Bondholders, and those interested in the "Iron loan," held immediately after the above adjournment, W. H. Y. Hackett was chosen Chairman, and John Knowlton, Clerk.

On motion of Mr. Thompson, of Charlestown, Mass., the Report of the Committee of the Bondholders was accepted; and a paper was ready for the subscriptions named.

CHANGES.—It will be observed that our well-filled advertising columns give notice of a change in the livery business at the Stone Stable, and also in the Lumber business on Union Wharf.

Messrs. C. H. & W. O. Sides have bought the livery stock of Messrs. Fernald, and and leased their excellent stable; and will do their share, the coming summer, to accommodate the public with good teams. They are well posted in horse-flesh, and all that appertains thereto; we have always found them accommodating and reasonable; and we wish them the best success.

The firm of Dennett & Sides, in the Hacking business, we learn is to continue as heretofore.

It will also be seen that Messrs. Wm. Fernald, jr., and Son are prepared to furnish any quantity of lumber, of all sorts, to suit.

☞ The youths' Temperance Meeting, at the Temple, on Wednesday afternoon, was well attended and the audience was addressed by Drs. Peabody and Lamson, and Rev. Messrs Whiting, Holman, and others.

FROM EUROPE—3 DAYS LATER.

NEW YORK, April 14.

The Hamburg steamer Barussia, from Hamburg, arrived at this port, this afternoon, bringing Hamburg dates of the 1st inst. and London and Liverpool (by telegraph) of the 31st ult.

Consols closed on the 30th at 93 3-4 for money.

Cotton at Liverpool firm at unchanged prices; sales for two days 10,000 bales.

In the absence of English papers we have no political news from Great Britain.

FRANCE.—It seems to be certain that Prince Napoleon will meet the Grand Duke Constantine at Toulon.

The number of Russian nobles sojourning at France is daily increasing. Many, amongst them the Director General of the Police of St. Petersburg, will depart next Monday for Toulon, for the solemn reception of the Grand Duke Constantine.

At Lyons, numerous political arrests had taken place. It is said that the police have discovered a secret society, whose members have joined for the purpose of furthering the election of the well-known republican and celebrated physician, Raspail, but who is not eligible under the new election law.

SPAIN.—The election for the Cortez, began on the 25th of March, and the prospects were favorable for a victory to the government.

The Infant Don Enrique, brother of the King, has been ordered to quit Spain and go to France, because he declared for the Progressionists.

DENMARK.—Copenhagen, March 30.—To-day, the French Ambassador at this Court, has exchanged the ratification of the Sound Dues Treaty on the part of his government.

On the 28th inst., a provisional decree on the transit Dues was published by the Minister of Foreign Affairs.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1843, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnappe." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnappe" is the German for drink—Cogne, Drum—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such man should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN

Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is a delicious tonic beverage, and by its peculiar flavor (so different from other gins) is universally esteemed by all who use it. It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most valuable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

FAST MEN VS. FAST HORSES.—Worth lies not alone in silver or gold. It takes more than the tailor and barber to make a man. Virtue and true nobleness of character is oftener found among the poor and lowly than with the rich and mighty.—Happiness depends not upon this world's goods, so much as on contentment and right living. Knowledge is confined to no class with us. Side by side, the poor man's son of genius outshines the rich man's dunce. Fast men, like fast horses, are short lived. The latter are driven until they are broken down; the former break themselves down by fast driving. The latter are to be pitied, the former censured. Of the two, the fast horse is the most profitable if not the better animal.

RECOGNIZING PROVIDENCE.—A short time since there was a very destructive fire in Mobile, Ala., which destroyed some 12,000 bales of cotton. When the news reached the interior, a gentleman who had quite a large amount of cotton in the city, took immediate measures to ascertain if he had sustained any loss. Upon learning that he had not, and upon consultation with his wife, he set apart $500, a donation to benevolent objects, as a thank-offering for Providential preservation.

SAD ACCIDENT UPON THE ICE.—A correspondent informs us that Captain William Fullerton, of Wolfborough, N. H., in company with Mr. John Bickford, started from Wolfborough last Friday evening for West Alton, to get a supply of rum. In crossing the ice both fell through, and Captain Fullerton was drowned. His body was recovered on Sunday. Capt. Fullerton was a man of some intellectual attainment, having been for several years a school teacher, an active church member, and leader of the Bible class and Sabbath school. For the last ten years, however, the habit of using strong drink has gained rapidly upon him, and the love of rum has brought him to a sorrowful end.—Travellet.

LIBERAL BEQUESTS.—We understand that Matthias Plant Sawyer, Esq., of Boston, who died a few days since, leaving a fortune of half a million of dollars, gave a legacy of $5,000, the interest forever to go for the purchase of books for the Free Library of Newburyport. Mr. Sawyer was a native of this city, and sprung from a family of that name in Belleville. We hear that among his other legacies is a house in Boston and $60,000 to a lady formerly of this city, and $50,000 more to a child of that lady.—Newburyport Herald.

SEEING THE ELEPHANT.—A few days since, one Stephen C. Stone, of Waltham, Mass., arrived in Philadelphia, and after falling in company with three young men, concluded to accompany them in order to see the city and its outskirts. Unfortunately for the Massachusetts stranger, he got into bad company, and in a short time was robbed of $60 in money. One of the three rascals engaged in the affair has since been arrested and sent to prison. About $20 of the money was found on his person.

SHOCKING AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—About two weeks since, as Mr. William Wilber, of Swansey, Mass., was about unyoking his oxen after plowing, they suddenly started, and the hook of the chain becoming entangled in his sleeve, entered his arm and tore it down to his fingers in a shocking manner. Before his extrication could be effected he was dragged around considerably. Notwithstanding surgical aid, lockjaw supervened and terminated his life.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY, solicitor of Patents,

(Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837.)

No. 76 State st. oppo. Kilby st, Boston,

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britian, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on Reasonable Terms, with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions, and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given are but a few of those received by me.

AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant proof of his skill, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of foreign and domestic works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office, and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most competent and trustful practitioners at with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,

Commissioner of Patents.

OR

CHILD'S PAIN-KILLER.

THIS Invaluable Preparation is a favorite selection prescription of the most eminent physicians of the Medical Faculty in New England, and one who has been as successful as any other in the treating of

and it has been used with never failing success. The Carminative is emphatically and is the only child's medicine in this country; intended to relieve pain, and give rest to the anxious mother. It is free from the injurious use of Paregoric, a remedy sure to be followed by a "Dose of Physic."

The ingredients of which the Carminative is compounded are known to the Medical Faculty, and it is now extensively used, and approbated by the Physicians living in the vicinity of the Laboratory, where opportunity has been had to test its virtues.

The Carminative is offered in full confidence for the rapid cure of Colic, Pain in the Bowels, Wind in the Stomach and Bowels, Green Stools, Diarrhœa, Nervous Affections, Sore Mouth, Restlessness, and other disorders incident to Weaning and Teething; sure to regulate derangements of the Stomach and Bowels, which often afflict young children, and prostrate their Constitutions; relieve Pain and give tone, energy and strength to the whole system.

Due regard has been taken to have the price of the Carminative so low as to be within the reach of all.

and parents who value rest not laid to buy a bottle, as they may depend upon its giving relief to "worrisome children."

Sold by country traders and all Apothecaries throughout the United States and Canada.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

MR. W. F. LAWRENCE,—Dear Sir:—Having made trial of your Carminative, in several severe and very critical cases of bowel Complaints, attended with Prolapsus, with entire success, and from a knowledge of its virtues, I cheerfully recommend it for the complaints for which it is designed, as the best medicine in use with me I am acquainted.—A medicine of this kind has long been needed, and I doubt not will be a favorite with all mothers and the Medical Faculty as soon as known.

JOHN P. BATCHELDER, M. D.

Epping, July 23, 1853.

MR. LAWRENCE:—Dear Sir—I have used your "Cherry Pectoral," and "Carminative" ever since they were first introduced by you, and am now purchasing them by the gallon. They have proved themselves as powerful in every case of trial, and I regard them as very valuable medicines.

Yours truly, JOSEPH DALTON, M. D.

Brentwood, Aug. 10, 1853.

Mr. W. F. LAWRENCE—Dear Sir: We find your Carminative to be a very valuable medicine for the diseases incident to infancy,—a class of complaints which often baffle the skill of experienced physicians.

Hutchins' Hair Dye.

The very best now in use, as the many thousands that have tried it will testify.

THE great superiority of this Dye consists in its easy application, having but one preparation. It also contains twice as much as any other, and sold at a much less price. This Dye imparts to the hair the most natural color of any yet discovered; and instead of injuring it, gives it the beauty and elasticity of youth. This Dye is having the largest sale of any Dye in the market, and is warranted to give better satisfaction than any yet offered to the public.

MELANGE.

Messrs. Editors:—In my rambles around the globe, I occasionally gather an anecdote or two, which seem new to me. I will send you a few occasionally, and you can use them if they suit. NAUTA.

In the town of Ipswich, a number of years ago, there lived a person who was not blessed with more brains than usually fall to most men, and who had never visited a place of public worship. One evening there was to be a prayer meeting at the house where our simplo-minded friend resided, and he was cautioned to keep perfectly still. The meeting was opened with an exciting prayer from the minister, who was very zealous. As the prayer progressed, Enos grew restless and uneasy, moved on his seat, waved his hand, and used various means to attract the attention of the devout pastor, till at last unable to bear it longer, he shouted, "Hold tongue, hold tongue, Holbrook—d—n fool—meeting here tonight!" The meeting broke up in confusion, much to the astonishment of the innocent cause. Still Enos was not the biggest fool, in all things, that ever lived.—He was very fond of the caudal appendage of a pig, and was accustomed to beg that part of the swine from his neighbors when they slaughtered one, and if for any reason he was allowed to cut it off himself, he always took care to get full as much as belonged to it, and generally four or five pounds additional.

Many years since, in the only seaport town of one of our Eastern States, was a flourishing establishment for the joiner's work of ships. Every morning, without fail, the grog was passed round several times before breakfast, and but one cause of complaint was furnished to the men; that was, every morning, at an unseasonable hour, sometimes as early as three o'clock, "the old man" would go out in the yard, and, taking a long strip of battening, strike it flat against the side of the house where the men slept, startling them from sleep, and rousing them from their beds. His son, a wild youth, did not exactly fancy this, and so handed one of the men a long-handled mallet, telling him to watch, and when "the old man" struck the house on the outside, he should strike the centre of the sash inside. About the time the crash was expected, the man took his station, and soon heard "the old man" outside; he raised the mallet, the battening came whack against the outside; crash went the mallet inside, demolishing both sashes and startling "the old man."

The ruse succeeded admirably, for the old man, thinking that he had broken the glass himself, concluded to desist from such costly experiments in future.

"Mother, you must mend the seat of my trousers to-day; the Committee's coming in this afternoon, and we're going to have an examination."

☞ Speaking of Spiritualism, and its growing popularity, the Christian Era says that "no small portion of these thousands are of that class who have an all-controlling desire for the marvellous. They are more ready to hear 'the gospel' from some brainsick 'medium,' than from the lips of Paul, or even Jesus himself. Hence the Bible is quite too antiquated for them."

ARREST FOR DRUNKENNESS.—The Republican states that that the usually quiet village of Milford, N. H., was thrown into quite an excitement on Wednesday evening, by the screeches of a woman who was arrested near the "Acre" for drunkenness. Half a dozen women of different nations got together, and managed to get some liquors, of which all partook rather freely. They soon commenced throwing the dishes at each other, and having a general row. Constables were called upon, and arrested a Mrs. Jackson and committed her to the lobby, she screeching at the top of her voice, and exerting herself to get away.—She plead guilty, and was sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment. The Republican hopes that every man or woman who is found intoxicated will be arrested and required to disclose where they got their liquor or be committed to jail. That course would break up a nuisance near the northeast boundary of Milton, and over the line in Amherst. It is said that impositions have been practiced on the Agent for the sale of liquors in Milford, which will render it necessary for him to refuse to sell, except to persons that he knows want it for proper purposes.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label. "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."
To give customers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea	2 50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee	1 00
5 lb. Oolong do.	1 75	5 lb. Java do.	90
5 lb. Y. Hyson do.	2 25	8 lb good do.	1 00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.
SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.
DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.
TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of Coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.
The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as beats suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Billious affections, &c., &c.
☞ Be careful to observe that all our Taraxacum has our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called Taraxacum, in the market.
☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.
☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

Morning Chronicle.

FRIDAY, APRIL 17, 1857.

AFFAIRS OF UTAH.

Judge W. W. Drummond, of Chicago, late Chief Justice at Utah, recently arrived at New Orleans on his way home from his resigned judgeship. He has a most contemptible opinion of the modern "Saints" or "followers of the modern Mahomet," as he calls them, with whom he says "hatred of the Gentiles" is the most stringent faith and belief, the right of private property is entirely ignored and almost unknown, and what is still worse, the entire subserviency of the bodies and wills of the wretched and deluded followers and victims of Mormonism to all the acts and commands of their spiritual masters and advisers. He says if a father has a child, fair and innocent, whom he loves and cherishes, and if she captivates the fancy of some leading Mormon, she will be taken from her home by the decree of the elders, and given up by the ceremony of "sealing," to become the fortieth or fiftieth wife to an old villain; while her predecessors, who have grown old in the same guilty and abominable connection, become his household or cornfield servants. It often happens that a man is sealed to two women at the same ceremony, and cases are not rare when one of the wives so acquired is lost by a divorce before breakfast next morning.

The Judge cites other cases of barbarity and vice, which it is not necessary to repeat. He has addressed a letter to Attorney General Black, resigning his seat on the bench for the following reasons:

In the first place, Brigham Young, the Governor of Utah territory, is the acknowledged head of the "Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints," commonly called "Mormons," and as such the Mormons look to him alone for the law by which they are to be governed; therefore no law of Congress is by them considered as binding in any manner.

Secondly. I know that there is a secret, oath-bound organization among all the male members of the church, to acknowledge no law save the law of the "Holy Priesthood, which comes to the people through Brigham Young, direct from God, he, Young, being the vicegerent of God and prophetic successor of Joseph Smith, who was the founder of this blind and treasonable organization.

Thirdly. I am fully aware that there is a set of men set apart by special order of the church to take both the lives and property of persons who may question the authority of the church (the names of whom I will make known at a future time.)

Fourthly. That the records, papers, &c., of the Supreme Court have been destroyed by order of the church, with direct knowledge and approbation of Governor B. Young, and the federal officers grossly insulted for presuming to raise a single question about the treasonable act.

Fifthly. That the federal officers of the territory are constantly insulted, harassed and annoyed by the Mormons, and for these insults there is no redress.

Sixthly. That the federal officers are daily compelled to hear the form of the American government traduced, the chief executives of the nation, both living and dead, slandered and abused from the masses, as well as from all the leading members of the church, in the most vulgar, loathsome and wicked manner that the evil passions of man can possibly conceive.

This letter has already moved the administration. So we infer from the fact that an army order has been issued withdrawing Gen. Harney from Florida, and commanding him to repair without delay to Fort Leavenworth, to assume the command of that post. Special instructions will be addressed to him at that point from the War Department. We unite with a contemporary in the hope that those instructions will be of the most decided character, and that Brigham Young, in his strongold of infamy, will be taught to know there is law above him, and that the Mormon hot-bed of pollution in [illegible] be broken up to give place to morality. It is time that this [illegible] the surface of the United States [illegible]ed out. General Harney is [illegible] to meet Brigham Young and [illegible] as he deserves, if he is sup[illegible] government.

[illegible] principle of squatter sovereignty which we have heard much [illegible] is not seem to work very well among the Mormons.

[illegible]iece of nonsense, about our ob[illegible] admit new States, is also placed [illegible]ulous light, when we look towards Jolly Nat Baker, former democratic [illegible]or of New Hampshire, is doing well [illegible]self in his new home at Clinton, [illegible] The town is not two years old, and [illegible]s made some $15,000 by his invest[illegible] there. So says the Patriot.

☞ Purser Caleb J. Emery of Nashua [illegible] been ordered to China, to report for [illegible]y on board the Levant.

ANOTHER SPECIMEN of the evil effects of some habits of society, was exhibited to us on Thursday morning. When we got into the cars at Newburyport, to come home, —among the passengers was a crew of fifteen sailors, bound for the English steamer at Portland. We were told that they had been passing a bottle round among themselves pretty freely, ever since leaving Boston; and had consequently been making considerable noise and fuss.

Presently, before we had crossed Newburyport Bridge, the train stopped, and everybody got out to see what was the matter. It appeared that one of the drunken sailors had fallen between two cars in going from one to the other; and part of the train passed over him. One arm was crushed off, and he was much bruised and bloody, and remained insensible when the train started on.

His name we learned was James Powers, —a native of Bristol, England; and he had recently arrived in Boston in the ship Jumna from Calcutta. We judged his age to be not far from 35 years.

We were also surprised and grieved to find in this same crew, a Portsmouth boy, and a printer withal, and one of the best fellows and printers we ever knew, too—who, but for this habit of drinking, might earn wages equal to those of almost any mechanic in the land.

The sailors were afterwards placed in a car by themselves, and locked in,—regardless of the earnest protestations of one of them. We left our old friend the printer, with a heavy heart; and could not but ask, with a gentleman who sat near us in the cars after the accident, Who is responsible for these things?

☞ One of the Police of Newburyport, was called upon a few evenings since, to go to the North part of the city, and take care of a man who was apparently in a dying condition. The officer went to the place, and found the man insensible, and removed him to the watch house, where by kind attention he came to his senses, and gave his name, and the manner in which he came to such a condition, as near as he could remember. He is a sea captain, belonging eastward, and has a vessel in Newburyport, undergoing repairs. The Herald says he had about ninety dollars, when he came there, which was all taken from him; and it is the opinion of the physician that he was drugged. He is now in a helpless condition, at the Alms House, where he has been placed by his friends.

☞ The Dalton case commenced in the Supreme Court of Boston, on Tuesday, Judge Merrick presiding. R. H. Dana, Jr. appeared for Dalton, and Rufus Choate and H. F. Durant for Mrs. Helen Dalton, in opposition to her husband's petition. The divorce was claimed on the ground that the wife, who before the Shawmut Alley affair, bore a good character, committed adultery with Wm. Sumner, late of Milton: and in opposition, she responds by a flat denial, and wholesale charges of adultery on his part with various persons and in divers places. The trial will perhaps cause revelations, not creditable to either, and of no advantage to the public.

ANOTHER CLERGYMAN IN TROUBLE.—Rev. O. P. Farrington, a methodist clergyman of North Cohasset, is undergoing an examination before a council, for lying, adultery, and exposure of person, charged by a member of his church. The matter has been before a church council, and Mr. Farrington has not preached for two weeks. He manfully asserts his innocence, but notwithstanding this there are many of his society who believe the charges are well founded. He is about thirty-five years of age, and has a wife and seven children. The church over which he presided comprises about one hundred membres. —Lowell News.

The trial resulted in a disagreement—but the man leaves town, and may be considered discharged, as no legal process has been commenced against him.

WORCESTER, April 15.—Oscar D. Phelps, who has stolen horses in North Brookfield, Worcester, Concord, and Southbridge, Mass., and in Rhode Island, was arrested to-day, at Indian Orchard, in Springfield. He will be brought to this city to-morrow, and examined on Friday, before the Police Court. Phelps has been in the State Reform School, and is only 18 years of age.

CHICAGO, April 14.—A collision occurred at Milwaukie, on Friday, between two Deputy United States Marshals and the Sheriff of Milwaukie county, relative to the property of Mr. Booth, editor of the Free Democrat. No violence was used on either side, and sheriff retained the property. The affair is in continuance of the Garland slave case.

A fire at Lacrosse, Wisconsin, on the 8th instant, destroyed the flour and planing Mill of White, Dyer & Gregory. Loss $30,000 insured $13,000.

Judge Goodenow, of the Supreme Court of Maine, in answer to the application from the Senate of that State, has given an opinion that colored persons three months resident in the State, are entitled to vote.

VESSELS ASHORE ON PLUM ISLAND.—The Newburyport Herald states that two vessels were driven ashore on the Island, during the gale on Thursday. Sch. Alma, 71 tons, of and for Parsboro,' N. S., for Boston, loaded with wood, took the gale off Portland, and at 10 o'clock, A. M., on Tuesday, went ashore on Plum Island, opposite the "Half-way House," about the same spot where the Pocahontas was lost. Crew saved. No insurance on vessel or cargo.

Sch. Loella, 87 tons, Capt. Webber, from Bristol, Me., for Gloucester, loaded with wood, took the gale of Boon Island—made Halibut Point, her first land, close on the rocks—wore ship, and commenced throwing over deck load.—After trying to beat off shore, dropped both anchors, lost one and went ashore at 2 o'clock, P. M., Tuesday, within a few rods of the Alma. Lost boat, stove galley, and started planks. No insurance. Crew saved.

☞ By the destruction of a bridge at Raymond, by the rain and freshet on Tuesday night, the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad Trains were interrupted for a short time.

Built expressly for the New England States.

THE MANNY MOWER has been extensively used for the past two years in New England, and more than six years at the West.—Its success is beyond that of any other Mower or Reaper ever constructed. Over 150 1st Premiums have been awarded it, including the Grand 1st Class Silver Medal at the WORLD'S FAIR, PARIS, 1856.

With the two past years' experience, we have been enabled to make a number of very important improvements. We find New England farmers require a different Machine from other sections;—the fields generally being much smaller, they set the same time power great strength; portable, with facilities to raise the cutters to pass obstructions, and to remove from field to field. A perfect cutting apparatus, to cut the fine grasses without clogging, and so constructed as to start in the grass without backing, easily adjusted to cut high or low; and have a Reel to cut equally well with or against the wind, and to be worked with ease by a light team, and so easily managed and simple that any one of common ability may operate it successfully, and to be built in the most thorough manner.

With this knowledge of the farmers' requirements, and with the determination to build a better Machine than has ever been constructed in this country, we offer the Manny Mower of 1857 with confidence, as combining the qualities enumerated above, and as the particularly adapted to meet the wants of New England farmers.

☞ We invite the farmers to call and examine Machines, before purchasing elsewhere. Circulars, with testimonials, forwarded FREE, on application.

Poudrette, Guano, &c.

FARMERS and Citizens having Gardens will find the IMPROVED POUDRETTE one of the best fertilizers, as well as the cheapest substitute for manure where there is difficulty in procuring sufficient for garden and farm purposes.—Its chief recommendations are, that it is neat, inoffensive, contains no seeds of weeds, is very quick and powerful in its operation upon vegetation, and at the same time is so harmless that it can be put in direct contact with the seed or plant without injury, which is totally unlike other fertilizers. It will bring early crops of peas, beans, potatoes, sweet corn, &c., and for lawns and grass plots is unrivalled. The small quantity used and ease of application render it very economical. The price for 1 barrel is $2; over 6 bbls, $1 85 per bbl.

LOCAL.

☞ The Counting-Room, Composition Room, and Editors' Room of the Chronicle, are for the present at the Journal Office. We print in our own Press-Room, and may be found there, morning and evening.

NEWSPAPERS, AND NEW PAPERS.—Amidst the continual unions and consolidations of newspapers, political and literary, which we notice as taking place in all parts of New England, of late—we have been hearing rumors and threats of the establishment of new papers in Portsmouth, for the past month or two, and especially during the last week. First, some disaffected Democrats were to establish (or at least start) a new paper, in opposition to the Gazette—which was to be Daily, according to some stories, and Weekly, at any rate. We haven't seen it, yet.

And now, since the temperance movements of the last few days, some of the "Temperance, but no Maine Law" folks, wish for a new Daily, devoted to their interests. One gentleman has even gone so far as to guarantee five dollars toward this object—enough to pay for the white paper for a small edition.

For the information of all interested, we will state that the cost of printing even a small-sized paper like the Chronicle, is from $15 to $20 per day, for a thousand copies; or, say, five thousand dollars per year. If anybody has got this amount which they want to sink, next year, here is a chance. Who says I?

MORE TEMPERANCE GROCERS.—We are informed that we omitted some, viz.:

E. Wolcott, corner of Vaughan and Deer streets.
Charles A. Wiggin, corner Dennett and North streets.
John Hodgdon, Congress street.
James Junkins, Market street.

We are glad to make these additions, bringing the number up to seventeen, twice as many as we supposed. Here then, the old plea is used up, which said, "we cannot live and maintain our families without selling rum." These 17 stores live; and failures have occurred no more frequently among them, than among those who sell liquors.

☞ Temperance aspects and prospects, in this city, have never been more favorable, since our recollection, than at the present writing. The Youth's Pledge effort has begun so well, that it must have some valuable progress. There is a movement now in progress, to get up a petition extensively signed by ladies, that our own city government will vigilantly execute the laws for the suppression of intemperance and assault. And a meeting of gentlemen is to take place for a similar object, as soon as a convenient day can be named.

ADVERTISING.—We observe in one of our late city papers, an anonymous correspondent growling because somebody else has received a "puff," as he terms it.—Well, now while we never said what we didn't believe, of any man, and can't be hired to; yet we won't even "say a good word for" one, as a general thing, if we do believe it, unless we are paid for it.—Why should we, when our columns must furnish us a living? Nor is it reasonable for a trader to expect for $25, as much advertising as another gets for $75.

A CHANCE.—Messrs. Editors:—To capitalists and all others seeking an opportunity for a profitable investment of their funds, an opportunity offers itself at this time, in a new mill privilege in Lyme st., near the Sagamore Mill. Strangers and all others who have occasion to travel in that section of the city, are particularly invited to give their attention to it; and for the safety of all, and the legs and necks of horses and cattle, and the vehicles attached, I would suggest that the Mayor or Street Commissioner order that it be fenced in strongly, or enclosed in some substantial manner until it finds a purchaser. It also would serve as a protection to those who visit it from curiosity. There are continually objects presented for the interest and diversion of our citizens; but this being of new and important interest, I beg permission to call attention to it through the columns of your favorite sheet. OBSERVER.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

EXETER, April 15th.

The Court of Common Pleas commenced a spring session here on Tuesday forenoon, Judge Sawyer presiding. The forenoon was occupied in calling the docket, which is unusually small, containing less than 300 cases. In the afternoon, No. 28, Clark et als. v. Wood et als., was commenced, but was afterwards postponed till Thursday morning.

Today the case Hall v. Young is on trial.

KANSAS.—St. Louis, April 14.—The Lecompton correspondence of the Democrat says the appointment of Hon. Robert J. Walker as governor of Kansas gives great dissatisfaction. It is regarded as favorable to the formation of a slave state. The instructions to carry out the census rouses general indignation. The letter also says that a spirit of violence and reckless lawlessness is beginning to be exhibited under the new administration.

Disasters.—The steamer Rescue was sunk on the 10th inst., caused by coming in contact with the Rock Island bridge.—Several other steamboats have also been injured from the same since the resumption of navigation.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The New Granada Difficulties.—The Administration have been officially advised by Messrs. Morse and Bowler, of their unsuccessful efforts to treat with the Government of New Granada. The affairs of the Isthmus were to-day a matter of Cabinet consultation, and excluded all other subjects. Our government is resolved that American rights in that quarter shall be respected. It will shortly send thither four or five vessels, with such instructions, to the commanders, as will, it is believed, consummate the object, and lead to the settlement of the existing difficulties. The Administration are determined to take a decided stand.

The Third Naval Court of Inquiry will meet next Monday. It is composed of Captains Kearney, Newton, and Storer, neither of whom was promoted by the last retiring Board.

FIRE.—Three houses on West street, Georgetown, including that of Commodore Cassin, were destroyed by fire, this afternoon, and another considerably damaged. Loss $30,000. This fire was the most destructive that has occurred in Georgetown for thirty years.

A CHARGE OF MISAPPROPRIATION.—An official letter from one of the Secretaries of the National Kansas Committee states positively that no clothing contributed for the relief of the free-state people of Kansas, and confided to the National Kansas Committee, has been sold by their authority for any purpose whatever. We do not see how the contradictions could be more explicit or thorough.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded in the year 1848, in making a discovery in this manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will join me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession

It is put up in quart and pints, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants.

It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

HOUSE ROBBER ARRESTED AT NASHUA.—Keys to the Bank Taken.—Lately several houses at Nashua have been entered and robbed. The Manchester Mirror states that on Sunday, after meeting, the wife of John M. Hunt, Cashier of the Nashua Bank, discovered that the back door was unfastened, and notified Mr. Hunt. He was suspicious something wrong was going on, and went to look for the keys of the Bank, which were kept in a bag. He found that the door and vault keys were gone, and that a chain had been put in the place of them, but the key to the safe inside of the vault was not gone. His daughter happened to go up stairs, found J. O. E. Bradford under the bed, and she gave the alarm. He ran down the back stairs and Mr. Hunt caught him. He had put the keys under the pillow of the bed. He says he went into the house the night before and had romained there. On examining his trunk at his boarding house, goods stolen from the house of Dr. Graves and others, were found. He was arrested, and examined on Monday.

The chief evil of the liquor traffic is social, public and promiscuous drinking.—Men usually drink only to excess when they drink in crowds. The suppression of tippling houses prevents this sort of drinking, but does not interfere at all with the citizen's right to drink at home or to carry his bottle in his pocket and drink whenever he pleases.

CLINCHING THE NAILS.—Louisiana has passed the following law:—

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Louisiana in general assembly convened, That from and after the passage of this act, no slave shall be emancipated in this State.—Approved March 6, 1857."

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. Tansey & Co. are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present in the city of Baltimore. Another, which the managers call attention to, is, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that State, the yearly drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication comes to hand. The prices of tickets are from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of putting number on each ticket (after the lottery has been drawn) and tabulation. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

(Late Assignee of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, under the act of 1836.)

No. 76 State st, opp. Kilby st, Boston,

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions,—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, not possessed by, or not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that one of the REASONS WHY THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent Office, and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and have no hesitation in asserting invention which cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in form to secure for them a legal and invorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the Present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R.H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in my investment, the interests of parties at a distance being as well protected as if they were present. The Manager would respectfully call attention to the fact that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Georgia, as the lotteries of Samuel Swan & Co. are authorized by the Legislature of that State. A lottery will be drawn every Saturday throughout the year, all orders received being filled in the drawing next to take place after the same comes to hand. According to the scheme one ticket in every ten must draw a prize. Tickets are $10; halves, $5; quarters, $2.50. No tickets sent unless the money accompanies the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket, and are so simple that none can fail to understand them. There is no combination of numbers to mystify the buyer. Prizes vary from $40 to $30,000, or other prize being drawn, and result of drawing forwarded to all purchasers.

☞ A list of the numbers that are drawn from the wheel, with the amount each prize is entitled to, will be published after every drawing, in the following papers:—New Orleans Delta, Mobile Register, Charleston Standard, Nashville Gazette, Atlanta Intelligencer, and New York Weekly Day Book. Write your address plainly, and direct to S. SWAN & Co., Atlanta, Georgia.

Prizes paid in full—no percentage deducted from prizes in other lotteries.

and it has been used with never failing success.

A CHILD'S MEDICINE,

and is the only child's medicine in this country; intended to do away with the excessive and injurious use of alcohol, as a remedy sure to be followed by a "Dose of Physic."

Sold by country traders and all Apothecaries throughout the United States and Canada.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

MR. W. F. LAWRENCE,—Dear Sir:—Having made trial of your Carminative, in several severe and very critical cases of Bowel Complaints, attended with Fevers, with entire success, and from a knowledge of its virtues, I cheerfully recommend it for the complaints for which it is designed, as the best medicine with which I am acquainted, as a medicine of this kind has long been needed, and I doubt not will be a favorite with all mothers and the Medical Faculty as soon as known.

NATH'L BATCHELDER, M. D.

Epping, July 23, 1853.

MR. LAWRENCE:—Dear Sir—I have used your "Cherry Pectoral," and "Carminative" ever since they were first introduced by you, and am now purchasing them by the gallon. They have proved shortness of wind, with entire success, and I regard them as very valuable medicines.

Yours truly, JOSEPH DALTON, M. D.

Brentwood, Aug. 10, 1853.

MR. W. F. LAWRENCE—Dear Sir; We find your Carminative to be a very valuable medicine for the diseases incident to infancy,—a class of complaints which often baffle the skill of experienced physicians.

Hutchins' Hair Dye.

The very best now in use, as the many thousands that have tried it will testify.

THE great superiority of this Dye consists in its easy application, having but one preparation. It also contains twice as much as any other, and sold at a much less price. This Dye imparts to the hair the most natural color of any yet discovered; and instead of injuring, it gives it the beauty and elasticity of youth. This Dye is having the largest sale of any Dye in the market, and is warranted to give better satisfaction than any yet offered to the public.

A SCENE.—During one night last week, while a fine steamer was on her way up the river towards Pittsburg, a crash was heard in one of the state rooms of the ladies' cabin, followed by the shriek of the lady, who with her husband, occupied the state room. The ladies, of course, thought the boat might be blown up, snagged, or otherwise injured fearfully—and it was finally necessary for the husband of the lady whose screams had been heard, to appear at the door, not exactly in proper costume for receiving the calls of ladies, to explain that he, being a very portly and weighty gentleman, had taken the upper berth in the state room, and during the night, the support of the berth giving way, he had fallen, berth and all, upon his unfortunate wife, soundly sleeping below. She was not seriously injured, however, and the commotion at once subsiding, the affair affording a hearty laugh to all persons next day, of course. The Pittsburg Dispatch is responsible for the above.

We glean the following paragraphs from the Prohibitionist.

THE DIFFERENCE.—The New York Observer appeals for a list of the clergy in New York and Brooklyn, names, streets and numbers, and adding that "it can be done with very little trouble." True, for it only reaches 750 on the outside. We are after a list of the liquor sellers in the same city; and it is a very different matter—over fifteen thousand in New York alone!

It is said that Mr. Gough, who goes to Europe soon for three years, has applications before him to comply with which, would detain him in this country, two years.

At the close of his labors in Chicago, two hundred ladies presented Mr. Gough with a casket and gold to the value of $500.

Distillation of grain, having been prohibited in France, Spain, and Russia, a great impetus has been given to the gin trade in London, by importations into these countries.

A Total Abstinence Society has been formed under promising auspices in New Plymouth, in the colony of New Zealand.

The announcement that Neal Dow is about to visit Great Britain, awakens great enthusiasm among the friends of Temperance in that country.

Augustus Liebtruo, convicted of selling liquors without license and on Sunday, at Harrisburgh, Pa., fell in a fit while the Court was passing sentence upon him.

Correspondence of the Chicago Press.

HOW THE BORDER RUFFIANS TAKE THE CENSUS.—Lecompton, Kansas, March 25.—As the law of the Bogus Legislature for taking the census allows sheriffs and deputies four dollars per day for their trouble, there is a large number of them at work. They do not take much trouble with this census operation, getting all the information they want from their Pro-slavery friends, and setting down only such as they want. They refuse to insert any of the names of the Free State emigrants who have come in this spring, even of those who arrived early. They call them "transient."

The county courts instruct them to take no names unless the party has been a resident previous to the 15th instant. While this is the rule they observe toward Free State men, they are putting thousands of names on the list who have never lived in Kansas, and who never will. The names of all the members of the Shawnee Association, some thirty-five hundred, are on the list of voters. It is the same elsewhere. It is now seen that all the first and suspicions about the law are confirmed.—The law itself will even be grossly violated wherever it suits.

BRUSH UP YOUR OLD "PUBLISHMENT BOXES."—The boxes in our various churches, which some few years since were wont to be adorned on Sundays by notices of "intention of marriage," but which, by an act of the Maine Legislature some three or four years since,—abolishing the law requiring public notice to be given of such intentions—were done away with, are now likely to be re-instated to their old position. An act has passed to be engrossed in both branches of the Legislature re-establishing the old law. And we may once more look to see the crowds gather around the "publishment box" to see who are to be led to the (h)altar.—Portland Adv.

The New York Express gives an account of a Quaker wedding in high life, which appears to have been a wide departure from the rigid simplicity with which the ceremonies of the Society of Friends are generally conducted. Six bridesmaids officiated, and not only white satin, but ermine, rose-colored trimmings, and hoops of the usual enormous size, made a part of the bridal attire.

MURDER OF A WATCHMAN.—New York. April 15.—Policeman Stephen P. Hardenbrooks was last night murdered by two burglars, whom he had arrested in the act of robbery. He was stabbed in the back, and died soon afterwards. The murderers escaped.

BURDEN'S
Pressed Boat, Ship, Brad & Countersunk
Railroad Spikes
ARE well known in the United States, and are conspicuous for their regularity and finish, their unvarying uniformity of size, and for the excellent quality of iron from which they are made, to which may be attributed their rare strength. They are everywhere considered far superior to the hand made spike of common English iron, and inferior to nothing of the kind yet introduced to the public.

BOOK ON NEW GRANADA.

New Granada: Twenty Months in the Andes. By Isaac F. Holton, M. A., Professor of Chemistry and Natural History in Middlebury College. With Maps and Illustrations. New York: Harper & Brothers, publishers, Franklin Square, 1857. 8 vo. pp. 605.

There is at the present moment, a special reason why we should be interested in a reliable book on New Granada, viz.: that our government has a difference to adjust with that nation. And there is besides, a general reason of more importance, viz.: that it is pleasant to know something of all our American neighbors.

The occasion of writing this book will appear in the following extract from the author's preface:

The botanist can not study the productions of the torrid zone without a strong desire to see with his own eyes the regions of perpetual summer. This desire grows from year to year, but each succeeding year generally binds him closer to local duties and his home. In the case of the author, this centripetal force had not developed itself in due proportion to its antagonist, and a visit to the tropic world was the result.

His attention was directed more particularly to New Granada by the scantiness of botanical information on a region so profusely rich in plants. Not even a catalogue of a collector had appeared since the results of Humboldt's visit, at the beginning of this century, were given to the world.

Nor were the sources of general information on that republic much more copious or recent. Our libraries were found to contain several works on Colombia, written during that terrible struggle with the mother country which terminated, or, rather, took on a chronic form in 1825, but not a volume was to be found which had been written since New Granada had taken her place among the nations. No answer could be found to the inquiry what effect thirty years of liberty had produced on a land that had been till that time sealed up from all the world by Spanish despotism. This void in our geographical information was the determining cause of the journey narrated in this volume.

The author closes his preface thus:

The author claims of the publishers the right to make one more acknowledgment of obligation, and that is to themselves. The liberality with which they have acceded to every wish of his, involving outlays far beyond what was at first intended, is one of the most pleasing circumstances in the retrospect of the long and unremitted toil this day concluded. And if succeeding travellers shall find in the book that aid which the writer sought in vain, and the philanthropist shall feel his best sympathies aroused for one of the most liberal and free nations on the face of the globe, that toil will not be unrewarded.

The reader will expect to find a botanical book;—and so he will;—but yet not a book of dry botany wherein the author becomes shrivelled up into a mere specimen between the leaves of the volume. Far enough from this; it is easy and natural; and you get as good descriptions of men and manners, women and fashions, as if nought else were found there.

Speaking of some Poor Mountaineers near Bogota, he says:

The eastern border of this habitable slope is the paramo of Choachi. We might make the circuit of all this slope, occupied perhaps by 50 wood-selling families in huts and hovels, by traveling about 20 miles, without descending at any time to a spot as low as where we now stand. Our track would be nearly a circle.

All the space within it seems at first to be a forest, into which settlers have moved for the first time only a month ago, and have just cleared spots large enough to build on. But it would need but a single tree to dispel the illusion. In all that space there is not perhaps a trunk three inches in diameter, or a bough 20 feet above the ground. All is bushes—stunted, gnarled shrubs, that make a walk there a terrible monotony. We know no English name for any useful plant that will grow there, except potatoes and barley. Not even these are cultivated, and how and why people live there is an inexplicable mystery. With every desirable climate in the world within two days' journey of them, and land to be had any where for the asking, why do they live here?

As I must give a reason, I will venture on two. These people must live near Bogota. The same necessity that keeps some 20,000 wretches in New York, who must starve every winter, and live by their wits all summer, because they can not endure the terrible solitudes of a country town, compels these poor creatures to live where they can visit Bogota every few days. They would live on the plain, but there the ground is all taken up by large proprietors, who can grow rich by raising wheat or cattle, but who could make nothing by raising so cheap and useless a product as men. These weeds of the animal creation are suffered to grow, like other weeds, where the ground is not susceptible of cultivation.—And these poor people are indeed weeds—"creation's blot, creation's blank," not figuring either among producers or consumers. Had they not immortal souls, were they not susceptible of religion, education, and civilization, it were a pity some measures could not be taken to exterminate them, for I know of no creature in the animal kingdom that enjoys less and suffers more.

At Soacha, he visits a large plantation, and tells us,

Several small plows, without mouldboards, such as you find in the Bible Dictionary, were scratching up the rich black soil, and some men were laying a stone wall, substantial enough for the foundation of a house. Before me was the mansion, now deserted of the family; and hid in a hollow by its side were a saw-mill, the houses of some dependent families, and a quinine factory.

The director, M. Louis Godin, an intelligent French chemist, was domiciled, I was told, with a countrywoman of mine. I found her of pure African blood, and a very favorable specimen of her race. She bore in youth the name of Joanna Jackson, and thirteen years ago had a mother living in Haverstraw, to whom she said she would gladly send a hundred or two of dollars if she knew she was living. She said that when she left the people were talking of voting for General Jackson and Mr. Van Buren, but she conjectures the general must be dead by this time. In the interim she has been over Ireland, England, Germany, and Russia, as a servant, and is now a lady in New Granada, and has her white servant. Of the two persons who can make quinine on a large scale in New Granada, she is one.

The author gives the following sketch of Schools in Ibague:

The public schools of Ibague are the Provincial College, a boys' school, and a girls' school. I visited the latter on the third day of its session. It was the most pleasant sight I have seen in New Granada. The school had been burned out. It was now in a clean, new house. The girls were all seated on the floor in clean dresses, and as still and orderly as could be desired. Sewing and praying are two important branches in the female schools here.—Fortunately, they were engaged in the former. Lately, theology has received a severe check in this province. The gobernacion has banished from all the schools the catechism of Father Astete, the longest, dullest, and most orthodox of all the school catechisms. There are not less than three others in the schools, but these are forbidden every day but Saturday. Some in these schools learn to pray, but not to read.

The girls in this school were all young—none, perhaps, as old as twelve. All were learning to read, but scarcely any two had the same book. They were as diverse in their topics as would be Baxter's "Saint's Rest," Gunn's "Domestic Medicine," "Report on the Tariff," Doddridge's "Rise and Progress," and Morgan's "Masonry Revealed." In one thing they all agreed: they were uninteresting to children, with perhaps one exception, a book written for the amusement of adults. A scandalous attack on the banished archbishop has been circulated by the government, and, it is said, used in schools as a reading-book.—I do not doubt it, nor that the still more impudent attack on the government by the Pope will be found in the same schools.—Such of the Spanish narratives of the Tract Society as do not attack the religion of this country would do good service.—One of them, "Theophilus and Sophia," was read with much interest in a school in Bogota. There is here a great want of children's books, and an absolute destitution of school-reading books.

Nor have they any good geography. In the colegio here it is not permitted to study geography till after algebra and geometry. I have a good test question: Where is Patagonia? Those who know are not surprised at my ignorance, as it is in South America, of which they suppose me profoundly ignorant. But in general I get, even from educated men, the conjecture that it is somewhere in Europe. One of the most intelligent of my acquaintances was talking to me of our Fishery Question, and I was unable to convince him that a British squadron was not stationed in Greenland. At this moment he thinks me badly posted up in this matter.

Of such familiar materials is made up a readable and reliable volume, making us believe that we really know something of a South American terra incognita. It is truly a valuable contribution to our historical and scientific literature.

FROM EUROPE.

THREE DAYS LATER.

The Cunard steamship Arabia arrived at New York on Thursday afternoon, with advices from Liverpool to the 4th inst.

The China mails had been received in England, and although peace was considered probable, it is not officially announced.

The preparations for the Atlantic telegraph are expected to be completed by the time originally named.

The whole line is to be shipped by the end of June, and the communication is hoped to be established by the middle of July.

There appears to be some doubt of the final result of the election. The ministerial papers claim a good working majority for the cabinet, and the anti-ministerial papers deny it.

Arrests have been made in Paris of persons charged with plotting to assassinate the Emperor.

SPAIN.—The Hofas Autographas says that Spain will not resort to hostile measures unless the Mexican government shall show itself unreasonable.

BREADSTUFFS.—Wheat firm at an advance of 1d a 2d. Flour quiet and unchanged. Corn quiet at an advance of 6d.

☞ A western editor, on hearing it remarked that persons in a drowning condition suddenly recollect all the transactions of their lives, wished that a few of his subscribers would take to bathing in deep water.

OLD FOLKS CONCERT.—We had the pleasure of attending a concert of the ancient sacred music, in Newburyport, on Wednesday evening. The choir was a glorious one, consisting of about two hundred singers,—including many who sang the old tunes when they were new. The orchestra was small, but played well. The whole was under the direction of Mr. Geo. W. Hale, who proved himself a prompt and most efficient leader.

The programme was too long, occupying about two hours; and we thought it lacked variety. The choir sang some of the old anthems, including Charity Anthem, and sang all admirably, too; but we longed for some of the old minors and chorals.

Albert Laighton's beautiful 'Song of the Old Folks' was performed with taste and feeling, though lacking an instrumental interlude between the verses. The performance closed with Old Hundred, in which the audience were invited to join. Of course we stood up—but nobody else did; and "Be thou, O God, exalted high," was actually sung with the audience sitting—and they did n't join in with a will, if they did at all. We never saw the like before—and should sooner have expected a military staff to sit while "Hail Columbia" was being played.

On the whole, however, this was a grand concert, and the only one we have heard which could be compared with those we have had in Portsmouth. It was almost a burlesque, though, to announce such an entertainment as a charity concert, and put the tickets at 15 cents! Wonder if all who bought tickets considered themselves liberal? The audience was large, and generally attentive, but a gang of boys behind us, who have no soul for music, if they have for anything else, disturbed everybody near them.

"HALM OF A THOUSAND FLOWERS"—A COUNTER FEIT. A person pretending to have been a partner with W. P. Fetridge in the above article, is palming off a spurious preparation on the public. All are cautioned against the name FETRIDGE & Co., is written on the side, and W. P. FETRIDGE & Co., printed on the front of the label. The genuine article is for sale by all respectable Druggists, who frown down counterfeits and impostors.

WHITE TEETH, PERFUMED BREATH AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXIONS can be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the Balm of a Thousand Flowers would render it sweet! m25 dawlm

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

We know nothing of its merits save what we read, but that is sufficient, when we see such testimonials of its efficacy as the following which we clip from the Ottawa Free Trader:

"Having tried successively sundry highly recommended 'hair tonics' on our premises, we feel confident, we speak not all confidence in nostrums of that sort until a week ago we met a distinguished politician of this State whom we had seen three years ago with thin hair, and as 'gray as a rat,' but now boasting as fine a head of hair as one could wish. We demanded the secret of his improved appearance, when he readily accounted for it by ascribing it to the virtues of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We shall try that next."—[Rock River Democrat.

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

NEWS FROM NICARAGUA.—The steamship Tennessee, Capt. Patterson, arrived at New York Thursday morning, from Aspinwall and San Juan, via Key West.—Her news confirms the statements received by telegraph via Charleston, on Wednesday, respecting the retreat of Lockridge, the explosion of the J. N. Scott, &c.

Col. Lockridge advanced to Castillo on the 28th of March, with 300 men on board the steamers Scott and Rescue. He found the enemy had fortified Nelson's hill, 250 yards in rear of the castle, with strong breastworks, ditches, several large guns and 500 men. He retreated without making an attack, and destroyed all the fortifications below Castillo, abandoning all hope of opening the river. He disbanded the two battalions of recruits, and formed another from those who were willing to go to Walker, via Panama.

LOCAL.

☞ The Counting-Room, Composition Room, and Editors' Room of the Chronicle, are for the present at the Journal Office. We print in our own Press-Room, and may be found there, morning and evening.

TALL SWEARING.

The case State vs. Alfred Pierce, for an assault on John G. Coult of Manchester will come up this afternoon at half past 1, in the Court House, before Justice Odell. "Where and where all decent people who wish to see a choice exhibition of tall swearing are respectfully invited to attend."

The N. H. Gazette of this morning after copying our invitation says:—

We have italicised a portion of the above paragraph, for the purpose of directing the attention of the public to the motive of the Maine law clergy—used by this reverend evidence and to prejudice the prejudice the court against witnesses in judice opinion is the complainant cause in which he is witness. Is Uncle Toby and the principal with whom this case is to be judge before we expect to browbeat and, or does he the justice and witnesses, and control courts of the evidence to sustain force the law and may consider the regulation him in what he the community? We are in tion of morals and justice, but we abhor favor of law and of sentiment as that exhibited such ruffianism in a paragraph by the editor of the Chronicle.

What a backing down is here, from the tall talking in the Gazette last week. Then it seems it was not expected by the conspirators that a lawsuit would be brought against them for the wanton, cruel and aggravated assault.

Uncle Toby is not the judge of the Police Court, and has no control there, but he is in the High Court of Public Opinion, before whom he brings the rioters very often.

This time he was the companion of the man assaulted, and an eye witness to the whole transaction. His statement is before the public, corroborated by all the circumstances,—and the people believe it;—the editor of the Gazette himself believes it,—the men who have engaged to swear it know know it is true. Now if two men, or four men, or four hundred choose to swear so, Uncle Toby cannot control them, but he can call decent men together to hear them swear, and the people will come!

We are glad to see the Gazette declare itself in favor of law and justice, of which the conspirators are just now terribly afraid!

Mr. Coult was assaulted on Tuesday night, and much alarmed. He found himself watched on Wednesday morning. We were seen together by two loafers, who watched for him in Vaughan street,—and who went towards Pierce's groggery, where the conspirators were probably assembled.

From near that point we were followed a distance of about half a mile, by a dozen people, led off by Pierce and Rowe;—we were accosted by Pierce, who sprung from Uncle Toby's side and struck Coult, who was a step in advance of us.

Pierce does not deny, but admits, that he struck and wounded Coult; but set up the plea, in Court and in the Gazette last week, that Coult clinched him first. And he says that four men will swear that Coult struck him first.

Well, perhaps they will. Three men told Uncle Toby they would do so, before they left him on Wednesday—doubtless supposing he would be afraid to prosecute against such an array of numbers.

Nevertheless he did complain; and if they are disposed to swear that black is white, he is not responsible. They may find themselves sworn into accomplices, and possibly into the meshes of a perjury case, by this very oath which they profess.

CITY COUNCIL.

Board of Aldermen.—On Thursday evening various bills were approved.

Nathan Godfrey, who was last week chosen as Assessor of Taxes, sent in his declination. Amos T. Goodrich also declines serving as Assistant Engineer, Andrew D. Gerrish as Sealer of Weights and Measures, and Israel Marden as Fence Viewer.

A petition was received from E. H. Winchester, for leave to straighten his wall on Lafayette Road; and one to widen a part of Congress street, commencing at the residence of Dr. A. Perry, and running westerly to the building occupied by Wm. H. Hackett. Referred to Committee on Roads, &c.

A petition of R. O. Treadwell and H. L. Richards, to plant trees on Auburn street, from the last houses to the Cemetery, was granted, the expense to be defrayed by private subscription.

The Street Commissioner was instructed to notify the Portsmouth Gas Co. to repair immediately in a proper manner, the streets which they may have opened or dug up during the past winter.

The Committee on School Houses reported that the upper story of the School House on State street is unfit for use, and that it is inexpedient to remove one of the schools in the Academy.

The Committee on Public Lands and Buildings, were instructed to make a door on the southerly side of the Spring Market, leading to the Fish Market.

An Ordinance regulating Burials was read a first time and referred.

An order was passed, directing the balance of the city money in the Mechanics and Traders Bank to be transferred to the Treasurer for the payment of the notes now due and payable by the city.

The following Night Watchmen were appointed for the ensuing three months:

Henry Wallace,	William Emerson,
Thomas Clark,	Meshach Holmes,
George Jackson,	Oren Banks,
Ira Emery,	John Campbell,
Samuel Twombly,	William Lear,
Jere. M. Teague,	Samuel White,

—Gazette.

The Daily Gazette.—At any time as soon as five hundred subscribers at $3 per annum, the money paid in advance, are obtained, we will guarantee to print a daily paper for one year. Until then, Uncle Toby can have the field, so far as we are concerned. We lost, say $500 in cash, by our daily experiment last year, and are not inclined to repeat it on the same basis.—N. H. Gazette.

One would think, that if the advertising of liquors and lottery tickets was such a "staple business" for a newspaper, that this applicant for support need not have slumped so soon. F.

☞ The Gazette is "informed" that in the Chronicle & Phenix, "temperance people can find a total abstinence newspaper, from which they can get their news without reading rum advertisements,"—or rum editorials either. Only $1 a year, in advance, too. It is as quick as any Weekly, perhaps; but people who can't wait for it, take the Daily.

Still they Come.—Among the Temperance Grocers who keep family stores, a friend mentions two more, viz; John Nutter, Water street,—and Mathes & Varrell, Market street.

☞ The number of arrests in Portsmouth, from April 22, 1856, to March 17, 1857, was 466—of which 187 were for drunkenness, and most of the rest were from causes accruing from this vice.

☞ For a rare opportunity to buy China and Glass Ware, at your own prices,—see Mr. Wendell's advertisement of sale at his room, this forenoon—in Auction column.

☞ The expenses of the Manchester Fire Department are about $14,000 per year. Each member of a company receives $20 annually. In Portsmouth our Fire Department cost last year about $2500; each member receives $7.

Also, sale of Fruit Trees, this forenoon, at Towle's Auction Rooms.

Personal.—Ex-President Pierce arrived in Concord, N. H., on Tuesday. He is in excellent health.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was depived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Phila lelphia, started in pursuit with their nauseous and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I undertaked a large quantity has been purchased bythe merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the genuine Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle. As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-similie of his signature and label.

Poudrette, Guano, &c.
FARMERS and Citizens having Gardens will find the IMPROVED POUDRETTE one of the best fertilizers, as well as the cheapest substitute for manure where there is difficulty in procuring sufficient for garden and farm purposes.—Its chief recommendations are, that it is neat, inoffensive, contains no seeds of weeds, is very quick and powerful in its operation upon vegetation, and at the same time is so harmless that it can be put in direct contact with the seed or plant without injury, which is totally unlike other fertilizers. It will bring early crops of peas, beans, potatoes, sweet corn, &c., and for lawns and grass plots is unrivalled. The small quantity used and ease of application render it very economical. The price for 1 barrel is $2; over 5 bbls, $1 85 per bbl.
It may be bought of J. F. SHORES, Jr., No. 1 Congress Block, who also sells Nos. 1 Peruvian Guano, Super phosphate of Lime and Tafeu. J a14

CONCORD TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.

This somewhat ancient Society observed its twenty-seventh anniversary last Fast Day, the 2d inst., and a goodly gathering of the friends of temperance were out to hear the very acceptable address of the Rev. Mr. Moore before the Society.

A vote was passed in the business meeting of the Society which followed the address, not only thanking the deliverer therefor for its acceptableness, but also requesting him to repeat it, which he is expected to do next Sunday evening, as 5 1-2 o'clock, in the City Hall.

At the same meeting, said Society passed unanimously the following resolutions:

Resolved, That it is expedient to form, immediately, a Temperance Association in this city, whose duty it shall be to take action at once in favor of enforcing the law for the suppression of intemperance, and in every way practicable to promote the interests of the cause of temperance, by the adoption of such measures as may meet the approbation of said association; and it is hereby recommended that a Temperance Club be organized in each Ward of the city, to act in concert with said Association, in all matters pertaining to the welfare of said cause.

Resolved, That we recommend the calling of a County Convention, sometime the present month, by the County Committee, to secure united action among the friends of Temperance in all portions of this County, for the suppression of the sale of intoxicating drinks, and to awaken a new zeal in the good and man-saving cause of Temperance.

We are glad to know that an active campaign is about to be opened in this County, which has long been the "Banner Temperance County" in the State, and we predict it will be a victorious campaign.—Cong. Jour.

DEATH OF REV. JOHN M. STEELE.—We are pained to learn, says the Congregational Journal, that the Rev. John M. Steele, late of Stratham, and recently settled as pastor of the Congregational church in Columbus, O., died on the 5th inst., in the city of New York. His disease was the small pox. Mr. Steele was a native of Epsom, where his parents still reside. He received his collegiate education at Dartmouth, and his theological at Andover.—His fine talents and extensive attainments, encouraged the hope of great usefulness in his new field of labor; but the fair prospect is blighted by his sudden and unexpected death. He leaves a young wife to mourn his loss.

ANOTHER FALLEN.—Rev. James R. French of Maine has recently closed his labors on earth by death. Mr. French received his theological education at Gilmanton, and soon after settled over the Presbyterian church in Peterboro', N. H. Leaving Peterboro', he became, for several years, Seaman's Chaplain at Portland, and afterwards an Agent of the American Seaman's Friend Society in Maine. His residence is reported at Cumberland in the Year Book of 1856. He was highly respected for his talents and devotedness.

☞ The Congregational Journal learns that the Unitarian Society of Concord held a meeting on Tuesday evening, and voted by a large majority against the continuance of Rev. A. B. Muzzey as their Pastor. Mr. Muzzey was settled over the Society in the winter of 1854, and has been, continues the C. J., since his residence among us, an efficient and able promoter of the education and morals of the young. As a Theologian, he ranks among what are termed the evangelical class of Unitarians. He will remove from us, adds the Journal, most highly respected for his talents, literary attainments and personal worth.

MAINE.—In the Maine Senate on Saturday, the House bill to exempt shareholders in corporations from personal liability, was passed, 15 to 5.

A bill relating to the liberation of slaves brought into the state by their masters, was passed, yeas 21, nays 1.

A bill relating to liens on vessels was passed to be engrossed.

WAR IN LIBERIA.—It is stated on the authority of letters from missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church, that a furious war is raging in Liberia, in the vicinity of Cape Palmas, between the colonists and the natives. Thirty-seven American houses and much property are stated to have been destroyed, and twenty-eight lives had been lost. All missionary and business matters were at a stand.

OUR "BETTER CITIZENS,"—At North Adams, on Sunday week, the Catholic priest preached against the "mane Yankees," for distributing Bibles and tract among his parishioners. In consequence, the aforesaid parishioners got gloriously drunk after service and pitched into all the stray "natives" they met. One of them was arrested the following day, but they rescued him, using clubs and pistols. But the law proved too much for their finale, and three of the ring-leaders have been fined $10 and costs each, and there are warrants out for more.—Lowell News.

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. FRANCIS & Co are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to supervise them and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as safe and as well protected as were persons present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers call attention to, is, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, and offices are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication is received. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. Drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Ternary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.
(Sign of the Chinaman grinding Coffee.)
141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest Cash prices.—Their Stock consists of:
Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having the purest and genuine as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give customers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1 50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1 00
5 lb. Oolong do.	1 75	5 lb. Java do.	90
5 lb. Hyson do.	2 25	8 lb. Java do.	1 00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be of the purest and finest quality, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, and is called by the Medical Faculty in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the best article. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of Coffee, which costs 25 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

☞ The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it, this being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, and not mixed with coffee or not, as beats suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is recommended by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections, &c., &c.

The very best now in use, as the many thousands that have used it will testify.

THE great superiority of this Dye consists in its easy application, having but one preparation. It also contains twice as much as any other, and sold at a much less price. IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.
DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS FOR FEMALES,

Prepared by an old Physician of 40 years experience.

THE combination of ingredients in these Pills, is the result of a long and extensive practice; they are mild in their operation, and certain to restoring nature to its proper channel. In every instance have the Pills proved successful. They are certain to remove those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring back the menses in proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deathly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular: and whenever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, they generally speaking immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. Headache, pain in the side, palpitation of the heart, loathing of food, and disturbed sleep, that most always arise from the interruption of nature; and whenever that is the case these Pills will invariably remedy all these evils. In all cases of painful menstruation, or nervous and spinal affections in the back and limbs, lowness of spirits, hysterics, &c. Nor, are they less efficacious in the cure of Leucorrhœa, commonly called the "Whites." These Pills should never be taken during pregnancy, as they would to surely cause a miscarriage. Warranted purely Vegetable, and free from anything injurious to life or health. Full and explicit directions which should be read, accompany each box.

These Pills are put up in square, flat boxes—Persons residing where there are no Agencies established, by enclosing One Dollar in a letter, prepaid, to Dr. C. L. CHEESEMAN, Box No. 4631, Post Office, New York City, can have them sent to their respective addresses by return of mail.

VIRGINIA PROPERTY.

Under the head of "A Necessity Properly Stated," the Portsmouth, Virginia, Transcript, makes the following interesting remarks:

Now that there is a season of refreshing exemption from busy politics, we can conceive of no better service which the press of Virginia, and indeed of the South generally, can render, than by directing the popular mind to subjects which are of practical importance to individuals and eminently meriting attention from them in their collective capacity.

In Virginia, recently, papers from other sections of the State have come to us, laden with tidings of emigration movements among the people, who, despairing of success at home have resolved to seek other and more remunerative fields of labor. This dispersion of our citizens is not without cause, and we are inclined to think that the manner of it points unerringly to the fact that there is a want of vorariness in the industrialism of the South—too great a concentration of its labor upon one or two objects—too much sameness in every thing at the South—a sort of idiotic reference to what has been, for what is suited to home interests at the present day. It must be self-protection—protection against gradual impoverishment, and because slow the more sure,—which only is powerful enough to induce men to take their backs upon the homes and graves of their sires, dissolve every association of early and mature life, and seek their fortunes in a distant country, among strangers.

The question, then, as put by the Baltimore American, is, how are the other Southern States to keep their population? We say nothing of an increase, which ought to be a condition of healthful progress—but how are they to hold their own? It is useless to talk about Constitutional construction, State rights, or Kansas and Nebraska provisos, in looking for the solution of a question which has in it the features alone of a hard, practical reality.—Of what avail can such abstractions be, however important in their place, to the resuscitation of a country from which sterility is driving its inhabitants?

The Southmust adopt other sorts of industry besides that which is employed in the production of an exclusive staple. It must encourage a variety of pursuits adapted to the manifold faculties and capabilities of an intelligent community, and seek for development through other than a single source. In a word, manufacturing and mechanical industry must get a foothold at the South, must seek expansion there, and invite to her deserted acres an emigration of the laboring classes, if she is to find profitable employment for her people, develope her own resources, and maintain a position among prosperous communities.

There is no help otherwise. Out of no theory of political construction can the South derive the elements of substantial growth and strength—if that period industry be wanting which blends the intellect of man with the materials that nature furnishes as the means of production and progression. Whether our government be federal or national; whether the Constitution forms merely a league of independent sovereignties, or is the animating principle of one united republic; whether the States are the constituents of the general government or whether the latter is an emanation from the great mass of the people—these questions, important as they may be in their place, will never restore fertility to an impoverished plantation, even by the most prolonged or convincing discussion.

The causes stated are the identical ones which place Virginia so far in arrears as a prosperous State. With a capability of resuming her old position as the first State of the Union, how long shall we wait, and hope against hope, to see her public men lead off in efforts to abate the nuisances which have compassed her prosperity. It is a matter of serious reflection:—we conjure the people to ponder the subject well and apply the needed remedies, if they desire to arrest the downward tendency of the Old Dominion.

Slavery does not aid to vary industry, nor to blend intellect with manual labor. It tends the other way. Slavery is the curse of Virginia,—and like a bitter tree bears bitter fruit.

A SCENE.—During one night last week while a fine steamer was on her way up the river towards Pittsburg, a crash was heard in one of the state rooms of the ladies' cabin, followed by the scream of the lady, who with her husband occupied the state room. The ladies, of course, thought the boat might be blown up, snagged, or otherwise injured fearfully—and it was finally necessary for the husband of the lady whose screams had been heard, to appear at the door, not exactly in proper costume for receiving the calls of ladies, to explain that he, being a very portly and weighty gentleman, had taken the upper berth in the state room, and during the night the supports of the berth giving way, he had fallen, berth and all, upon his unfortunate wife, soundly sleeping below.—She was not seriously injured, however, and the commotion at once subsided, the affair affording a hearty laugh to all persons next day, of course. The Pittsburg Dispatch is responsible for the above.

☞ Rev. Daniel Waldo, the venerable Chaplain of the house of Representatives, now 94 years old, has revisited his home in Connecticut. Last week he preached two sermons in Sharon, walked half a mile from the parsonage to the meeting-house, and went through the exercises without apparent fatigue. Mr. Waldo was a soldier in the revolution, and once fell into the hands of that abominable set of fellows who were known as the "Cow boys."

☞ Mr. R. B. Hanson of Waterborough, Me., by the premature explosion of a blast in a ledge at Hog Island, was thrown into the air, and fell into the water, which undoubtedly saved his life, as otherwise he would have fallen upon the rocks, from a height of about 30 feet. He received a compound fracture of the right leg below the knee, and some flesh wounds in the thigh.

THE DONATION PARTY AT THE TREMONT TEMPLE.—The donation party of the friends of Mr. Bulloch at the Tremont Temple, Boston, on Wednesday evening, was very fully attended, and a purse containing $1065 was presented to him to assist him in defraying the expenses of his late trial.

☞ The Laconia Gazette has passed, editorially, into the hands of Mr. E. Bartholomew, publisher and proprietor of the "Stars and Stripes," issued at Manchester, who is to remove to Laconia.

Mr. Bartholomew is best known to the public through the paper he has published. He is a practical printer, brought up in and well acquainted with newspaper business, and an honest, hard working young man.

FAST DAY LETTER.

No. Andover, Mass. Ap. 16.

Messrs. Editors:—I have thought that a brief Fast Day letter from this olden town might be acceptable to you and to some of your readers.

North Andover—as you are aware—has of late been incorporated into a town by itself. It is of slow but sure growth, and from its proximity to Lawrence, feels a little of the life-throb of that busy place. It is one of the pleasantest towns in Massachusetts. Dr. Dwight, in his travels, writes that "its surface is elegantly undulating, and its soil in an eminent degree fertile." There are grand and extensive views from the principal eminences here. Upon one of them a wealthy and public-spirited citizen is about to erect a large and elegant mansion house. Two good looking churches are here, and factories, and substantial dwellings are to be seen on every hand. The roads are admirable, and the tree kingdom is grandly represented in the woods and fields. Among the notable trees is the large elm near the residence of Mr. Peters, which was set out by Mr. Jonathan Frye, who went as chaplain to the company of Capt. Lovewell, and was killed in an expedition against the Pequawket Indians, in 1725.

The names of some of the first settlers of Andover are still here, represented in their descendants—Osgood, Stevens, Foster, Allen, &c. A few, and but a few, of the old homestead places remain in the hands of the descendants of the first settlers upon them. Old homesteads that have not changed family proprietorship for a hundred years are getting to be rare sights in New England. They will be still rarer in time to come.

This town was one of the many that suffered somewhat severely from the depredations of the Indians, and was one of the few in which the witchcraft delusion was carried to most ridiculous and lamentable extremes. The accounts of some of the trials of Andover witches are among some of the most shameful of any in the history of this marvellous infatuation in New England. But all this of the past is no reproach upon the present dwellers upon this puritanic soil. The misguided and infatuated ones have not all departed, now that old witchcraft has gone overboard. We have other witcheries ever among us, quite as blinding, other delusions quite as undignified and unsubstantial as those of former days.

I have been looking over the Biography of Judge Samuel Phillips, founder of the academy bearing his name in the old "South Parish." He was one of the most distinguished and worthy citizens of Andover, and has left examples to his descendants for which they have reason to be thankful, and which they will do well to imitate.

The Judge was a personal friend of Washington, and had the honor of receiving a visit from the Father of his country, during his tour to New England, in 1789. On Wednesday, Nov. 4th, General Washington reached Haverhill, where he lodged for the night. Thursday morning, he drove early to Andover, and breakfasted at Dea. Isaac Abbott's tavern. While there, he asked the little daughter of Dea. Abbott to mend his riding gloves for him; and when she had done it, took her upon his knee and gave her a kiss, which so elated the young miss that she would not allow her face to be washed again for a week. When, too, he had left the house of Mr. Phillipps, the worthy wife of this man, who had been thus honored, tied a piece of ribbon upon the chair which he had occupied during the interview, and there it remained ever afterwards until the day of his death, when she substituted for it a band of crape.

Among the many readable things in this Memoir, I find the following from Holmes's Annals, which, as it involves Portsmouth, I will transcribe for the benefit of your readers who may not have seen it.

The account is of the public feeling and its demonstrations on the reception of the news of the passage of the odious Stamp Act by the British Parliament in 1765. All kinds of manifestations were made by the people in reference to the subject, and among them it is said that in Portsmouth and several adjacent towns, an unique pageant was concerted. "All the bells were tolled, to denote the decease of Liberty; and in the course of the day, notice was given to her friends to attend her funeral. A coffin, neatly ornamented, and inscribed with 'Liberty, aged CXLV years,' was prepared for the funeral procession, which began from the State house, attended with two unbraced drums. Minute guns were fired until the corpse arrived at the grave, when an oration was pronounced in honor of the deceased. Scarcely was the oration concluded, when, some remains of life having been discovered, the corpse was taken up. The inscription on the lid of the coffin was immediately altered to 'Liberty Revived:' the bells suddenly struck a cheerful sound, and joy appeared again in every countenance."

It is Fast-Day in Massachusets, as I have already intimated. The churches are opened, and there is a pretty good attendance in them "considering" what day it is.

I have been listening to a discourse from the new minister of the First Parish, (Unitarian,) Rev. Mr. Vinal. The subject of his discourse was The use of the Tongue, from Paul's words to the Ephesians:—Wherefore, putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbor." The discourse was a good one, and was one of the kind which would not be very likely to come under the order of discourses proscribed in advance by Gov. Gardner—it having had in it no very severe handling of the political iniquities of State or nation. This will be something of a day for preaching in the old Bay State. See if it is not.

Yours, A.

Dead, Poor Fellow!—The Newburyport Herald of Saturday informs us, that the seaman, Robert Rowles, one of the drunken crew, on their way to Portland, who fell from the platform, and was run over by one of the cars, on Thursday, is dead. The bone of his right arm was badly fractured, and four large and deep wounds were made upon his head. He was then taken to the residence of Dr. Atkinson on Strong street, where he was attended by Dr. A., who after consultation with other physicians, and in view of his critical state, dressed the wounds as well as possible without amputation. He lingered along until Friday at two o'clock, when he died. He stated that he had a wife and two children living in London, England, and that he was 35 years of age. Coroner Smith held an inquest, Friday afternoon. The jurors returned a verdict that the deceased "came to his death by loss of blood from injuries sustained by falling from and being run over by the cars upon the Eastern railroad, on the morning of the 16th inst."

So die the poor victims of the sale and use of intoxicating drinks.

An Incident.—A few days since an Irishman died in Portland from the effects of intoxicating liquor. He had been, as we understand, an habitual drunkard. On Monday his remains were taken to St. Dominic's Church, for the purpose of having funeral services performed according to the Roman Catholic rites. But Father Miller, the Priest of this church, refused to allow the body to be brought in, and remarked that the deceased died like a dog and he ought to be buried like one, and further refused to perform funeral services over the corpse, or to let it be buried in the consecrated ground. We are happy to learn that Father Miller has set his face against the flood of intemperance which for some time past has raged so furiously.—Portland Advertiser.

That is Father Miller's way of doing things,—but Uncle Toby, when called upon to perform burial services for drunkards, has always performed them to the best of his ability, as he would for any other poor mortal deceased.

The Vermont Liquor Law.—In St. Johnsbury, on Tuesday of last week, a Scotchman named McLoud was found drunk, arrested and fined five dollars and costs. The Caledonian says that two inveterate rumsellers at South Hardwick, whom moral suasion had failed to convince of the wickedness of their ways, were prosecuted last week, and fined each thirty dollars and costs. The State's Attorney of that County, the Caledonian adds, proves to be a faithful and vigilant executor of the Prohibitory Law. Six barrels of whiskey, seized at one of the depots in Burlington, Vermont, in December last, and which has not been claimed by the owner, were knocked in the head last week.

☞ A desperate conspiracy among some of the worst prisoners at the Toombs, New York city, to break jail last Sunday, was discovered in time to prevent evil consequences. Some twenty, confined for murder, arson, and other infamous crimes, were to make the attempt immediately after the sermon, and for that purpose were to be armed with knives and pistols, to be supplied by friends from the outside, and the keepers were to be killed, if circumstances required it. The plan was defeated, and the prisoners have since been ironed and guarded.

The New York Journal of Commerce considers Walker's chances in Central America so desperate, that if he can escape with his few men left, he had better not lose a day.

☞ Rev. Rufus W. Clark was installed over the South Congregational Church, Brooklyn, on Tuesday evening. The new church edifice was so crowded that hundreds could not obtain admittance. Dr. R. S. Storrs preached a great sermon on the occasion, and Henry Ward Beecher's charge to the pastor was an earnest address.

Religious Matters.—The Middle street (Universalist) Society, Newburyport, at their annual meeting, Fast Day, vote $900 for salary to their pastor, Rev. Mr. Reed; $300 for singing, and $200 for other purposes. The society is in a flourishing condition, and this season they will paint and re-carpet their house.

The Federal st. Presbyterian Society, at their annual meeting, voted the salary of their pastor, Rev. Mr. Vermilye, including the parsonage, $1200; $200 for singing.

A Call.—The Unitarian (Pleasant street) Society, Newburyport, at the annual Parish meeting on Fast day, unanimously voted to invite Rev. John Young of Boston, to become their pastor, and to offer him a salary of $1200.

Fire.—The Woolen Factory in Gilsum, owned by Calvin Smith Esq., of Alstead, and run by Solomon Dean, was totally destroyed by fire, on Tuesday evening of last week. The fire was discovered about nine o'clock, and is supposed to have originated by friction of the machinery.—This is the third factory that has been burnt on the same site.—Claremont Eagle.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Young America—Lawrence's Carminative.

The Secret Discovered at Last.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the New Store, No. 15, always seems c customers. We have at last discovered the secret of it. On stepping inside, we find that the proprietors, Messrs. Allen & Paine, in fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discover that the store contains a Sky-Light, giving them facilities for showing their Goods possessed by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived in the color or quality of goods. We notice, also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, altogether, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

☞ Take notice, dear reader, that for 40 cts. you can buy a pound of good Tea, Ningyong they call it, at Tilton & Nowell's Union Store, No. 12 Market street,—also shoes for men and women at very reasonable rates; and all other goods cheap. tf

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

We know nothing of its merits save what we read, but that is sufficient, when we see such testimonials of its efficacy as the following which we clip from the Ottawa Free Trader:

"Having tried successively sundry highly recommended 'hair tonics' on our own half denuded crown, we about lost all confidence in nostrums generally, but last until a week ago we met a distinguished politician of this State whom we had seen three years ago with thin hair, and as 'gray as a rat,' but now boasting as fine a head of hair as one could wish. We demanded the secret of his improved appearance, when he coolly recounted for it by ascribing it to the virtues of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We shall try that next."—[Rock River Democrat.

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to Dr. Sanford's Invigorator or Liver Remedy that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

The damage to the Montreal railroad is considerable, but we have not yet learned to what extent.

☞ A man named Watson, committed suicide in Newmarket, on Wednesday forenoon, by hanging himself in a shed connected with the factory. He had tied his legs that he might not struggle, and then kicked from under him a chair which he had been standing on. The cause was that he had endorsed to the extent of about $8000 for other parties, and lost. He was employed by the Factory Co. and much respected.

Manny's Celebrated Mower

—AND—

MOWER AND REAPER.

IMPROVED.

Built expressly for the New England States.

THE MANNY MOWER has been extensively used for the past two years in New England, and more than six years at the West.—Its success is beyond that of any other Mower or Reaper ever constructed. Over 150 1st Premiums have been awarded it, including the Grand 1st Class Silver Medal at the World's Fair, Paris, 1855.

With the two past years' experience, we have been enabled to make a number of very important improvements. We find New England farmer require a different Machine from other sections;—the fields generally being small. It must be light, at the same time possess great strength; portable, with facilities to raise the cutters to pass obstructions, and to remove from field to field. A perfect cutting apparatus, to cut the fine grasses without clogging, and so constructed as to start in the grass without backing, easily adjusted to cut high or low, and have a Reel to cut equally well with or against the wind, and to be worked with ease by a light team, and so easily managed and simple that any one of common ability may operate it successfully, and to be built in the most thorough manner.

With this knowledge of the farmers' requirements, and with the determination to build a better Machine than has ever before been constructed in this country, we offer the Manny Mower of 1857 with confidence, as combining the qualities enumerated above, and as one particularly adapted to meet the wants of New England farmers.

☞ We invite the farmers to call and examine Machines. Orders should be sent early. Circulars, with testimonials, forwarded free, on application.

POLICE COURT.

SATURDAY, April 18.

Before Justice Odell: the case State v. Alfred Pierce for assault on John G. Coult was taken up, and the defence was made, by calling five witnesses, viz:—1. Joseph Holmes, who testified that Coult struck at Pierce, but could not say whether he his him; he thought he might be 20 rods off. 2. Nathan Jones, who was with Holmes, testified nearly the same; but did not see Pierce strike at Coult; he made the distance 5, 6, or 10 rods, say 8. 3 and 4. Daniel MacDonald and Geo. E. Smart were from 1 to 3 rods behind Holmes and Jones, and testified to seeing about the same which they saw. These witnesses were going up to Mr. Myers's, but they did not go, they went back with the lot. Smart saw the assault when he was to the eastward of the Cutts House. 5. John Taylor was 2 or 3 rods behind Holmes and Jones, and said that he was below, east of the Cutts House.

So all the promised swearing to the first blow amounted to little;—and was by no means "tall."

An earnest argument or address was made by Mr. Hatch, of about an hour,—Mr. Hackett closed for the State.

The Court judged Pierce guilty, fined him $7 and costs; and ordered him to give $50 bonds to keep the peace.

The witnesses for the defence made themselves out to be so far off, that the Court considered there was really no important conflict of testimony.

Several of them testified that they did not hear Pierce threaten to murder the old citizen. No doubt they testified truly in this, for not one of them had then got to the spot. This complaint was discharged.

☞ On Friday last, at the Portsmouth Ship Company's Yard, on Noble's Island, Robert Anderson, of Amesbury, Mass., an apprentice to Messrs. Swasey & Rowell of this city, fell from between decks into the hold of a ship he was engaged in painting, by which accident, he was seriously hurt, but it is hoped he will recover.

☞ Mr. Wm. Rea, a ship carpenter, was seriously if not fatally injured, on Saturday afternoon, at the yard of Messrs. Marcy & Pettigrew. A heavy stage-pole which was being erected, fell upon the man, striking him on the back of the neck, and knocking him to the ground. In his fall his face struck upon the edge of an axe, which cut his face terribly, nearly from forehead to chin. The man was at first supposed to be killed, but we learn that he was still alive on Saturday evening, though with little hopes of his recovery.

Several others were prostrated by the pole, but were not much harmed.

PRESTON'S CATHOLICON.—Of this popular medicine, (advertised in another column,) the Ballot states that Mr. Preston makes and disposes of about 1000 gallons annually; and this spring, he informs us, will put up a still larger quantity. Many patent medicines have had their rise and fall since Mr. Preston commenced the manufacture of the Catholicon, but the demand for this preparation steadily and constantly increases.

ONE MORE.—A friend at the South End gives us the name of Mendum Janvrin, South street, as the 20th temperance grocer.

EXETER, April 18.

In case Hall v. Young the Jury, at two o'clock this morning, brought in a verdict for the deft.

At the coming in of the Court this morning, No. 71, Tucker, deft. in review v. Peaslee, plff. in review. This case will not probably be given to the Jury till Monday.

ADVERTISING.—Never before was the Chronicle so much in demand as now, for an advertising medium. We would have enlarged our borders, ere this, if our press would take a larger form well. When we get our new office (printing office, we mean, for we are not a seeker after any other, at present,) we shall see what can be done. Perhaps we may get a new and larger power press during the summer.

Meantime, yearly advertisers (and others) will find our terms on the first page, and of course will expect to pay for all extra space occupied.

Of late, we have had applications to sell certain portions of our advertising columns for the exclusive use of individuals—in complying with which, we have, of course, reserved the best places for new advertisements of any patron.

FROM SANTA FE.—St. Louis, April 17. We are in receipt of advices from Santa Fe to the 18th ult.

The Democratic Convention had nominated Jas. L. Collis for Governor of New Mexico.

Manuel Otero, late Delegate to Congress, had been re-elected.

Considerable excitment had been occasioned in Santa Fe, on account of the circumstances growing out of a collision between a Mexican named Gruber and a soldier. Gruber shot the soldier, and then gave himself up and was taken to jail. A party of troops thereupon entered the jail, and fired about forty shots, killing Gruber and another prisoner, wounding two others. Some of the soldiers engaged in the proceedings had been identified, and were to be tried for the offence.

☞ It appears that the divinity class that invited Theodore Parker to preach the class sermon at Cambridge consisted of only four persons. One of these was actively engaged in the last political canvass, and another was from recently the theological school in Andover.

CRIM. CON.—Complaint was made in Exeter, on Friday forenoon, that a man in that town, had been in the habit of carrying on, for nearly a year, an illicit connection with his step-daughter, a child of eleven years.

A man named Scratchard has been arrested in New York, charged with having made proposals to Huntington's friends to obtain the forger's release from Sing Sing by means of a forged pardon. Huntington denies all knowledge of the plot.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Drance, Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN
Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial GIN IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is a delicious tonic beverage, and by its peculiar flavor (so different from other gins) is universally esteemed by all who use it. It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

FARMERS and Citizens having Gardens will find the IMPROVED POUDRETTE one of the best fertilizers, as well as the cheapest substitute for manure where there is difficulty in procuring sufficient for garden and farm purposes.—Its chief recommendations are, that it is neat, inoffensive, contains no seeds of weeds, is very quick and powerful in its operation upon vegetation, and at the same time is so harmless that it can be put in direct contact with the seed or plant without injury, which is totally unlike other fertilizers. It will bring early crops of peas, beans, potatoes, sweet corn, &c., and for lawns and grass plots is unrivalled. The small quantity used and ease of application render it very economical. The price for 1 barrel is $2; over 5 bbls, $1 85 per bbl.

It may be bought of J. F. SHORES, No. 1 Congress Block, who also sells No. 1 Peruvian Guano, Super-phosphate of Lime and Tafeu. J a14

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills.

a14 No. 7 Exchange Buildings.

A REMINISCENCE.—The able New York correspondent of the Milwaukie Sentinel, in a strong letter upon the late Dred Scott decision, recalls the following interesting incident touching that class of inhabitants who, according to Judge Taney, "have no rights which a white man is bound to respect:"

"During the Revolutionary war, there were whole regiments of colored troops. Rhode Island had a colored brigade, in which, if I am not mistaken, the illustrious Greene served in his early career. In the second war with England, companies of colored citizens were mustered in the service of the United States, in this city; and I well remember that on the return of the U. S. frigate Macedonian, when the corporation gave a feast to the whole ship's crew, as the gallant fellows marched up Broadway, a band of some eight or ten stalwart black men, marching in a body, struck my eye. There were other blacks in the procession, scattered here and there, but those were all together.—Having an opportunity to ask Commodore Decatur the reason of this, he said this group was the complement of a particular gun—that certain men were assigned to each gun—gave names to them and that great emulation among the companies thereon ensued. As to these black men, their gun was called 'Black Bess'—and a more quickly handled, truly served, and efficient gun, he had not in all his broadside."

FRAUD IN FISH.—The Philadelphia Ledger says that city is the largest market in the United States for mackerel consumption. It is charged that some dealers there are in the habit of repacking the mackerel they receive from Massachusetts, filling up with salt, and then branding the packages as having been received from Massachusetts. This, the Ledger learns, is carried to such an extent that a purchaser in buying twenty-five pounds will probably receive but sixteen pounds. In consequence of this fraud, several merchants of Philadelphia have received from Mr. Wm. F. Davis, Inspector General of Fish for Massachusetts, a list of his deputy Inspectors, which has been published, so that the public can ascertain if the brand upon the package is a genuine one.

ROMANTIC MARINE NEWS. — The San Francisco Bulletin gives the names of a large number of old vessels which have been broken up at that port, and remarks: "The histories connected with these old vessels would be highly interesting, some of them romantic, some sublime. One of them, the Cadmus, was the vessel in which the patriot Lafayette came to America on his famous visit. Another, the Plover, was the ship which entered the Northern Seas through Behring's Straits in the search after Sir John Franklin, and remained among those icy regions four or five years.

FIRST SETTLEMENT OF OHIO.—The sixty-ninth anniversary of the pioneer settlement of Ohio, at Marietta, April 7, 1778, was celebrated at Cincinnati on Tuesday last, by the "Pioneer Association" of that city. An oration was delivered in the afternoon by Edward H. Mansfield, Esq., and a dinner was given at the Dennison House in the evening, which was largely attended by old and young.

LADIES' NAMES BEFORE AND AFTER MARRIAGE.—Ladies should have but one given name, and, when they are married, should retain their maiden name as a middle name. This is a practice among the Society of Friends, and, were it generally adopted, it would have many advantages. We should know at once, on seeing a lady's name, whether she was married or single; and if the former, what the name of her family was. And it is further to be considered, that the adoption of this rule of but a single first name, would quite put an end to the numerous brood of Emma Mevalindas and Euphemia Helen Lauras—a style of nomenclature not in pure taste.

DECENCY is a matter of latitude. In Turkey a man with tight pants on is considered so great a vulgarian that he is not tolerated in respectable society. To spit in the presence of an Arab is to make the acquaintance of his cheese-knife. In Russia that man is considered low who refuses a warm breakfast of fried candles. In this country vulgar people are such as keep good hours and live within their income.—Charlestown Adv.

EDITORIAL "SETTLEMENT."—An absent-minded editor, having courted a girl, and applied to her father, the old man said:

"Well, you want my daughter. What sort of a settlement will you make? What will you give her?"

"Give her!" replied the editor, looking up, vacantly. "Oh! I'll give her a puff."

"Take her," replied the old man.

He who is passionate and hasty is generally honest and noble-hearted. It is your old dissembling hypocrite of whom you should beware. There is no deception in a bull-dog; it is only the cur that sneaks up and bites you when your back is turned.

LOTTERIES.
The well-known Havana Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. FRANCE & Co are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as safe as if they were themselves present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers call attention to, is, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland Lotteries, and be regulated by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled for the next drawing to take place after the communication is received in hand. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Ternary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

Tremont Mills.
Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Cocoas, Spices, &c.
WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.
E. E. DYER & CO.
141 Washington St., Boston,
SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest Cash prices.—Their Stock consists of Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.
Having every facility for manufacturing, and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."
To give our customers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1 50	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1 00
5 lb. Oolong do.	1 75	5 lb. Java do.	90
5 lb. Y. Hyson do.	2 25	8 lb. good do.	1 00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be of the purest article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.
SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.
DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.
TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is relished by Family Grocers throughout the city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the Genuine article. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of Coffee, the price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.
The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which will go nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Billious affections, &c., &c.
☞ Be careful to observe that all our Taraxacum has our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called Taraxacum, in the market.
☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.
☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.
DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS FOR FEMALES,
Prepared by an old Physician of 40 years experience.
THE combination of ingredients in these Pills, is the result of a long and extensive practice; they are mild in their operation, and certain to restoring the suppressed menses in every instance have the Pills proved successful. They are certain to open those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature into its proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and deathly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular; and whenever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the want of such a remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among young females. Headache, pain in the side, palpitation of the heart, loathing of food, and disturbed sleep, that usually arise from the interruption of nature; and whenever that is the case, the Pills will invariably remedy all these evils. In all cases of painful menstruation, or menses are low in us, accompanied with the back and limbs, lowness of spirits, hysterics, &c. Nor are they less efficacious in the cure of Leucorrh

TOMPKINS ON MUSIC, &c.

EXETER, April, 1857.

Dear Chronicle:—Your able and talented correspondent, "F. G.," by keeping you posted up in the state of affairs in this town, has left me nothing to do, and I am going to try to do it in the best manner possible. For the last two weeks we have had a Teacher's Institute here, and now that it has closed the town is dull enough. We were perfectly overrun with teachers,—if one went to the Post Office, there he found teachers.—if he went to the book-store he found it crowded with teachers; and from the thronged appearance of the streets one might have imagined that it rained teachers. Imagine the desolation, now that they have departed. The exercises of the Institute were very interesting, particularly the music. I went in one morning, and saw a man seated on the platform behind something which he seemed to be pressing down with his hands, and at the same time stirring up with his foot; which something, in consequence of the pressing down and stirring up, gave forth agonising exclamations. A bystander told me it was a chrubim or a seraphim, I forget which—but I did not believe him, for I knew that seraphim is in the plural number, and this was a singular looking thing.

Speaking of music, are you ever annoyed by those pests of civilized society, organ-grinders? If you are, you can pity me. I was sitting in my room yesterday afternoon, trying to rest myself after a long walk, when one of these individuals came along and commenced organising in front of the window. He was a very distinguished looking personage, and would have captivated the heart of many a servant girl—ours said the man looked like a foreign count. I suggested that he might be hair-apparent to some eastern principality—to judge from the appearance of his face.—He was accompanied by a youthful individual, dressed in a coat considerably long-wasted in the sleeves, and a pair of pantaloons which were "on their last legs," in more senses than one. The youngster's organ of tune was very largely developed, as one could see on looking at the outer corner of each eye, where a large bunch was visible. Some evil-disposed person might suggest that this was caused by his being struck there, when engaged in the pleasant pastime of fighting—but, in the name of the young man, I deny it.

The afore-mentioned organist commenced the entertainment with the popular air of "Hear me, Norma;" but Norma was probably engaged in washing the dinner dishes and could not attend to him. Being disgusted with Norma's neglect, he began flirting with Susannah, and tearfully implored her not to weep for him;—there seemed to be no need of the request, for our Susannah could not restrain her laughter. By this time I had become quite furious, and rushed out of the house to speak to the man. No sooner had I reached the sidewalk than the youthful individual presented his tamborine to me;—told him I did not want it, and advanced to confront the man. I addressed him in Italian, (studied it two weeks once, for the sole purpose of swearing at organ-grinders,) but he did not understand; tried him in French, having learned a few phrases from Worcester's dictionary, but with no effect. Called Spanish to my assistance, but he shook his head; gave him a dose of Latin, but it was all Greek to him. I finally tried him in English, and much to my surprise he seemed to understand me, and after obtaining ten cents of me, and promising in return to call and serenade an enemy of mine, he departed. I heard of a suicide this morning; it must have been that of the unfortunate individual who was serenaded—for he had no ear for music.

Yours unmusically, TOMPKINS.

A BRAVE BACHELOR.—It having been noised abroad in England, that the future minister in the new Parliament would propose an allowance of £70,000 a year to the Princess Royal on the occasion of her marriage to Prince Frederick William of Prussia—which event is soon to take place—the matter became the subject of frequent questioning at some of the political gatherings in London. One of the candidates for the House, who had been asked if he was in favor of the measure, responded that "with regard to the dowry of £70,000 to the to the Princess Royal, he thought it a large amount to pay, and as he was a bachelor unattached, he would take her off the Prussian Prince's hands for half the money.

☞ Mr. E. Gunn, of, Gilsum N. H., has made this season 3325 lbs. of maple sugar from 600 trees. He has sold 2700 lbs for the snug little sum of $352; and has reserved 600 lbs. for family use. He made 1490 lbs. from the sap gathered in one week.

☞ The Guano Islands recently discovered on the coast of Cuba, it is now said, are of no great value. On two of the islands the article is of superior quality, but small in quantity. On the others the quantity is large but quality poor.

A PROLIFIC COW.—At Chester, Vt., a cow belonging to Mr. Luther Studley, a few days since, gave birth to three bright red gentlemen calves, at once. The cow and calves at last accounts were "doing as well as could be expected."

Mr. Bartholomew, proprietor of the Manchester Stars and Stripes, has purchased the Winipisaukee Gazette, and will incorporate the former paper with the latter.

TREES PROTECTION FOR RAILROADS

Messrs. Editors :—I wish to call the attention of directors and stockholders of railroads in this section of the country, and especially of the Eastern Road, to the following. It is a well known fact that it has cost the Eastern Company an immense amount of money, the last few years, to break the snow from their road, so as to keep it in running order. My object is to have it lined with trees each side of the road, and for this purpose I think there is no tree that would do so well as the pine. They grow quick, are very sure to live, can be obtained at a trifling expense, and will thrive on any land where the water does not stand. There may be a few very short places where it is so wet the willow would do better.

I have no means of knowing the length of the road from Portsmouth to Boston, exclusive of the marshes which need no protection. Probably it is thirty-five miles. The trees should be set about sixteen inches apart, and be from six inches to one foot in height. My impression is that they could be furnished and set for about $30 per mile, which would be for the distance of thirty-five miles $1,050, which is not so much as is frequently expended in breaking the road out in one day.

Pine-trees are very sure to live, provided they are taken up with a spade, and a little turf left with the root; but if there is no turf, they are sure to die. Besides stopping the snow and checking the dust, they would in a few years, in a great measure supply the place of a fence. There may be some bad cuts, where it would be necessary to have a double row,—and as a few of them, the first year, might die, it might be necessary to mend a little, the second year.

My impression is that if the Eastern Road had been lined with these trees when it was first built, it would be worth fifty thousand dollars more to the owners than it now is. I have a row forty rods long, which I set two years ago, to protect an orchard, and which are doing finely. Any one who wishes to see a row which have been set a dozen years or more, can do so about a mile up the Gosling Road, in Newington; they are about a dozen feet high, and are just what is needed on the railroad. The can be set from the middle of April to the first of June. J. L.

North Hampton, April 16, '57.

FRESHET. — There is great excitement among the property owners all along the line of the Saco River. The prospect is that the freshet must ultimate in extensive damage.

During Friday the river had risen a foot. The mills at Salmon Falls were expected soon to be washed off, and the owners removed all their movable property from the buildings. Two mills at Bar Mills are also in extreme danger.

The bridge at Kezar Falls has gone down the river.

The damage in the region of Brownfield and Hiram is great. The channel of the stream called Shepherd's river, at Brownfield, was turned from Bean's Mills and passed under a neighboring house, completely undermining it; damage $4000.—Nearly all the bridges on the small streams in the vicinity of Fryeburg, are washed away.

The road in many places on the banks of the Saco is from six to eight feet under water, rendering it impassable.

The great Ossipee, the largest tributary of the Saco, having its source in Ossipee Pond, Effingham, N. H., runs thence an easterly course till it joins the Saco in Cornish, York County. This river is at greater height than ever known before, and was still rising on Friday, when the stage passed over it.

☞ On Wednesday last, as a gang of riggers from Gloucester were engaged in taking off the rigging from a bark at Beverly, one of their number, Jacob Fisher, Jr., fell from the foretop to the deck of the vessel, a distance of about twenty feet, and striking upon his head, dashed his brains out and also dislocated his neck.—He gasped but once after striking. Those at work with him think he had an ill turn, which caused him to lose his hold and then fall. He was about 23 years of age.

☞ The New Hampshire Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, holds its annual session at Lawrence, Mass. next week.

☞ Mrs. H. B. Stowe has been received in the most kindly and paternal manner at Rome by the Pope.

BOLD ATTEMPT AT MURDER.—A tragedy of a similar character to those recently perpetrated in the State Prison, came near being enacted on Monday, in the House of Correction at South Boston.

During the latter part of last week, a convict named William Jennings made application for admission to the hospital, and upon being examined by Dr. Walker, the excellent physician connected with the institution, he was pronounced not to be sick, and was directed to return to his work, which order he sullenly obeyed.—Jennings subsequently committed some breach of the rules of the prison, and was reported and duly punished therefor.

Monday morning Jennings made another application to "see the doctor," and with others, was conducted to the Hospital entrance, by Mr. Anson D. Sawyer, an officer of the prison, who was in the act of unlocking the door, when he (Jennings) suddenly stepped from his proper position, and struck Mr. Sawyer with a knife,—aiming the blade at his throat. Fortunately, the blow was struck in such a manner as to turn the blade so that it glanced backwards. The knife passed through Mr. Sawyer's collar, and the collar of his vest and shirt, inflicting but a slight wound on the back of his neck.

Mr. Sawyer, at the moment of the assault, knocked Jennings to the ground, and he was at once ironed, and placed in solitary confinement, without uttering a word in explanation of his murderous conduct.

The knife was an ordinary shoe-knife, and appeared to have been recently sharpened. Jennings is a desperate youth, and bears a bad character.

THE DALTON DIVORCE CASE, in Boston, reveals a mass of depravity on the part of the females who figure in the case, unexampled in the history of similar trials. It is well known that Mr. Dalton proposed a private trial before the Judge of the Supreme Court, or a private jury trial, which propositions were declined by the other parties. Whatever may be the final result one thing is certain, as the Courier well expresses it, "that no event of ordinary murder has exhibited anything like it, in respect of utter depravity of mind, extending through a family circle, or has shown such a thorough destitution of ordinary human feeling." The Transcript has been requested by a physician to state that, the doctor, whose name is brought out by the evidence, has been expelled from the Medical Society.

DRED SCOTT.—The St. Louis News has a sketch of the original Dred Scott, whose connection with the recent judicial decision will immortalize him. Scott is represented to have resided in St. Louis thirty years. He has been married twice—his first wife was sold from him; his present wife has had four children—two boys, both of whom are dead, and two girls both living. He tried to purchase his freedom, but his mistress refused, although the cash and security offered, should have secured that boon. He was informed that by the law regulating the Northwest Territory, he was entitled to his liberty, and a suit was forthwith brought for it.

The suit was commenced about ten years ago, and has cost Dred about $500 in money, besides labor of nearly equal amount. He is represented as of unmixed African blood, and as black as charcoal. He does not know his own age, and though illiterate, is not ignorant. He is anxious to know who owns him, though the News says "there is no doubt that Mrs. Chaffee of Massachusetts is his legal owner." His daughters, Eliza and Lizzie, have not been so "conscientious" as their father, but have fled from slavery, and their whereabouts is unknown.

☞ The Burdell Estate Trial before the Surrogate of New York, was adjourned on Saturday, until the 20th ult. The evidence was not at all clear or relevant, and Mr. Flagg, one of the witnesses, was not shown to be very reliable. Mrs. Stansbury, who had hired Dr. Burdell's house, repeated the testimony which she gave before Coroner Connery, that Dr. Burdell appeared to be very much incensed against Mrs. Cunningham, and said she had been acquainted with him 20 years. Connery's examination was proceeded with on Friday.

☞ The Chicago Magazine, No. 2, for April, is just received by A. Williams & Co. Boston, and J. H. Foster, Portsmouth. It contains views of Chicago High School, Lake street from La Salle to Clark, and St. James' Church and Rectory. Interesting to persons looking West.

☞ N. D. Hubbard, Esq., has been appointed United States Dispatch Agent for Boston, in place of S. R. Glen, editor of the Boston Times. Mr. Hubbard is a son of ex-Governor Hubbard, of New Hampshire, and held the same office during Mr. Polk's administration.

☞ It is said that 30,000 slaves were sold and removed from Virginia last year, and that 2000 more escaped.

☞ The Hartford, Conn., Calendar, of the 18th says that 54 persons were confirmed by Bishop Brownell, in Christ Church, (Episcopal,) about two weeks before, making 94 within a year. About 50 new communicants were added on Easter Sunday, of whom 18 were Germans, to whom it was administered in their own language. The "offerings" on that day were nearly $400.

☞ The legal representatives of Uriah Paulk, of Alabama, who was killed by a collision between two passenger trains on the South Western Railroad in Taylor county, Ga., have recovered $20,000 damages from the Company. The case was tried before the Georgia Supreme Court.

☞ H Neal Dow of Portland, Me., left Boston last Wednesday for Liverpool, having accepted an invitation of the British Temperance Societes, to address the people in behalf of the Temperance cause. His visit is also to be extended to the continent.

☞ Rev. W. A. P. Dillingham of Augusta, Me., has received a call from the Universalist Society of Dover and Foxcroft, Me., and deemed it his duty to accept, although unanimously urged to remain at Augusta, by the Society there.

THE SECRET DISCOVERED AT LAST.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the NEW STORE, No. 15, always seems c . We have at last discovered the secret of it. On stepping inside, we find that the proprietors, MESSRS. ALLEN & PAINE, in fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discover that the store contains a Sky-Light, givin em facilities for showing their Goods possessed by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived or quality of goods. We notice, also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, altogether, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

We know nothing of its merits save what we read, but that is sufficient, when we see such testimonials of its efficacy as the following which we clip from the Ottawa Free Trader:

"Having tried successively sundry highly recommended 'hair tonics' on our own half denuded crown, we about lost all confidence in nostrums of that sort until a week ago we met a distinguished politician of the Illinois bar, who had grown three years ago with thin hair, and as 'gray as a rat,' but now boasting as fine a head of hair as one could wish. We demanded the secret of his improved appearance, when he readily accounted for it by ascribing it to the virtues of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We shall try that next."—[Rock River Democrat.

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

LOCAL.

☞ The Counting-Room, Composition Room, and Editors' Room of the Chronicle, are for the present at the Journal Office. We print in our own Press-Room, and may be found there, morning and evening.

MORE THREATS.—On Monday morning, in our report of the Police Court, held on Saturday, the name and testimony of Nathan Jones was given, among other witnesses. Those who were present at the Court, and who read our paper, know whether we made a true report or not.

On Monday morning, as we were coming from Vaughan into Congress street, after breakfast, said Jones hailed us, and commanded us, not to put his name into our paper again—if we did, he would "have satisfaction out of us, and pay for it." We told him to go ahead, and he said he could take off our jacket in two minutes. (We generally have on a clean shirt, Monday morning—so that would have been as good a time as any for such an exposure.)

We kept on our way without any questions; but suppose it was the mentioning him as a witness in the Coult assault case, that Jones didn't like. All we have to say, is, that we presume we have the right to report the proceedings of a public Court; and if he don't want his name to "stink among men," he had better keep out of such dirty scrapes as that. As to taking our jacket off so quick as he says—we hope he may get all the "satisfaction" he wants out of us, when he tries it.

By the way, as this Jones was one of the number who "stopped the Chronicle," or rather discontinued his subscription to it, last week, we don't see how he so quickly discovered what was in our Monday's paper. r.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.—Some young gentlemen of this city, have been desirous to procure the services of some lecturers from abroad,—and one of them sends a notice from Boston, that Mrs. Cluer and daughter will be here on Tuesday evening and Wednesday afternoon.

Notice is therefore given that there will be a lecture on Temperance by Mr. Cluer or by one of the ladies above-named, this, Tuesday evening in the Temple, at half past 7. To pay expenses, an admission fee of three cents will be taken at the door. Ladies and gentlemen invited to attend.

There will also be another meeting of the same kind, to be addressed by one of those speakers, on Wednesday afternoon, at the Temple, of which further notice will be given.

☞ It has been proposed to many gentlemen, to have a meeting, which would be largely attended by ladies and gentlemen who desire to have those wholesome laws obeyed and enforced which would secure the good order and quiet of the city. Such a meeting is to be held next Saturday afternoon, at the Temple, at 3 o'clock.—Several gentlemen will speak, and the occasion will probably be one of much interest.

☞ Commodore Newton, Commandant at this Naval Station, having been appointed duties on the Naval Board of Inquiry in reference to the retired list, at Washington, for the ensuing six months—upon Capt. C. W. Pickering will devolve the duties of Commandant. Both these efficient and popular officers started for Washington on Monday, where Capt. Pickering will remain a couple of weeks—during which time, the First Lieutenant, we presume, is Commandant.

We notice that Commander Henry French, formerly (when lieutenant) stationed at Portsmouth, has for the past two months officiated as Commandant of Charlestown Navy Yard, during the absence of Commodore Stringham, on duty at Washington on the Board of Inquiry. Mr. French is a gentleman, and we are glad to see the Charlestown Advertiser speak so well of him.

MORE VICTIMS OF THE WESTERN FEVER.—Messrs. James M. Sheldon and James Miller left this city for "the West" on Monday morning, intending to locate in Wisconsin, or somewhere else.

Mr. B. B. Swasey, with Mr. Wm. J. Merrill of Lawrence, also started for Minnesota, a week ago.

We certainly hope all who leave us will better their condition; but experience in every such matter shows the probability to be far otherwise—and that a man had generally better live and die on the spot where he was born.

☞ We understand that at the adjourned meeting of St. John's Church, held on Monday, it was unanimously voted to request Rev. Dr. Burroughs to withdraw his letter of resignation.

☞ Through tickets to Kansas, can be purchased at the Portsmouth & Concord Railroad depot, for $34,12.

ABOLITION OF DUTY.—At Port Spain, in the island of Trinidad, the export duty on the produce of, the island was abolished on the 1st of January last.

FROM HAVANA—INJURY TO SUGAR CROP.—New York, April 19.—Steamship Black Warrior, from Havana 14th inst., arrived early this morning. The recent heavy rains in Cuba have injured the sugar crop greatly, and prices have advanced accordingly. Muscavados are quoted at 10 a 13 rials per arroba, with an excited market. The stock on hand is 100,000 boxes, against 230,000 last year.

Money plentiful. Exchange improving, Freights very dull.

The United States frigate Saratoga was in port.

BETHANY, N. Y., April 19.—The University of Northern New York, in this place, was destroyed by fire last night. The building was owned by John F. Stoddard. Loss unknown.

LEAVENWORTH ELECTION.—St. Louis, Apr. 18.—Henry J. Adams, Free State candidati, is elected Mayor of Leavenworth by a majority of 180 votes over all other candidates.

VERY GRATIFYING.—It does a body good to have his pride flattered once in a while. We realize the benefit of it once a year.—Every April the Assessors come round and ask how much money we have got at interest; how much stock we have in the public funds or in banks, and various other questions which are supposed to be put to the "soild men." If there is any body round, we straighten up slightly, expand our corporosity, and in as heavy a chest tone as we can command, we answer, "about the same as last year." They know well enough what that is. So do we.—Nashua Telegraph.

PRINTERS' REFREAT.—The Philadelphia printers are still moving in the matter of securing a national retreat for worn-out printers. A gentleman of that city has offered to give a pleasant site for the building on the banks of the Schuylkill.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in the manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogoc, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the produce of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of weather—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature with the label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN
Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is a delicious tonic beverage, and by its peculiar flavor (so different from other gins) is universally esteemed by all who use it. It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

Poudrette, Guano, &c.
FARMERS and Citizens having Gardens will find the IMPROVED POUDRETTE one of the best fertilizers, as well as the cheapest substitute for manure where there is difficulty in procuring sufficient for garden and farm purposes.—Its chief recommendations are, that it is neat, inoffensive, contains no seeds of weeds, is very quick and powerful in its operation upon vegetation, and at the same time is so harmless that it can be put in direct contact with the seed or plant without injury, which is totally unlike other fertilizers. It will bring early crops of peas, beans, potatoes, sweet corn, &c., and for lawns and grass plots is unrivalled. The small quantity used and ease of application render it very economical. The price for 1 barrel is $2; over 5 bbls, $1 85 per bbl.
It may be bought of J. F. SHORES, Jr., No. 1 Congress Block, who also sells No. 1 Peruvian Guano, Super-phosphate of Lime and Tafeu. j a14

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. FRENCH & Co are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers call attention to, is that all persons have a legal right to send orders or tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first class that comes to hand. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Ternary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Cocoas, Spices, &c.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.,
141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest cash prices.
Their Stock consists of
Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Tarraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them put up genuine, as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give customers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:
1 lb. Souchong Tea, 1.00 | 5 lb. Mocha Coffee, 1.00
5 lb. Oolong do. 1.00 | 5 lb. Java do. 1.00
5 lb. Y. Hyson do. 2.25 | 8 lb. good do. 1.00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cans, enough for a family use, and we feel confident to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and we feel called upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of Coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same in that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste. This article is highly recommended as a family use beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections, &c., &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Tarraxacum has our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called Tarraxacum, in the market.

Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we invite a close examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

NEW MODE OF STEALING.—At Philadelphia, on Thursday afternoon, a prominent New York physician, while passing through a street, was met by a woman with a veil, who suddenly snatched his gold-bowed spectacles from his nose, and vanished.

☞ A young man named Michael Shandley, while running to a fire with one of the Salem engines, was instantly killed by being knocked down and ran over by the engine.

☞ Mayor Wimer of St. Louis delivered his Inaugural Address on Monday last. He recognized entirely, the ground upon which he was elected, and spoke strongly in favor of the advantages of free labor.

☞ A lady named Ann Eliza Tyler died suddenly on Thursday night last in Richmond, Va., from the bite of a spider. She was bitten on the right cheek the night before, and died the following evening from the effects.

☞ The New York Legislature adjourned without passing the Trinity Church bill and the Broadway Relief bill. One died in the Senate, and the other in the House.

☞ The bridge at West Epping, on the P. & C. Railroad, broke down, on Monday morning, immediately after the up train had passed over it, causing much delay for the rest of the trains during the day.

Poudrette, Guano, &c.
FARMERS and Citizens having Gardens will find the IMPROVED POUDRETTE one of the best fertilizers, as well as the cheapest substitute for manure where there is difficulty in procuring sufficient for garden and farm purposes.—Its chief recommendations are, that it is neat, inoffensive, contains no seeds of weeds, is very quick and powerful in its operation upon vegetation, and at the same time is so harmless that it can be put in direct contact with the seed or plant without injury, which is totally unlike other fertilizers. It will bring early crops of peas, beans, potatoes, sweet corn, &c., and for lawns and grass plots is invaluable. The small quantity used and ease of application render it very economical. The price for 1 barrel is $2; over 5 bbls, $1 75 per bbl.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22, 1857.

THE MURDER MANIA.—The attempt of Jennings to kill Mr. Sawyer at the South Boston House of Correction, is a proof that some change of discipline is needful in such institutions.

The same thing is made plain in another attempt in the State Prison at Charlestown, which, but for the determined presence of mind of the intended victim, would have resulted in another murder.

On Tuesday of last week, (says the Times,) Albert Gibbs, an officer of the State Prison, had occasion to reprimand John Dunnagan, a convict employed in the cabinet shop, who, while gazing listlessly about the room, was told to attend to his work. Dunnagan instantly seized a chisel and made a rush at the officer, who was, however, prepared for such a demonstration. He drew a pistol from his pocket, and, levelling it at the head of Dunnagan, ordered him to his bench. The would-be murderer quailed before the resolute man, and was instantly seized and placed in solitary confinement. This is by no means the only occurrence of the kind since the Wardens were murdered.

A convict named Ira E. Hersom, under sentence for committing an assault on officer Ham some five years since, was heard a few days ago, cursing and applying opprobrious epithets to an officer. Deputy Charles Walker, who was a listener to the conversation, had the man placed in confinement.

After Hersom had been locken up, he was heard to say that there was but one officer in the prison that was not afraid of him, (meaning Deputy Walker,) and he would "soon put him where his brother had gone."

He was not placed in solitary, but only separated for two or three days from the other prisoners, and is now at liberty, being employed about the corridors in sweeping. None of the contractors, who regard him as a dangerous fellow, will have him in the shops. Hersom has been heard to threaten the officers with murder.

The Boston Journal suggests that all the keepers of the prisons go armed and shoot down such as Jennings, when they make attempts at murder, and adds, the shooting dead of one of these fellows would at once bring all the insane prisoners to their senses.

We have supposed there might be a classification of prisoners, so that the murderers, slung-shot men, and assaulters generally, should be shut up in some cells, where they could work each one alone, with only a small hole for food and work to go in, but themselves not come out at all.

To this, we know it might be objected, that this solitary life would produce insanity, sickness, death. Well, be it so:—far better that such men should sicken and die, than that they should kill wardens and keepers, valuable men.

Then the mere thief, swindler, &c., who deserve the punishment, but are not dangerous to life, might live as now, in gangs and shops. There ought to be some discretionary power, by which they could be assorted, so as to be comparatively safe.

SEPARATIONS.—In the moment of parting with a beloved friend, who goes to a distant land, or a distant part of our own own, there mingles with the hope of success, and the prayer for welfare, the sadness of the thought, we may never meet again on earth. You may fail, and so not return, or I may fall before your return, and thus this may be our last meeting, our last separation on earth. Without the hope of life and immortality brought to light in the Gospel, how dismal, how gloomy, how dreadful the parting scene. But with this hope, this belief and prospect of another and a higher life,—the parting is hopeful, the spirits are kept up, and the separated friends may each go on his way rejoicing.

☞ Robert Archibald, a Scotchman of liberal education, and a well-known strolling printer, was found dead near the railroad track in North Andover on Monday. He had been employed in Andover for two or three years. "Archy" was one of the old school, and rum was his foe, and the cause of his wretched life and untimely death. We have often met him,—in Concord generally, but last here in our own office. With all his wisdom and varied information, he died as the fool dieth. Let others take warning.

☞ Speaking of eagles, says the Herald, the philosopher and patriot Benjamin Franklin, warmly opposed the adoption of that fierce and rapacious bird as our national emblem. Franklin stigmatized the eagle as a thief and coward.

EXETER CORRESPONDENCE.

EXETER, April 21, 1857.

Dear Chronicle:—The Court of Common Pleas commenced a session in this town, on Tuesday of last week. Judge Sawyer, of Nashua, is the Presiding Justice. The cases on trial thus far, have been devoid of attraction to any but those engaged in them; at least, one would so infer from the small number of lookers on. During the term of the Supreme Judicial Court holden here in February last, when many interesting criminal cases were disposed of, the whole auditorium was crowded with attentive listeners. But the dry formalities of civil actions do not hold forth such allurements to the multitude, as the details of vice, and the confessions of crime.

Our Court House is said to be the best in the State. It is capacious, well-furnished, and is much better fitted for the presence of a lady than the other Court House of the County. Not that the doors and aisles are any wider, but that it is free from that peculiarity for which a porcine habitation and its sister Court House are synonymous. But yet there is one thing lacking about it. It is very difficult for a speaker to make himself heard in all parts of the room, which is found to be a very serious inconvenience, Yet we doubt, if taking all in all, superior accommodations for the Courts can be found in New England.

The celebrated Franklin Dramatic Company gave three of their popular entertainments at the Town Hall, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of last week. At their first appearance, somebody's thrilling tragedy of something was represented with powerful effect. We will not undertake to say but what the actors killed off everybody just how and where it was directed in the text; yet for some reason or other, the audience didn't call out the hero of the piece, after he had shuffled off his mortal coil, and compel him to deliver a speech, as was done to Forrest when we last saw him. Full houses each evening, evinced their approbation of the model acting here exhibited, in the fashion of Bowery boys. We predict for this talented troupe, crowded houses (provided they sell tickets enough,) whithersoever they go.

The votes cast for County officers at the late election, have not yet been officially declared in Court, though all the returns are in. There is no doubt that all the Republican cadidates are elected, with the exception of the Register of Deeds, and as little doubt is expressed that our old friend Col. Thomas Smith is chosen to that office. The Colonel, somehow or other can't help being popular; he always was ahead of his party, and one can hardly regret that he has been successful at this last trial. He has before filled the office of Register with ability—having always for his motto, "Deeds, not words!"

Judge French is expected to leave for Europe on the first part of May next, in the steamer from Portland. His journey will furnish him with extended means of furthering the cause of Agriculture in this section of the country.

The Unitarian Society of this town will give a Fair at the New Town Hall, on May day. The announcement is enough to guarante a fine time all around.

Yours, F. G.

THE FRESHET.—Eleven bridges were carried away by streams in Tamworth, N. H., on Friday night of last week, and many in the neighboring towns. The effects of the freshet in that and neighboring towns in Carroll county, have been quite serious.—Other great damages to mills, buildings, fences, &c., have been sustained by various individuals.

There have been quite a large number of mill-logs floating by Cape Neddock beaches, and many have been secured. The most of them are pine and spruce. Probably these logs are the same that broke loose from the Penobscot and Androscoggin rivers.

MASONIC.—The Masonic fraternity in Nashua, N. H., are making great preparations to celebrate St. John's day, the 24th of June. Lodges, Chapters and encampments from Massachusetts and other States have been invited and are expected on the occasion. Dodworth's celebrated band from New York, forty pieces, has been engaged, and no expense will be spared to make it one of the grandest affairs that the Masonic Fraternity ever had in New Hampshire.

PLEASANT.—To clamber over a 12 foot fence, get your best pants all over white-wash, tear a hole in the knee, jump in a heap of mud, destroying the polish on your boots, all out of pure disinterestedness, for the sake of telling a man his "shed is all a-fire," and be told "Oh, it's nothing but our smoke house."

☞ On Friday afternoon the workmen engaged in the excavation of stone at Quaryville, Conn., had a tremendous blast.—Instead of drilling holes, they found a large fissure into which they poured 1500 pounds of powder, and then stopped up the crevice. When the train was fired, at least 3000 tuns of rock were removed, 1000 tuns being thrown from twenty-five to one hundred rods distance. One solid mass of rock, weighing at least fifteen tuns, was thrown a distance of thirty rods; fences in the vicinity were completly destroyed, and the tops of trees taken off as clean as if done by an axe.

COOLIE TRAGEDY.—Accounts from Hong Kong of the date of February 15th, mention that another frightful Coolie tragedy is reported from Swatow, that of that of the French ship Anais, of 632 tons, which left that place on the 29th of January, with Coolies for Havana. The following day the Coolies rose upon and overpowered the crew, killed the captain, supercago and chief mate, (the supercargo's son,) and ran the vessel ashore at Tong-lae, about five miles above Breaker's Point. The rest of the crew, with the surgeon, are safe on shore and well treated by the Chinese, but hold for a ransom of $500; and the ringleaders among the Coolies are in custody, and will be given up to the French authorities.

The New Orleans Crescent says: "Upon the adjournment of one of the Courts, a few days ago, the judge instructed the jury not to talk about the pending case with any one. One of the jurors facetiously asked if he might consult his wife in regard to the matter, as he always found it necessary to tell her something when he went home? His honor gallantly replied that it was not the province of the court, to meddle with matters of so domestic and private a nature.

NAVAL.—The U. S. sloop of war Germantown was taken in Norfolk Dry Dock last week. She will be taken in hand immediately, be ready for sea in six weeks, and is to proceed to the East Indies.

FIRE IN LOWELL.—A serious fire broke out in Lowell Tuesday morning. The two brick buildings, each of three stories, at the corner of Merrimack and Prescott sts., were entirely destroyed, with their contents. Loss $30,000. The fire was doubtless the work of an incendiary.

SUICIDE.—In Concord, N. H., on Sunday, the wife of Theodore Ford commited suicide by hanging. Insanity, caused by Millerism, is thought to be the cause.

☞ On Friday last, the water in the Cochecho river was higher than it had been for 10 years, and the falls at Dover even really magnificent in their appearance.

NEW YORK, April 20.—A violent northeast gale has prevailed since yesterday noon. Several vessels in the harbor have dragged their anchors, but no serious casualty has occurred as yet. The frigate Niagara remains at anchor, and will not proceed to sea until the storm abates. The steamer Geo. Law, for Aspinwall, did not go to sea this afternoon, in consequence of the storm. Steamer Roanoke, from Norfolk, reports having seen this morning a ship ashore near Barnegat, with foremast gone. A schooner was ashore near by her.

9 P. M.—The storm continues. It has now rained steadily, accompanied with a heavy gale, along the coast, for 24 hours, and bids fair to continue all night.

PHILADELPHIA, April 20.—Snow fell last night at Reading and Pottsville, to the depth of 12 inches. The iron roof of the machine shop of the Reading Railroad, at Reading, was broken down by the weight of the snow. All the workmen escaped except two, who were slightly injured.—The woodwork of several locomotives was damaged. The portion of the roof that fell was 180 feet in length. The accident will not interfere with the business of the road. The snow fell here briskly for a short time this afternoon. The wires of the western telegraph line via Pittsburg, are down.

NAVAL.—Washington, April 20.—Capt. Montgomery has been ordered to the command of the steamer Roanoke, which is soon to make her trial trip. Capt. Dupont has been ordered to the command of the Minnesota.

The third Board of Naval Enquiry organized this afternoon, after formally paying their respects to the Secretary of the Navy.

New Orleans papers of the 14th are received, but contain nothing important.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE SECRET DISCOVERED AT LAST.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the NEW STORE, No. 15, always seems crowded with customers. We have at last discovered the secret of it. On stepping in side, we find that the proprietors, MESSRS. ALLEN & PAINE, in fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discover that the store contains a Sky-Light, giving them facilities for showing their Goods possessed by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived in the quality of goods. We notice, also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, altogether, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

We know nothing of its merits save what we read, but that is sufficient, when we see such testimonials of its efficacy as the following which we clip from the Ottawa Free Trader:

"Having tried successively sundry highly recommended 'hair tonics' on our own half denuded crown, we about lost all confidence in nostrums of that sort until a week ago we met a distinguished politician of this State whom we had seen three years ago with thin hair, and as 'gray as a rat,' but now sporting as fine a head of hair no one could wish. We demanded the secret of his improved appearance, when he readily accounted for it by ascribing it to the virtues of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We shall try that next."—[Rock River Democrat.

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

Use Dr. Clough's
Columbian Pills,

A WONDERFUL Medicine, good in all diseases, and for persons of all ages, and especially for females to use in Pregnancy and childbed. Ladies, please read what Mrs. SEARS, an old, experienced nurse of 1 ittefield, says:

"I have used Dr. Clough's COLUMBIAN PILLS in my business, as nurse, for three or four years, and find them just what the sick need; they act on the stomach and bowels so mildly, relieve the head, do not debilitate, and calm the nerves. I am sure I but do my duty to my female companions in recommending these Pills for their use, in preference to any similar preparation.

SARAH SEARS, Nurse."

This recommendation is valuable, because it is by a lady of large experience as a Nurse, and she knows just what the ladies need to regulate and strengthen them, so as to be able to do their duty cheerfully and safely, as women and mothers.

These Pills will give satisfaction!
These Pills are doing great good!
These Pills are extensively used!

LOCAL.

☞ The Counting-Room, Composition Room and Editors' Room of the Chronicle, are for the present at the Journal Office. We print in our own Press-Room, and may be found there, morning and evening.

☞ The strong northeast wind of Monday and Tuesday was the cause of a most beautiful spectacle on our sea coast. A number of gentlemen from our city went to Newcastle to view the gambols of the ocean, and considered themselves amply repaid, even had the walk been twice as long. Looking toward the South—the sight was magnificent, a succession of heavy waves seemed determined to scale the foaming rocks or perish in the attempt; on they plunged with mad fury, seething and boiling in their haste to engage in the conflict; now is the moment of interest; they are about to engage the supine monster, who confident in his powers, calmly awaits the onset; with desperation they rush against his black form, and for a moment it seems as though the hardened giant must succumb; but look what a halo encircles the sturdy fellow's brow, so pure, so white, so delicate; and now the waves retreat, but only to marshal their forces for a new attack.

Farther on is a smooth sandy beach, upon which the waters march and countermarch in perfect regularity.

And yet farther on, the huge swell break before they reach the shore, while away on at the farthest point, the cloud of spray rises far above the trees upon the shore, forming an ever-varying landscape not excelled in beauty around here.

☞ The British schooner Admiral, Capt. Farnsworth, from Annapolis, N. S., for Salem, Mass., was run ashore Tuesday forenoon, 21st inst., at 10 o'clock, just outside Fort Constitution, in Portsmouth harbor, where she now lies nearly imbedded in sand, but will probably be got off on the decrease of the wind with but slight damage, by discharging a portion of her cargo—wood. The crew were taken off by the U. S. Life Boat, from New Castle, manned by a gallant crew from that place.

☞ The great storm of Monday and Tuesday, which in New York and Boston abounded in rain and snow, was here most fly a gale of wind, which broke down old fences, trees, &c. We had but little rain.

A CHANGE.—Uncle Toby receiveth a Call. On Tuesday morning, Uncle Toby received a call from Mr. Nathan Jones, who ordered his advertisement to be taken out of the paper, demanded a settlement, threatened a suit if this was not done, and gave Uncle Toby permission to put his name in the paper as often as he pleased, it he would only put his own in with it. For this permission, Uncle Toby is duly grateful, but hopes he shall have no call to make use of it.

☞ Mr. Wm. Rea, the man who was injured on Saturday at Marcy & Petigrew's Ship Yard, died on Monday morning.

☞ Don't forget the Temperance Meeting at the Temple this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, and this evening at 7.

MRS. PARTINGTON AND THE RUSSIAN HELMET.—"Is that a tropic of the Chimera?" said Mrs. Partington, as she dropped into our vacant chair, pointing to the Russian helmet that a friend brought us from the Crimea, which reposes in warlike guise up on the bust of Finn on the table fronting us. "That, madame," said we, "is a trophy of the Crimea, that fearful battle ground, and it seems to bear about it the odor of strife in the perilous deadly breaches, and the crash of contending forces." She looked at it attentively. "Yes," responded she, "and not only the breeches, but the rest of the uniform besides." We saw that she had made a slight mistake.—"Do you know," said Old Roger, who was present, "why this helmet [taking it in his hand] is like the First Division of the Massachusetts Militia?" We confessed we didn't know, unless it was that it had been on a bust, but felt assured that couldn't be it, knowing that it was several months since the division encampment. "It is because it is wanting a head." We smiled. "There shouldn't be no division about it—not the first division," said Mrs. Partington earnestly, "and to put in Gen. Andrew will put new life and animosity into it." We took a pinch of snuff all round and drank the health of the old lady in a bumper of Bazin, Morse & Co.'s Extra Adhesive Mucilage.—Sat. Eve. Gaz.

FIRES.—The dwelling house of William Merrill, about half a mile from Hollis, N. H., was burnt Friday night; loss $2000. Most of the furniture, sheds and barn were saved. Insured in the Hollis Mutual for $900.

THE SERIOUS FAMILY.—The tax-payers of Portsmouth, Va., who should prepare themselves to settle up, as we understand Collector White will commence operation next Monday. Death and taxes wait for no man, and our people should be prepared for both.—Transcript.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Steamship Fulton, Capt. Wotton, from Havre via Southampton, arrived at 7 A. M., with London dates to April 8.

Cotton unchanged; breadstuffs depressed. Money tight. Consols declined 1 per cent., closing at 95 5-8. It is thought that the Bank of England would raise the rate of interest to 7 per cent.

THE MINISTRY ABROAD.—Washington, April 20.—Not one of our foreign ministers has intimated his intention voluntarily to return home, although they have been advised that the administration wish to make an entire change.

UTAH.—No decisive steps have been taken relative to Utah. There is difficulty in finding a proper man for Governor, although there are a half-a-dozen applicants for the office.

The principle of rotation appears to-day, for the first time, in South Carolina, by the appointment of Mr. Comeras, District Attorney, in place of Mr. Ivan.

RAILROAD DISASTER.—Poughkeepsie, Apr. 20.—The 10.50 train from Albany, when near Rhinebeck, was thrown off the track, precipitating the engine, tender and baggage car into the river. The engine and tender are entirely under water, and the baggage car is resting on them. The passenger cars were thrown across the track, and were considerably damaged. A few persons received slight bruises, but no one was fatally injured.

☞ The poisoning case at Lowell, Mass., is closed at last, by a verdict of the Coroner's jury, that Nath'l Sweetser, the deceased, came to his death from corrosive sublimate, administered to him by some person unknown to the jurors.

☞ On Monday morning, at Lowell, Mass., in the Police Court, Thomas Heathwood was ordered in $200 to the Court of Common Pleas as a common seller of intoxicating liquor.

RHEUMATISM AND CIDER.—Cider is good for the Rheumatism in adults, but Lawrence's Carminative is the best medicine known for children.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. Notwithstanding a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be pilled to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN
Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'" Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. Tansill & Co. are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and verify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are well protected as if they themselves were present. We would call attention to the which the managers call attention to, is, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication reaches us. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Ternary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.

141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest Cash prices.—Their Stock consists of Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give our customers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea,	1 00	5 lb. Mocha Coffee,	1 00
5 lb. Oolong do.	1 75	do. do.	90
5 lb. Hyson do.	2 25	8 lb. good do.	1 00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be of the purest article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 2 lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the purest and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, in imitation of the highly Genuine article, in oil and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the purest article generally in use. It is about one-half the quantity of Coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it, this being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, it may be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Billious affections, &c., &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Taraxacum has our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called Taraxacum, in the market.

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be offered by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our goods and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

Hutchins' Hair Dye.

The very best now in use, as the many thousands that have tried it will testify.

THE great superiority of this Dye consists in its easy application, having but one preparation. It also contains twice as much as any other, and sold at a much less price. This Dye imparts to the hair the most natural color of any yet discovered; and instead of injuring, it gives it the beauty and elasticity of youth. This Dye is having the largest sale of any Dye in the market, and is warranted to give better satisfaction than any yet offered to the public.

A POOR GHOST STORY.

MELANGE.

Years ago, while a boy, I lived in a small town in New Hampshire. In a little court, which led from one of the principal streets, stood the terror of superstitious women, the bugbear of little boys—the haunted house. Why it was haunted, gossips did not say, but certain it was that for years it had not been occupied, on account of the dreadful sights and noises which had frightened away the former tenants; and it was then in a progress of decay.

On a bright October afternoon I had occasion to pass by this court, on my way home with a large arm-chair. As I came down the street, I passed a crowd of boys kicking foot-ball. Before I reached the court, the ball, urged by a sudden kick, flew by me. Naturally of a mischievous disposition, I thought what a joke it would be to kick it into the haunted house, and no sooner had the brain conceived than the body performed. A sturdy kick and up went the ball; the parabola was executed, and down it came, into the open stairway leading to the cellar of the shunned dwelling. But there was one thing I had overlooked when I planned this piece of mischief; that was, the boys who were kicking the ball and who now came running toward me with gestures demonstrative of what they would do when they caught me. No time was to be lost; up the court I went, down the rickety stairs, dragging my chair after me, and as my head disappeared the foremost boy had not turned the corner. I was congratulating myself on my escape, but just then the chair struck a prop which held up a heavy sliding door at the foot of the stairs, and I was a prisoner in the haunted house.

The boys who came to look for me found no signs of me or the ball, and therefore were the more convinced that an evil spirit tenanted the house, and, supposing he had made way with me, finally left the place in fright.

Left to myself in the damp, dark cellar, I was for a while somewhat confused. At last I began to feel around, and found that the door was fitted in a heavy iron socket, allowing no hold for the fingers, and defying all my efforts to raise it. Finally, satisfied of my inability to get out, I seated myself in the cause of my incarceration, the chair, and waited like Mr. Weller, for "something to turn up." Pretty soon the sun went down, and the small quota of light which had crept in through the crevices in the wall disappeared, and then something did "turn up."

Bats flew here and there, unable to get out, because the door was shut, in immense numbers or else very swiftly, for I was struck by about a dozen every minute; rats in swarms, scampered to and fro, holding high carnival, snarling and squealing, while I jumped up in the chair, thoroughly disgusted.

But everything has an end, and my trouble was no exception to the general rule. About nine o'clock, as near as I could calculate, I heard steps on the floor above, and presently there was heard a howling and clanking of chains, yells of despair, then a low wailing came from a far corner of the room, and anon a jumping and slamming of doors. By this time I had got fairly into a cold sweat; I heard a great scuffle in the room above, and distinctly heard a volley of curses poured forth in real good Anglo Saxon, at which I shouted with all my might, and presently a trap in the floor was taken up, a torch thrust down, and the face of my father appeared in the opening. I ran up under the light, and was soon drawn up.

The boys had gone home, and said nothing about me, until my parents, alarmed at such unusual absence, had made inquiries, and not being afraid of ghosts, raised a party to search the house, when they had found a party of wild young fellows, partly intoxicated, who had been overcome after a short struggle.

No more ghosts were ever seen near the house. NAUTA.

PATRIOTISM.—A New York correspondent of the Newburyport Herald has seen in the hands of a grandson of Isaac Van Wart, of Revolutionary memory, the medal voted by Congress to Van Wart, as one of the three incorruptibles, who captured Major Andre. It is a silver medal, with the original ribbon and rosette attached to it, given to the grandfather in 1780, as a reward for his fidelity—oval in form, and weighing about two dollars, although the owner has been repeatedly offered one thousand for it.

On one side is a raised wreath united with the motto, "Vincit Amor Patriæ," encircling this inscription:—"Presented by Congress to Isaac Van Wart, as one of the the captors of Andre." On the other side, is a shield, with the simple word "Fidelity."

In alluding to the tempting bribe which Major Andre offered to his captors, to release him, Washington Irving says it has been well authenticated that the offer included bills or drafts, on his friends in New York, agents for the British government, to the amount of one million dollars!

☞ At a State Temperance Convention held in Trenton, New Jersey, last week, a resolution was adopted, "affirming unwavering confidence in the prohibitory principle, believing it to be morally right, politically expedient, and in every way promotive of the public good." The friends of temperance were also exhorted to hold meetings, lectures, &c., for the cause. Of course, the man who really wishes the cause success, must go for all efficient means.

BASE.—Yesterday afternoon a young woman known as Rose Bell, but said to be named Rose Martin, took some refreshments to the jail, as she had been in the habit of doing, to her "friend" Rangy Jones, who is confined there for an offence committed some months ago. Some circumstances it seems had excited the jealousy of Jones, and while she was at the jail he asked her to kiss him, and on her attempting to comply, he threw one arm affectionately around her neck and with the other hand drew a razor across her throat, literally "betraying her with a kiss." He was securred before he could finish his deadly purpose.—Washington Star, April 17.

☞ An editor in California lately received a long document, which he was requested to insert gratis under his editorial head. He placed it under his pillow that night, and expresses his willingness to insert similar communications in the same way, and on similar terms.

LIKE PARENT LIKE CHILD.—An Alexandria correspondent of the N. Y. Spirit of Times writes that of five terrier pups recently produced on his premises, from a bob-tailed slut and dog, three were born with bob-tails!

Morning Chronicle.

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1857.

☞ In Boston, late on Sunday evening, officer Sackett, of the harbor police, was applied to by two sailors, Peter Sampson and George Wilson, the latter being intoxicated and the former partially so, for assistance in getting on board their vessel, the fishing schooner Waverly, lying at the north side of Commercial wharf. Mr. Sackett accordingly proceeded with them to their vessel, and Wilson got on board. Upon reaching the deck, he commenced abusing the officer, for which Sampson pretended to take him to task, saying that the officer had done him no harm, but rather a favor. Sampson then stepped behind Mr. Sackett, and throwing his whole weight against him, pitched him headlong upon the deck of the vessel, a distance of fourteen feet from the top of the wharf. Mr. Sackett received a severe gash over the left eye, and his right arm was severely wrenched. Had not Mr. S. broken the force of his fall by extending his arms, the result would have been fatal. It was a narrow escape. Sampson and Wilson were both arrested.

LOWELL POISONING CASE.—The coroner showed the jury a phial marked "poison," containing a few drops of a colored liquid, which Mr. A. H. Libby, the son-in-law of Mrs. Sweetser, had handed to the coroner stating that he had found it in the pocket of Mr. Sweetser since his death. Mrs. Sweetser was called to the stand, and testified that her late husband at times was insane, and she thought he might have taken the corrosive sublimate (bed bug poison) mistaking the bottle in which it was kept for the brandy bottle. The jury, after a consultation of five minutes, as we before stated, returned a verdict to the effect that said deceased came to his death from corrosive sublimate, administered to him by some person unknown to the jurors.

AMONG THE "SHAKERS."—Marshal Westcott and Constable Welch of Newburyport, dropped very suddenly among a half dozen suspicious individuals in the "Lone Star," in that city, on Sunday morning just before one o'clock. The case has not yet been disposed of in the police court. The Herald says the new city marshal is showing himself to be efficient and intelligent in the performance of his duties, and since his term commenced several rum and gambling shops have been closed. In some instances he has also appeared in the court, and conducted cases with more than average lawyer shrewdness."

JEWS CHANGING THE SABBATH.—The Baltimore True Union says: "Lord's day services have of late been held by the Israelites of our city. A call is now made for a decision, as to the permanent continuance of the arrangement. This will prove an important step to the Jews, should the arrangement prove permanent."

FRESHET DAMAGES.—By the late rains, the streams in New Hampshire and Maine are so swollen as to do much damage. In all directions they report bridges and mills carried away, and farms damaged. We have a letter from Bartlett, N. H., which gives the story for all that region. It says every bridge in that town is carried away; the one in Conway, where the water rose 24 feet, is damaged $3000: and many farms have been well nigh ruined by the sand brought down the stream.—Newburyport Herald.

The Paris correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser says:

A story as absurd as untrue has been published in the United States, to the effect that the French Government have fixed the indemnity of the widow of Charles Morey at 500,000 francs. This report is not only untrue, but has embarrassed the Government, which had about fixed on the sum of eighty thousand francs. They now hardly know what to do in the face of these exaggerated pretensions. In the meantime they have given her a few thousand francs to meet present demands.

ILLNESS OF MR. MERRIAM.—The New York Commercial of Tuesday evening says that the most serious apprehensions are felt for the result of the sickness of Mr. E. Merriam, the weather man of the New York press, he having suffered a relapse in consequence of imprudently leaving his room, contrary to the advice of his physician.

BREACH OF PROMISE.—In the Maine Supreme Court at Bangor, Esther Berry has recovered a verdict of $975 against Jos. Y. Bakeman, who promised her marriage in 1851, and continued promising until 1855, when he married another girl and removed to Canada.

Douglas Jerrold once spoke of the blood and thunder style of literary composition as "writing in the jugular vein."

FROM ENGLAND.

The majority of Liberals thus far elected to parliament counts 116.

The amount of gold on the way from Australia to England was estimated at £2,500,000, the great part of which is at hand.

The London Times' Paris correspondent says the unexpected increase in the rate of interest by the the Bank of England had an unfavorable effect on French trade.—On the other hand, the new American tariff has incouraged the manufactures who are expecting profitable orders from the United States.

The corn market throughout France was declining

A Madrid despatch says Mexico recognizes the justice of the Spanish demand.

The commercial advices from Australia are unfavorable.

In consequence of the spread of the murrain in the North part of Europe, England prohibits the importation of cattle, skins, etc., which, it is thought will affect the provision trade. The murrain had also appeared among the cattle in Austria.

The latest advices from China indicate that the closing of the five Chinese ports to European commerce was quite imminent.

The Grand Duke of Tuscany has declined to conclude with the Papal Chair a concordat like the Austrian.

The latest advices state that the Persian army was firmly posted at Shiraz, and Gen. Buhler was fortifying Arabistan. The Southern provinces were tranquil.

The accouchment of Queen Victoria was daily expected.

For the Chronicle.

A TRIP TO THE SEASHORE.

Messrs. Editors:—In common with many other people, Sniffkins and myself concluded, on Tuesday morning, to go and see the sea. Not quite decided at which point to take our view. The entrance of a young man with the astounding intelligence that there was a ship ashore at Wallis's Sands, immediately settled the question in point.

Knowing that a hungry person is more apt to attend to the ragings of his stomach than to the ragings of the sea, we fortified ourselves with a can of milk, a bottle of coffee, a basket of crackers, salt fish, and so forth.

Without any remarkable adventure, we reached a point, distant about a mile from the shore by the road, but only one-third of the distance in an air-line, and as we here found a sheep-pen we constituted it our bivouac. Here we picked out a soft stone for a seat, and laying a board on two others as a table, commenced destroying the potables. Sniffkins' better qualities now shew themselves, namely, an ability to eat fast, and eat a great while and to drink voraciously meantime; and fearing that I might feel faint for want of food, I endeavored to "eat a little something," and so far succeeded as to be able to worry down near a dozen crackers, about a pound of salt fish, two slices of cake, three pints of milk, and one of coffee, and feeling as if I would like a dessert in such a desert place, had a few figs and almonds. I then drank a little milk and lay down on the table to sleep. When I awoke I found Sniffkins still eating, and that I had slept half an hour Feeling now as if we could enjoy the sublimity of the ocean, we took our milk cans and started for the shore. On our way, we bought three quarts of milk, which we carried with us. As we got within a short distance of the shore we began to look for the ship, but not seeing her, concluded she must have gone to pieces. However, much to our horror, we perceived four bodies high upon the shore, but were in a measure relieved when we discovered they were still alive, and proved to be some fellows who had come to see the ship, saw the sea, and had seen the saw. After running through the froth cast on the beach, until we had wet both feet and got our pants covered with sand, we thought we had seen enough, and so, more in sorrow than in anger, we gave Boreas the cold shoulder, and proceeded to the sheep-pen. Here we caulked the cracks with grass, built a fire place, and then a fire. Sniffkins thought he was disgusted with gipsey life, but I had almost persuaded him that he wasn't, when our fire smoked us both out with tears in our eyes. Ingress and egress was easy to our bivouac, as the entire end towards the west, was open. A martial spirit seemed now infused into us, and we took turns firing at a large bottle with a small pistol, seated astride the table, (Sniffkins and I, not the pistol) and after this was demolished, we finished the other two quarts of milk, the codfish, the crackers, &c.

Now we started on our weary homeward way, meeting at short distances, other people, as wise as ourselves, who were going to view the grandeur of the ocean, but would only wet their feet, get sand in their eyes, and a humming in their head, and after much tribulation reach the desired goal, dirty, wet and tired.

MR. SLUMPKINS.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The New Granadian Question.—Instructions were sent out by the Geo. Law, for our squadron to hold itself in readiness for any emergency that may arise. It is understood that our steamers in the West Indies will also proceed at once to join the forces at the Isthmus. It is said government will make one more effort to arrange the pending difficulties by negotiation, but, should this fail, the United States will proceed to take military possession of both sides of the Isthmus.

A Frenchman who was exhibiting some relics and other curiosities, produced among other things, a sword, which he assured his visitors was "De sword dat Balaam had, when he would kill de ass."—A spectator remarked that Balaam had no sword, but only wished for one. "Very well, dis is de one he wished for."

HEAVY EMBEZZLEMENT.—New York 20th.—The Cashier and confidential clerk of Beck & Co., merchants in Broadway, was arrested yesterday, charged with a defalcation amounting to the sum of $150,000.—The defalcation has been spread over about four years, and is the result, it is stated, of extensive speculation in fancy railroad and other stocks.

"If a man die, shall he live again?" And once a year, have the daisies answered it, and 'spring's little infant' given its fragment testimony; and every day, has the morning testified, and yet the world is murmuring still, 'if a man die shall he live again?'—Chicago Journal.

Mr. William Lynam of Eden, Maine, while sawing herring box boards in his mill on Monday of last week, was struck just below the breast by a slab thrown back by the saw, and so much injured that he died on Tuesday night. He was about 65 years of age.

DETROIT, April 21.—A large building at Albion, occupied as a jewelry and hardware store, fell during the storm to-day, burying five persons beneath the ruins.

A heavy snow storm has prevailed here all day.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Attention is particularly invited to the advertisement of Lawrence's Celebrated Carminative.

THE SECRET DISCOVERED AT LAST.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the NEW STORE, No. 15, always seems crowded with customers. We have at last discovered the secret of it: On stepping inside, we find that the proprietors, MESSRS. ALLEN & PAINE, in fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discover that the store contains a Sky-Light, giving them facilities for showing their Goods possessed by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived in or quality of goods. We notice, also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, all together, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

"BALM OF A THOUSAND FLOWERS"—A COUNTER FEIT. A person pretending to have been a partner with W. P. Fetridge in the above article, is palming off a spurious preparation on the public. All are counterfeits unless the name FETRIDGE & Co., is written on the side, and W. P. FETRIDGE & Co., printed on the front of the label. The genuine article is for sale by all respectable Druggists, who frown down counterfeits and imposters.

WHITE THEIR PERFUMED BREATH AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXIONS can be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the Balm of a Thousand Flowers would render it sweet? m28 dawlm

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

We know nothing of its merits save what we read, but that is sufficient, when we see such testimonials of its efficacy as the following which we clip from the Ottawa Free Trader:

"Having tried successively sundry highly recommended 'hair tonics' on our own bald dome, we should feel ashamed of our self confidence in nostrums of that sort until a week ago we met a distinguished politician of this State whom we had seen three years ago with thin hair, and as 'gray as a rat,' but now boasting as fine a head of hair as one could wish. We demanded the secret of his improved appearance, when he readily accounted for it by ascribing it to the virtues of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative. We shall try that next."—[Rock River Democrat.

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompanies the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

LOCAL.

☞ The Counting-Room, Composition Room, and Editors' Room of the Chronicle, are for the present at the Journal Office. We print in our own Press-Room, and may be found there, morning and evening.

MORE WESTERNERS.—Mr. T. R. Martin left this city, on Wednesday morning, for Cannon Falls, Minnesota; whither he will go in company with Messrs. John T. Larrabee of this city, and Benjamin Chapman of North Hampton, with their families. There are several Portsmouth men there now, and more are going soon. We hope this cannon won't burst. Messrs. Martin and Larrabee are both excellent mechanics and estimable young men; and valuable citizens for any place. We regret to lose such; and with the wealth in Portsmouth, and facilities for developing business here, their is no need of their letting them go.

☞ During the gale on Tuesday morning, the British brig Plantagenet, D. Morris, master, from Cardiff, England, with 300 tons of coal, for Portland, run into York Harbor, for shelter, and landed hard and fast in a muscle bed, almost up in York River, where she now lies—high and dry at low tide.

This brig spoke with the schooner Admiral, (now ashore at New Castle) just before both run ashore—and both captains being unacquainted with the locality, one concluded to run into Portsmouth Harbor, and the other into York; which was successfully performed.

But for the directing gestures of men on the beach at Newcastle, the schooner would have been run on the rocks and all hands perhaps been lost; and those who saw the brig coming ashore, tried to direct her master as to his course, but were unable to make themselves understood.

The brig is said to draw seventeen feet of water, and ran a very narrow escape from total wreck, by passing over a point of rocks, just before reaching her present position. She was carried so far up on the land, by the wind and high tide, that it is thought by some, she will never come off; but she probably will, without much damage, after being lightened of a portion of her cargo.

Since writing the above, we learn that the brig belongs in Windsor, N. S.; and that in going into the harbor, she struck on Betty Island Point, which took off a portion of her false keel; when she drove over, and got into the harbor safe, running on the flats.

No. 111, Weymouth v. Dow is now being tried. The Court will not probably adjourn till next week.

☞ We have now in type, and intend to publish in our Daily and Weekly, to-morrow, a Sermon on Being Righteous overmuch; by Rev. A. P. Peabody, D. D., preached last Sunday at the Stone Church.

For the Chronicle.

SHIP ASHORE.

A lively sensation was produced during the morning of the storm on Tuesday, by the report of a ship ashore, near Odion's point. Many anxious enquiries as to her position, her cargo, the safety of her crew, &c., were exchanged, and a large number of interested and philanthrophic individuals harnessed up their teams, and proceeded to the scene of disaster. Gentlemen accustomed to cross the water, ascended to the Observatory upon the Custom House, and with the best governmental glass, she could be distinctly seen, and her green waist and painted ports, buffeting with the breakers, and all her spars and rigging still standing. The fears of the populace were at their maximum of intensity, when some of the exploring scouts returned, reporting that they had to pay (Towle) over Sagamore Bridge, and that no such ship could be be found, notwithstanding the most extensive scanning of the whole line of coast in that direction. This, of course, led to a farther examination with the glass, of the phenomena which had so deceived the governmental observers, — and, behold! there she was, still surrounded by the breaking waves, which dashed high over her.

But on a closer scanting by some of the knowing, it appeared that the minature weather-cockbark pinnacled over the new building at Marcy & Pettigrew's Ship Yard, when seen through the intervening twigs of a large elm, would readily account for the noble ship ashore. The miniature ship is still there, and points the direction of the wind to all observers.

X.

☞ Among those who braved the late storm, few "had to take it" closer home, than our old friend Philbrick, the boatswain of the Navy Yard, with his crew.—He tells us that he rarely if ever got so thorough a ducking, during his long experience in crossing the river. His boat came over, scudding under bare poles, in five minutes; but he could not land at the Slip on account of the force of the waves. The boat was three-quarters of an hour on her return passage to the Yard; and some of the workmen's crafts were nearly twice as long in getting across.

☞ A grocer informs us that Mr. Thomas Treadwell, Congress street, should have been added to our list of Temperance Grocers, as he has sold no intoxicating liquors for years past. This is No. 21.

CINCINNATI, April 20.— The Ohio Legislature adjourned on Saturday, after passing a bill making it a penitentiary offence to claim or hold slaves in Ohio, or to attempt to carry away from the state as a slave any person of color. Resolutions were also adopted declaring it to be a duty to use all power consistent with the national compact, to prevent the increase, and to mitigate, and finally to eradicate slavery from the Union; and that the ordinance of 1787, so far as it concerns slavery, should be extended to all the territories of the United States; and the Senators and Representatives from Ohio are instructed and requested to vote against the admission of any new state, unless slavery be excluded by its constitution.

SLAVERY QUESTION.—New York, April 21.—The Methodist Conference, at Brooklyn, adopted this morning the majority report on slavery with the resolutions declaring slavery a great national and social evil, and pledging the influence of the Conference to prevent further extension over territory now free.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded in the year 1945, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogue, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle cork, and a fac-similie of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN

Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is a delicious tonic beverage, and by its peculiar flavor (so different from other gins) is universally esteemed by all who use it. It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says;

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

FARMERS and Citizens having Gardens will find the IMPROVED POUDRETTE one of the best fertilizers, as well as the cheapest substitute for manure where there is difficulty in procuring sufficient for garden and farm purposes.—Its chief recommendations are, that it is neat, inoffensive, contains no seeds of weeds, is very quick and powerful in its operation upon vegetation, and at the same time is so harmless that it can be put in direct contact with the seed or plant without injury, which is totally unlike other fertilizers. It will bring early crops of peas, beans, potatoes, sweet corn, &c., and for lawns and grass plots is unrivalled. The small quantity used and ease of application render it very economical. The price for 1 barrel is $2; over 5 bbls, $1 50 per bbl.

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which H. Frazier & Co are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as safe as if they were in Baltimore and were present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers call attention to, is, that all persons have a legal right to order their tickets to be filled, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the best numbers. No tickets are issued until after the money for the same is received, and then only at the regular price. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Ternary combinations. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.
141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest Cash prices.—Their Stock consists of Teas, Coffees, Chocolates,
Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Saleratus, &c.
Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine as they are put up ready for use, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give customers some idea of our sales, we annex a table of prices, viz:—
5 lb. Souchong Tea, 1 50 | 5 lb. Mocha Coffee, 1 00
5 lb. Oolong do. 1 25 | 5 lb Java do. 90
5 lb. Hyson do. 1 25 | 5 lb. good do. 1 00

☞ The prices are put up in pounds and ½lb. cans, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish their superiority.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with great care, and by a novel process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city, and connected with our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the Genuine Article. The proportion used is about one teaspoonful to a pint of Coffee, and 25 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medicinal properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as best suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to twenty pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections, &c., &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Taraxacum has our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called taraxacum, in the market.

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the retail price.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our goods, and comparison of prices, as compared with those of any other house.

LOTTERIES.

THE Lotteries of Samuel Swan & Co. are chartered by the State of Georgia, and have been commissioned and sworn to superintend their drawings, and certify that everything connected with the same is done in a strictly honorable manner. They also offer the public the opportunity for investment, the interests of parties at a distance being as well protected as if they were present. The Manager would respectfully call attention to the fact that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Georgia, as the lotteries of Samuel Swan & Co. are authorized by the Legislature of that State. A lottery will be drawn every Saturday throughout the year, all orders received being filled in the drawing next to take place after the same comes to hand. According to the scheme one ticket in every ten must draw a prize. Tickets are $10; halves, $5; quarters, $2.50. No tickets sent unless the money accompanies the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket, and are so simple that none can fail to understand them. There is no combination of numbers to puzzle the brain. Prizes vary from $20 to $50,000; every prize being drawn, and result of drawing forwarded to all purchasers.

A SERMON FOR THE TIMES.

BY REV. A. P. PEABODY, D. D.,

Delivered on Sunday, April 19th, 1857.

Ecclesiastes VII: 16—17:—"Be not righteous over much; neither make thyself over wise. Why shouldst thou destroy thyself? Be not over much wicked, neither be thou foolish. Why shouldst thou die before thy time?"

We err greatly in accepting any portion of this book except its very close, as containing positive precepts of duty which Solomon designed to urge his readers to obey. He had no fear of any one's being righteous over much, and the last thing that he meant was to suggest the possibility of such a thing. But Ecclesiastes, as I showed at some length in a recent sermon, is an autobiography, in which Solomon holds forth, for the warning of his readers, all the falsities and the follies which had seduced him for a season; all the unfortunate experiments in morals which he had tried, with their results; all the sensual and worldly maxims which he had adopted only to see and feel the sin and misery into which they could lead their votaries. Our text he expressly gives as one of the speculations of the days of his vanity. He says that he had seen that goodness often failed of lengthening out a man's days, nay, that strenuous duty might even shorten them; while it was no uncommon thing for a wicked man to reach a late and easy old age. He therefore came to the conclusion that goodness in its higher forms, and wisdom in its more arduous attainments, were not worth what they cost; that, as with so many other matters, in this also extremes were to be avoided. He said to his own soul, and would, at that stage of his moral history, have said to any one else: "Do not fret yourself about your duty, do not attempt or desire to be either wiser or better than the average of those around you; for what is the use of wearing yourself out prematurely by the pursuit either of goodness or of wisdom? For it will be all the same when you die and pass away forever in that grave where there is one event to the righteous and the wicked. But at the same time avoid a ruinous excess of wickedness. In the indulgence of appetite and passion take care not to endanger health or shorten life. Husband sensual and earthly pleasures so as to make them last as long as they can; for why by your recklessness should you hurry yourself out of the world before your time?" This, I say, was Solomon's moral code at one time; but he here cites it only to condemn it, and to prepare the way for that solemn conclusion of the whole matter, "Fear God and keep his commandments; for God shall bring every work into judgment with every secret thought, whether it be good or whether it be evil."

I apprehend that there are very many who have got no further in their moral philosophy than the stage indicated in our text, and I want to make this the subject of comment in the present sermon. Some of you may have read Lord Chesterfield's letters to his son, which are probably the best commentary on our text ever written. The letters are pervaded by a perpetual sneer at the pretence or endeavor to practise any virtues except those that are attended with immediate gain or popularity. The father attempts to tone the son's conscience down to a point at which it can never plant an arrow in his side or a thorn in his pillow. He is earnestly dissuaded from the effort at any higher morality than the art of pleasing. At the same time he is encouraged to the pursuit of all the vices that are creditable and fashionable in his corrupt circle, yet not so as to make himself the slave of any one appetite or passion. In fine he is bidden to get all the revenue of pleasure which vice can give, but to avoid such excesses as may cripple the power and shorten the period of sinning. Were you to read this heartless code you could not but condemn it; and yet let me ask, Are there not some among you whose standard is hardly higher than this? A very large portion of the moral instructions of the gospel and the pulpit seem to you unduly exacting and rigid. You are not willing to endeavor after anything like lofty or heroic virtue. A saintly character is entirely beyond your aim. Piety to God enters not into your plan of life. Active, earnest benevolence you even disapprove. Nothing vexes you more than the attempt to enlist you in any philanthropic enterprise, even though it were to purge away the foul miasmata that are infecting your own children, to cleanse the Augean stables, that are accumulating all around you, to roll back the tide of reckless, suicidal vice for which, unless it be stayed, there can hardly be one of our households that will not furnish victims or sufferers. A reputable standing and an easy life are the sum of your morality; and as to those who would urge anything farther or higher, you sympathize with the idolatrous king when he said to the prophet of reform, Art thou he that troubleth Israel? At the same time, for yourselves you are or mean to be careful not to fall into any gross vice, not to incur reproach or dishonor, not to injure your health or shorten your days. If you are otherwise than rigidly upright, it is only where customs of trade give you license. If you are penurious and grasping, it is only where the law will sustain you. If you permit yourselves sometimes to exceed the limits of strict sobriety, it is only on occasions that have always tolerated such freedom, and among companions who could not censure you without censuring themselves. If you slight and neglect religious duty, the sanctity of the Sabbath and the worship of God, you yet carry your neglect only to that point in which there are numbers to sustain you by their sympathy and similar practice. In fine you scorn the idea of being righteous over much, but at the same time are resolved not to be over much wicked.

The first thing to be said about this system of morality is that it is exceedingly hard to carry it out, and harder now and here than ever before or elsewhere. I do not mean that the first branch of the system presents any difficulty. It is the easiest thing in the world to abstain from any superfluous goodness, from such efforts as may fret and wear the conscience, from excellencies of every kind.—And it is no less easy to misquote Solomon against those few who really think goodness worth striving for, and to brand as Pharisaical whatever they are or do more than others. But as to the other branch of the system, Be not wicked overmuch, it is much easier to preach than to practise. There is no departure from the rules of strict morality which does not tend by its own nature to widen itself. It is a fearful thing to be without a fixed rule or law in morals,—as fearful and as perilous as it is to be on a vast desert or prairie without a road, or on the ocean without a compass, where if you once take a wrong direction, your distance from where you ought to be grows with every step or ship's length. By the slightest willing deviation from any law of integrity, or soberness, or purity, you disclaim that law, it is no longer your law, you are left without law, without any standard, except the temptation, or the appetite, or the passion of the moment. You are, it may be, afraid of going too fast and too far; but are never afraid of going what seems a very little farther than before, and the accumulations of these very little constitute an aggregate from which you would have shrunk in utter horror, had you foreseen it at the outset. Of those who started in life with fair reputations and in positions of high respectability, but are now ruined men for life, or sleep in early graves dug by their own profligacy, think you not that nine out of ten commenced their career of wrong-doing with Solomon's precept, Be not wicked over much? It was only slight and easily reparable dishonesty, or fashionable and venial excess, that they began with, and then they had no intention of going farther. But they, in these beginnings of sin, threw away chart and compass, and had drifted among the breakers before they had any clear consciousness of guilt or peril. I said that this danger is more intense here and now than before or elsewhere For ours is a hurrying nation and a hurrying age. We act strenuously and drift rapidly Our work burns and urges, and our passions are equally urgent and imperative. We hesitate and deliberate very little as to our lawful plans and enterprises, and are as little prone to deliberation where we are urged by guilty impulses. The vulgar term "fast," as applied to our people and our times, is eminently characteristic, and would to heaven that we could take into the account the perilous moral tendencies, to which we are prone to yield ourselves.

In this aspect the vice of intemperance is more alarming than it ever was before. Those who are indifferent to the measures of reform and are disposed to cavil at the maxims of abstinence which many deem the only safe ground, often refer to the very many of an earlier generation, who were what was called generous livers from early youth to a ripe and respectable old age, without the stigma of intemperance. There was one most important difference between their case and our own. They at least consumed nothing worse than alcohol; while in every form in which it now finds its way to the market it is compounded with subtle, rankling and maddening poisons so that the very same amount of indulgence which thirty years ago was consistent with a reputation for sobriety and a lengthened career, could now be continued but a few years without making an utter wreck of body, mind and soul. But apart from this, the genius of our times is more fervid and impetuous than that of any former generation; and, with the same material for its gratification, liking sooner lapses into appetite, appetite into insatiable craving, craving into the delirious madness of habitual inebriation, and that into the irresponsible madness which hurries its victim into the grave. You know not from your own experience what you are doing for your children of tender years, when by permission, precept and example you authorize what you mean shall be a moderate use of intoxicating drinks.—Not one out of ten of them will find himself able out of your sight to confine himself within the moderate limits you will prescribe.—The boy, who at fifteen, enjoys and covets the wine at your table, would not have reached twenty, without having often been in a condition in which you would blush for him, and there is more prospect of his dying a ruined man than of his living to do credit to your training, honor to his parents, and good to the world. I would say then that if, in the slow age of the Hebrew king the morality of our text proved itself impracticable, there is immeasurably stronger reason why it would prove impracticable now. The precept, Be not wicked over much, deserves its place only with the list of impossible things in the book of Esdras, "Weigh me the weight of the fire, or measure me the blast of the wind, or call me again the day that is past."

But, were it practicable, I would next ask you to observe its belongings. Solomon represents himself as having maintained this system in connection with utter scepticism as to life and retribution beyond this world. It is, difficult as it would prove in practice, the true theory, if death be an eternal sleep. Suppose this the case, the most reasonable course would be for us to calculate the greatest amount of pleasurable sensation and emotion that could be crowded within the probable period of our life without shortening it. To this end we certainly should practise some of the easier virtues. Honesty in the main, courtesy, kindness where it could be shown without effort or sacrifice, a somewhat mild and placable temper, a general regularity in our habits, would certainly enter into, and I am not certain that they would not fill out, our list of graces. I should add, perhaps, an easy, complacent feeling of the divine goodness,—something like gratitude, only not very fervent. But any very strong feeling of thankfulness or allegiance to the Almighty would be inadmissible; for that would certainly give us the uncomfortable feeling of penitence for our sins, it would make us restless under our low standard of goodness, and it might prompt a more laborious walk of duty, more vigilant self-command, more rigid self-denial, than could find its adequate compensation otherwise than in the assurance of a life to come. For, while arduous duty and self-sacrifice are sources of the highest happiness, I think that they are so chiefly because they seem to bring us into assured possession of the immortal heritage. I apprehend that, were we confined to their earthly revenue, they would cost more than they could bring. We should not then be righteous overmuch. And with our horizon limited to this life, we certainly, if we were wise, should refrain from those vices which necessitate their own repetition, and which, when made habitual, result in premature decay and dissolution. But we should seize with avidity such single opportunities of sin as brought immediate gain or pleasure, with no damage to health or reputation. We should abandon ourselves in great part to the current of circumstances, and whenever any appetizing vice threw itself in our way, we should have no motive strong enough to resist its allurement. In fine, our programme of life would be that announced by the ungodly in the book of Wisdom. "Our time is a very shadow, that passeth away; and after our end there is no returning. Come on therefore, let us enjoy the good things that are present.—Let no flower of the spring pass by us. Let us crown ourselves with rosebuds, before they be withered."

We may now perceive the essential connection of the doctrine of a future life with a high and worthy system of morality. Solomon abandoned the ethics of our text, when he reached the conclusion, "For all these things God will bring thee into judgment. If there be a life beyond the present, the first question is or ought to be, What will live? What tastes, habits, loves, pursuits, enjoyments, formed here, can be cherished in that future and eternal home? What treasure can I lay up for it? What fitness can I acquire for it? By what conditions can I be happy in it? If I know that wealth cannot go with me, I shall not be disposed to seek it at all hazards, and, however I may prize it as a temporary convenience, I cannot cleave to it as an ultimate and supreme good. If I know that the body, at least with its present appetites and passions, has no part in the resurrection, I shall hold its pleasures and gratifications in an esteem measured by the brevity of its existence compared with the boundlessness of my own. If I know that mind and soul, knowledge and affections motive and principle, are to be enduring as the throne of God, I cannot but make them my first care, the object of a hallowed covetousness and avarice, of a jealous accumulation and a watchful guardianship. The idea of an excess of wisdom or goodness will seem an absurdity; for too much of what is soon to be my all in all is as truly a contradiction in terms, as is too much of beauty in the summer fields or the autumn clouds. I shall then gladly cast away the wreath from the earthly vine, for the amaranthine crown. I shall dash from me the cup of sensual delight, and slake my thirst from the water of life proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb. I shall have the energy of an immortal being against that of a frail and dying life, for the defiant mandate, Tempter, depart; get thee behind me, Satan.

I regard indeed the doctrine of retribution as an essential and precious motive to goodness; nor can I venture to undervalue that godly fear which, if it be lost in the consummation, is to very many souls the beginning, of wisdom. But setting fear aside,—admitting not only what I do admit, that it is a lower motive, but what, with the New Testament for my teacher, I cannot admit, that it is an utterly unworthy motive,—still the doctrine of immortality is of essential worth as determining what we ought to be and do, as establishing our standard of morality, as placing the various descriptions of seeming and real good in their true relative position and value. It classifies for us our objects of endeavor, pursuit and love; discriminates between what may be absolutely and forever ours, and what at best is but a brief loan on an uncertain tenure. You know that the late Stephen Girard forbade expressly religious teaching in the college that bears his name. His prohibition is adhered to in form. But the President, not long since, in describing his mode of instruction, said: "I am required to teach morality, and I know not how to teach it, without making the Bible my text book; for it is only in the light of the immortality there revealed that I am able to show my pupils what they are to seek and what they are to shun, what motives are to influence them to worthy lives and noble deeds, how they are to shield themselves from temptation and to keep themselves unspotted from the world." And he is in the right. Immortality is the light which crystallizes in their true forms all moral actions of every kind,—which brings order out of inextricable confusion in the whole science of morals. And my, friends, who are now reposing in what you deem the enviable equipoise between the two extremes, afraid equally of superfluous goodness and of injurious sin, only say to yourself, "I am immortal," and let the consciousness brand itself into your heart: in that single assurance you have your whole duty, and will find your weakness reinforced by divine strength, by the powers of the world to come, so that you will run without weariness and walk without fainting, in that way of virtue and holiness, on which at every step you will behold the celestial city ever nearer, ever brighter.

FRIDAY, APRIL 24, 1857.

DEATH OF AN ARCTIC EXPLORER.—Dr. Scoresby, the veteran of Arctic enterprise, died at Torquay, England, on the 21st of March, after a lingering illness. As early as 1806, this gentleman, who was bred a practical whaleman, had in the pursuit of his calling, penetrated the latitude 81 deg. 30 min., being only 500 geographical miles from the pole. In 1817 and 1821, he made important discoveries and explorations on the eastern coast of Greenland. After his retirement from active service at sea, Scoresby entered the church, and, in his new vocation, applied himself especially to the promotion of the social and spiritual welfare of sailors. He has been chiefly distinguished, however, of late years, by his scientific researches and reports. He visited the United States, some dozen years since, and won many friends by his amiable adress, genial spirit and scientific attainments.

☞ Ship Robert Harding, Putnam, of and for Boston, from Calcutta Oct. 24, concerning which much anxiety has been felt, put into Port Philip, Mauritius, Feb. 5, having encountered a heavy N.W. gale Dec. 27, lat. 37 S., lon. 21 E., sprung a leak, and damaged masts and rigging badly. She was discharging March 1, to go upon the patent slip. The Robert Harding is a good ship of 760 tons, built in Charlestown and launched in August 1851.

☞ Ship New Hampshire, ashore at Jones' Beach, L. I., went to pieces at 8 o'clock on the morning of April 20th. Two steam pumps belonging to the underwriters were on board at the time. Fragments of the hull are brought up by fish boats to the landing. No article of her cargo had been seen or driven ashore.—There is a probability that a portion of her cargo may be obtained when the present heavy sea subsides, by fishing it from under the water.

☞ The Newburyport Herald of April 23, says Mr. Nathan Follansbee of that city, will have been in business there, tomorrow, for half a century. He commenced the grocery business on the 24th of April, 1777, and there is but one man in that vicinity, Mr. Charles Whipple, the bookseller, who was in business at that time. During the whole period, Mr. Follansbee has been a patron of the Herald: and for forty-five years of the time, Mr. Samuel Cressy has been his clerk.

☞ In Concord, N. H., April 18, John Lee was arraigned for keeping liquor for sale unlawfully. Upon a search of Lee's shanty in Cross street, made on Friday, a forty gallon cask of rum was found by the officers, nearly full, and three empty forty gallon liquor casks. It was also proved that Lee's house had been a place of common resort, and that men and women had been seen at all hours of the day and night going in and out, sometimes drunk and sometimes with jugs and bottles. Lee was ordered to recognize in the sum of $200 for his appearance at the Supreme Court in August.—So says the Independent Democrat;—and if our city government will do the same thing here, in half a dozen cases, the rest will soon take care of themselves.

A HORSE WITH A CORK LEG.—The following is taken from the Adelaide (Australia) Register: "We have recently seen Mr. Collins' mare, Jewess. It will be remembered that she broke her near fore leg on the race course in April last, while running for the town plate. Amputation was performed by Mr. Grabbe, under whose care she has completely recovered, and is expected to throw a foal to Swordsman in about six weeks. Her condition is excellent, and the cork foot seems to answer its purpose admirably."

EDITORIAL IMPERSONALITY.—A newspaper is an impersonality. Readers, in general, care very little, certainly are not at all concerned to know, who may be the writer of a particular paragraph. It is immaterial who writes—unless in a case that demands personal accountability or personal offence—and an opposing journal would be better employed in answering the arguments or overthrowing the positions of an article, than in assailing, or alluding to its imagined author. This is a point of newspaper etiquette which should be observed by all who would maintain the dignity and decorum of the press. So says the Home Journal.

☞ Professor Clark of Amherst College, while performing the experiment of making electrical light, one day last week, was very nearly blinded by the intenseness of the light, since which he has been obliged to confine himself to a dark room.

THE DRED SCOTT CASE.—Every day developes some new and revolting effect of the decision of the majority of the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case. The last we have noticed is this. The Constitution confers jurisdiction upon the Supreme Court in controversies between "a State or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens or subjects." Negroes, according to Judge Taney, cannot be citizens of the United States. But they certainly can be citizens of foreign States, for instance, of England. And thus a British negro can sue in our United States Courts, while an American free negro, born and bred on our soil, is excluded from the privilege.

NEIGHBOR JACKWOOD.—This book, a copy of which we have received from the publishers, Messrs. Phillips, Sampson & Co., of Boston, has been before the public long enough for all its merits to become known. Written by Paul Crayton in his best style, there is hardly a person who can fail to like it. The characters are strongly drawn and most of them true to life, from the dashing Phœbe to Grandmother Rigglesty, with all her grumblings and vagaries. Well written, well printed, well bound, it must be a popular book.

☞ On Tuesday, a British Province vessel, the schooner Echo, loaded with wood, and bound for Salem,—made Ipswich bar about 11 o'clock, went over, and grounded near the lighthouse, and is now within a few rods of the building. The crew were saved—the vessel will be lost. She was a good vessel, worth $4000, on which there was no insurance.

SUMMARY PUNISHMENT.—On Monday week, an Irishman with $70, strayed into the den of James Hartley, of Five Points, New York, who snatched the pocket-book, and gave the money to his wife. The Irishman complained to the police, but the birds had flown, but were discovered on Wednesday; he was tried on Thursday, and she on Friday, and both were sent to the state prison for five years. They were both under twenty-two years of age, and were of the worst character in the vicinity.

☞ Colonel Benton, says "Perley," has gone, post haste, to Missouri, (although he will lecture at Wheeling en route,) "to set himself right." His grand-daughter, Miss Nina Fremont, is decidedly the most lady-like young woman now in metropolitan society.

PENNSYLVANIA AMERICANISM.—The American State Council of Pennsylvania has endorsed the nomination of David Wilmot for Governor, by a vote of 22 to 17. The minority hotted.

CHICAGO, April 22.—Indian Troubles.—Advices from South Bend, Minnesota River, state that a band of 600 Sioux Indians were committing depredations in that region. It was rumored that Waukalo had been burnt; and many of the inhabitants of the surrounding country were fleeing to St. Peters for safety. Several companies of U. S. troops from Fort Ridgely had gone in pursuit of the marauders. The cavalry at Fort Snelling had also been sent for.—The greatest panic existed in the various settlements, and all the farmers were arming and preparing to join in the pursuit.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Police Politics.—This morning, at the instigation of Mayor Wood, an injunction was served on the new police commission, the Mayor entering into bond of $50,000 to abide the issue.—There has been great excitement all day at City Hall. The Mayor addressed the police captains, telling them the new law was unconstitutional, and charging them to obey no authority except that of the present police commissioner.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Paris papers publish the document previously alluded to, purporting to be a proclamation from the Emperor of China to Yeh, directing him to carry on a war of extermination against the foreign barbarians.

There were fearful riots in Ireland during the elections, particularly in Tipperary and Sligo. In Sligo the military were called out.

It is said orders were received yesterday from Washington, for the frigate Niagara to make a trial trip as far as Norfolk, to test more fully her machinery before proceeding to England.

PORTLAND, April 23.—Steamship Khersonese, Capt. Thompson, from Liverpool via St. Johns, Newfoundland, and Halifax, arrived here at half past nine this morning, with 387 passengers.

☞ The Boston Times has been sold to the Herald. Mr. Roberts, late proprietor, quits the business and offers his press for sale.

INVASION OF A BURGLAR'S RETREAT.—Chicago, April 21.—A place known as Sand's Rendezvous, notorious as a residence for thieves and other disreputable characters, was yesterday invaded by the police, and broken up. Twenty buildings were demolished, and nine burnt down.

Col. John W. Forney is lying very ill at the residence of Mr. Daniel Dougherty in Philadelphia.

A DAY LATER FROM EUROPE.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Steamer Edinburg, from Glasgow, evening of 9th inst., arrived this afternoon, at 5 o'clock. She brings 800 passengers, and London telegraphic advices of Wednesday evening.

Consols for money closed at 92 3-8 a 92 1-2; the market closed heavily with a strong impression that the bank minimum rate would be raised in the morning.

The sales of Cotton at Liverpool, on Wednesday, were 6000 bales, including 500 on speculation and for export, at unchanged prices.

A telegraphic report from Paris fixes the Emperor's coronation for the 4th of May.

NEW ORLEANS, April 21.—Later from Mexico.—Advices from the Mexican capital to the 4th inst. are received. A revolutionary movement, headed by the clergy, and some of Santa Anna's emissaries, has been discovered at the capital. The pronunciamentos was to have taken place on the evening of the 1st. Several arrests were made, among them Gen. Tranconis and Aguilar, the latter formerly one of Santa Anna's Cabinet Ministers. The excitement about the threatened Spanish invation continued. The British Charge had sent his ultimatum to the government, allowing nine days for an answer.

THE SECRET DISCOVERED AT LAST.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the NEW STORE, No. 15, always seems crowded with customers. We have at last discovered the secret of it. On stepping inside, we find that the proprietors, MESSRS. ALLEN & PAINE, in fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discover that the store contains a Sky-Light, giving them facilities for showing their Goods possessed by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived in the color or quality of goods. We notice, also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, altogether, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING

Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR ON LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the emiisent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

LOCAL.

☞ The Counting-Room, Composition Room, and Editors' Room of the Chronicle, are for the present at the Journal Office. We print in our own Press-Room, and may be found there, morning and evening.

GOOD ORDER.

In the brief and excellent Address of Mayor Morrison to the City Council, he truly says:

Having accepted the trust committed to us by our fellow citizens, and taken our respective oaths of office, we have incurred responsibilities of no ordinary nature. To us is committed the general welfare of the city; and the public look to us for its healthy and moral condition. Whatever, therefore, tends to the quiet of our streets; to the safety of our dwellings; to the means for the education of our youth;—and to relieving the condition of the helpless and unfortunate, will be fit subjects for your consideration, inquiry and action.

Again, speaking of the Police, he says:

Our Police should be men of unexceptionable character; skilled in the knowledge of human nature; firm, yet conciliatory; and who observe the laws they are called upon to execute. They should be vigilant in suppressing disorder and detecting crime; and should exercise a healthy influence on the morals of the city. If our laws are violated, they must be enforced; not in a fanatical spirit, but in a manner calculated to accomplish the most good.

Now every man knows that the quiet of our streets, the safety of our dwellings, the general or universal education of youth, and the relief of poverty and suffering, would be more directly promoted by the entire suppression of intemperance, than in any other way possible. And it is also as well known that the suppression of the groggeries is a most important step in destroying or diminishing intemperance.

From reliable documents lately published, we gather the following table of the per cent. of crime credited to rum in this and neighboring cities:

Nashua,	74	per cent.
Concord,	50	"
Portsmouth,	72	"
Manchester,	88	"
Worcester, Ms.,	68	"

These figures are near enough to accuracy for our use,—and they relate only to those crimes for which men were arrested. Now, who were these people?—Were they total abstinents? Not one in twenty; perhaps not one in fifty. Those arrested for drunkenness, generally belong to a class to be pitied as well as blamed; yet they are a very costly class of people, for they disturb the quiet of the street, make every thing less safe, their children are more apt than others to beat the streets in school time, and no class of men are so helpless and unfortunate as they.

They are not, however, generally, the men who drink at home, but those who frequent the groggeries.

The others, the assaulters, the brawlers, &c., are more commonly the men who keep steamed up with liquor, without being helplessly drunk. Most of such men every where, and most of the robbers, murderers, and other terrible criminals in large cities, are the men who congregate in the saloons, bars and tippling houses and shops of all grades, who keep up such places, and who get their living, no honest man knows how.

In tippling houses and shops, assaults, thefts, robberies and murders are planned; and stimulated by the noxious liquors there dispensed; the inmates go forth to war against the good order and quiet of every town where they exist.

In this State, the law is against them; they are prohibited; and with a careful supervision by the Police, of the streets and shops, public, open tippling can be entirely prevented, intemperance greatly diminished, and good order much promoted.

Just let it be known, that the Mayor, City Marshal, and Policemen, as they pass round the city, will complain of any place that looks like a tippling establishment, (under the 4th section,)—have it searched, and collect the fine!—Just let this be known—and in one week a dozen of the worst places will be closed, and their keepers will have emigrated.

Persevere in this course a few months, and they will all be closed. This can be done, without fanaticism, with only a very small amount of effort, and must result in a great good.

But can we spare the grog-shops? Do we not need them, to send some boys drunk to school, to keep others drunk on the wharves, to destroy the reputations and the lives of otherwise good citizens, to impoverish the children and kill the wives of the victims? Do we not need them to enrich a few men at the expense of misery to hundreds, and disorder to the city? Is it pleasant, to hear such a paper as the Manchester Mirror say, in view of violence and riot in this city, "Portsmouth is some pumpkins of a place."

Is it pleasant to know, as an old merchant tells us, that in a certain block in this place, within forty years, all the keepers of tippling shops there, who have died, have died drunkards?

If not, if the citizens and the city government desire good order, let them stretch forth their hands, and mildly but firmly execute the search clause only, and disorders from that quarter will disappear.

☞ The Temperance meetings which have been held in the Temple, this week, three in number, have been well attended, though a small admission fee was taken at the door in the evening.—They have also been of a most encouraging character, and quite satisfactory to the young gentlemen who got them up. Mr. John C. Cluer has been the principal speaker,—and he is accompanied and aided by his daughter.

A RICH TREAT.

Mr. J. C. Cluer, of Boston, with his little daughter, who have interested, entertained and instructed most intelligent audiences at the Temple, for three evenings past, announce a very attractive entertainment for to-night.

The following laudatory notice, we received from one of our most distinguished literary men and divines.

Messrs. Editors:—The entertainment in reading and elocution announced for this evening by Mr. Cluer and his daughter, ought to command a general and full attendance. Miss Cluer has a voice of unsurpassed tone and compass, and recites with an accuracy, spirit and feeling, which would do the most ample credit to the best-trained elocutionist of any age;—and which are absolutely marvellous, and without precedent in a child of twelve. Mr. Cluer deserves the highest regard for his devoted labor in the cause of good morals, and we trust that while he endeavors to aid in the most essential reform of our day, he may be sustained and encouraged by a public already much benefitted by his services. P.

LAW AND JUSTICE.

Ladies and gentlemen who are in favor of good order in our streets, of temperance, of a government of wholesome laws carefully enforced,—and who are not in favor of being ruled by assaulters and rioters who set the law at defiance,—will please to assemble in the Temple at 3 o'clock on SATURDAY afternoon, when several gentlemen will address the meeting.

☞ Uncle Toby has an Irish neighbor, Jere. Murphy, not a bad man when sober, but very bad indeed when half drunk, and in this condition he gets quite often. He has, on some past occasions, beaten his wife, who would be, apart from him, a woman able and willing to earn a living for herself and children. He has been arrested sometimes, sentenced to the House of Correction, and has then run away, staid awhile, come back, and again beaten his wife, and destroyed her means of living.

On Friday, Uncle Toby, with a friend who often employs Mrs. Murphy, visited the premises where Murphy committed his last assault on Wednesday evening. The front door of the mansion had no latch—a stone of a dozen lbs. weight lay behind it—dirt lined the way up stairs. In the chamber of the Murphys, no fire, and the ruins of the cook stove, (just so much old iron,) were piled up together.

On Wednesday evening, says the sufferer, he came home, tore all the clothes off of me, this way, (showing the ruined dress,) beat me on the head, right and left, knocked me down, and kept on beating me to kill me.

A stout Irish boy from another room, hearing the outcry now rushed in, and pulled Murphy off, and the woman fled. Then Murphy seized his axe, broke the stove in pieces, and went out to seek adventures.

This morning, adds the woman, I had not a dollar to buy a new stove, and I don't look fit to go out to work now. He has often beat me before, but never so bad; and yet he was not very drunk; he did not fall down.

No, said Uncle Toby, the half drunken men are worse and more dangerous than the poor sots who tumble down.

This plain tale, as common as dirt, gives a fair view of the fruits of the groggery, on which the eye may rest any day, by going into, or living in a neighborhood where such people abound, and where the tippling shop or house is conveniently near.

SERMON FOR THE TIMES.—Under this head, which we prefix, our columns contain a timely sermon from the pastor of the South Church in Portsmouth. It will be very widely circulated, and read with interest.

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which D. A. Evans & Co are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawing. Analyzer not which the managers call attention to, is, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the commencement, as comes to hand. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Ternary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Cocoas, Spices, &c.
WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.
141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest Cash prices.—

Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cinnamon, Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream of Tartar, Tarraxacum, or Pressed Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine as they are put up carefully, and bearing our trade label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give customers some idea of our sales, we name the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Gunpowder Tea $1 00 | 5 lb. Mocha Coffee, 1 00
5 lb. Oolong do. 1 75 | 5 lb. Java do. 90
5 lb. Hyson do. 2 25 | 5 lb good do. 1 00

☞ The above teas are in 5 and 10 lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, so that none of the coffee, it is believed, is equal to it, lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in boxes bearing our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TRANSACTIONS of Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and having our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of Coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and if it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be used without the fear of its marring the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many physicians to invalids, children, aged and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Billious affections, &c. &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Tarraxacum has our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called tarraxacum, in the market.

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system, and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

MAINE LEGISLATIVE REPORT

ON THE LIQUOR QUESTION.

The following is the report of the Joint Select Committee, on the subject of a Prohibitory Liquor law. It has been adopted in both branches of the Maine Legislature:

The Committee to whom was committed so much of the Governor's Message as relates to intemperance and the sale of intoxicating liquors, and also sundry petitions for the enactment of a law prohibiting the traffic in alcoholic spirits, have attended to the duty assigned them, and beg leave to

REPORT:

The intelligence and moral sense of the age have decided that intemperance is one of the greatest evils that scourge the human race. It is one of the chief causes of the poverty, misery, insanity and crime that afflict and decimate the nations of the earth. Its consequences are so manifold, so terrible and so well known, that we need not repeat them. As a powerful and relentless enemy of the dearest of human relations, interests and hopes, it has received much attention from the teachers of morality and benevolence, and from humane and wise legislators.

The people of Maine, with an interest in enlightened and benevolent enterprises surpassed by none other in the world, have repeatedly taken legislative action for the prevention of this great evil.

From 1846 to 1855 Maine had on her statute book prohibitory laws of more or less stringency, with what results we need not repeat in detail, as they are fresh in the memory of the public, and well known to the members of this Legislature.

In 1856 the Governor of the State, in his Inaugural Message, pronounced against prohibition and in favor of license. The Legislature followed his advice, repealed the legislation which the friends of temperance had labored for years to establish, and enacted the license law now on the statute book of the State. That the present law is not operating so well as its framers assumed to hope, is perfectly clear and well known. It was undoubtedly designed as an experiment by its authors, to be repealed if, after a fair trial, it shall not subserve the purpose for which it was professedly instituted. The people of the State are now having opportunity to test its merits. The laws in existence from 1846 to 1855, were based on the theory of Prohibition. The one now on the statute book assumes the theory of License to be correct. Let candid and intelligent criticism test the merits of each, and popular judgment will at no distant day decide which is the true, the practical, and most worthy of the sanction of an enlightened, free, virtuous people.

But a question of such magnitude should not be decided hastily or rashly. The popular mind must have time to obey its own laws. The present experience, bitter as it may be to those whose moral sensibilities are keen, and whose judgment on the subject has been long matured, is necessary to demonstrate to many persons the superiority of Prohibition to License.

Whenever a prohibitory law is again enacted by the Legislature of the State, it should be drawn with the most cautious regard to permanence, to its efficiency, and to popular confidence and support. Its form should be the production of the best legal wisdom, such as accords with the intelligence and conscience of the people, and be submitted to the people for their approval before it becomes a finality on the statute book.

Is it expedient for this Legislature to pass such a law? Your Committee have decided in the negative. This Legislature was not chosen with special reference to the passage of a prohibitory law. On this question precipitate and hasty action is more dangerous than even unreasonable delay. Time, investigation and experience, at no distant day will bring public sentiment to an equilibrium that will be permanent and highly salutary in saving the State from a vast amount of wretchedness, destitution, crime, sacrifice of property, and the thousand ills that follow in the track of intemperance. The question is fairly before the people. It is for them to select the time when prohibition of the liquor traffic shall take the place of the license law now on the statute book.

Signed, Lyndon Oak, N. Graves, James A. Bicknell, J. B. Morrison, W. C. Hammatt, J. Tollman, S. Littlefield, M. L. Burt, S. B. Holt, Committee.

LEBANON, N. H.—The citizens of this quiet village have for a long time endured the effects of several low groggeries, which have been kept a few miles distant, for the accommodation of a class of depraved beings, who made their regular attendance there. They were not kept in that town, for the law would have been in force a long time ago if that had been the case. But it was in an adjoining town; the people endured without complaint—hoping that every town would look to its own moral character, until life and property were in danger. They then aroused, moved to the filthy places, arrested the proprietors, and brought them to "justice."—Statesman.

CLAREMONT.—James Malay, an Irishman, was found drunk in Claremont, on Monday night, and was arrested. He swore that the liquor was procured for him by some man whom he did not know, but gave such a description of him as to lead to the belief that it was Julius Paul. Paul was found and proved to be the right man. Paul swore that he got the liquor of Owen M. Smith. Smith was arrested, and after an examination by a Justice of Peace, was bound over in $300 for his appearance at the next term of the Supreme Judicial Court.—Eagle.

APPEARANCES.—A coat that has marks of use upon it, is a recommendation to people of sense; and a hat with too smooth a nap and too high a lustre, is a derogatory circumstance. The best coats in Broadway are on the backs of penniless, broken down merchants, clerks with pitiful salaries, nd men that don't pay up. The heaviest gold chains dangle from the fobs of gamblers and gentlemen of very limited means; costly ornaments on ladies indicate to eyes that are well opened, a silly lover, or a husband cramped for funds.—And when a pretty woman goes by in a suit of plain and neat apparel, it is a sign that she has fair expectations, or a husband that can show a balance in his favor. —N. Y. Times.

THE NEW CENT.—We are informed by Colonel Snowden, Director of the U. S. Mint, that in about three weeks time this much desired coin will be distributed to the public; about a million are already completed, and two millions more will be finished before the mint commences paying them out. It is then to be hoped that the present cumbrous copper coin will disappear. Col. S. informs us that, since the establishment of the U. S. Mint, no less than 1800 tuns of copper cents have been coined, making of distinct pieces one hundred and fifty millions. Of these a large number have been lost, converted into "washers" for machinery, or otherwise taken out of circulation. We had supposed that the Spanish money had all either found its way to the mint or been returned to Cuba and the ports on the Spanish Main. Col. S., however, informs us that he estimates the quantity still in the country, at not less than two and a half millions of dollars.—Philadelphia North American.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSES IN CONCORD.—The Concord Congregational Journal says that in the Union School District of that city, at an adjourned meeting on Tuesday evening, after considerable discussion, it was voted to erect two school houses for Grammar Schools, one in the southern, and the other in the northern section of the district, at an expense not exceeding $10,000 each, and that each school be under the instruction of one male and two female teachers.

MEETING AT THE TEMPLE.

We are pleased to learn that a public meeting is to be held at the Temple this Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, on the subject of Law and Order, and that several of our most prominent citizens will be present and address the meeting. We hope it will be well attended, and such efficient measures be adopted as will insure respect to the laws, and security to the persons of those who aid in enforcing them.—Journal.

We understand that Rev. Dr. Burroughs has declined withdrawing his letter of resignation as rector of St. John's church, as by a unanimous vote of the parishioners he was requested to do. Having now officiated for almost half a century, he regards it a duty to withdraw—having the best of feelings towards his flock, and to the city, where and among his people he hopes to spend his remaining days. He tenders to them his gratuitous services until the vacancy occasioned by his resignation is filled.—Journal.

STRONG TESTIMONY FOR SPIRITUALISM.—Rev. T. W. Higginson of Worcester, has sworn to a statement of facts witnessed by him at a spiritual sitting, that is quite astonishing. The medium was Mr. Willis, lately suspended from the divinity school at Cambridge, for an alledged attempt to impose upon Prof. Eustis at one of his sittings.—On the occasion of Mr. Higginson's presence in the circle, the extension dining table, around which the company sat, was several times raised, and one slab of it was lifted altogether from its support, and vibrated in the air without the contact of hands. A guitar, drum, accordeon and two bells placed under the table, were moved about and played upon. For other details we quote from Mr. Higginson's statement:

"Looking under the table while the guitar was playing, I saw, with perfect distinctness, the instrument, lying on its back, untouched by any hand, but with faint flickerings of light playing over the strings. I could also see the feet of the person nearest it, and that they were not in contact with it—while Mr. Willis was entirely out of its reach. No other person looked under the table, I believe, nor did I mention these observations till the phenomena had ceased, for I did not wish, at that time, to share my investigations with any one.

"The guitar was moved slowly along, by some force to me inscrutable, and lifted between my knees, the neck resting upon my left thigh.—At the suggestion of some of the company, I began to sing, first placing myself in such a position as to guard the instrument from possibility of contact. Every song I sung was accompanied accurately and gracefully on the guitar, with a constantly increased facility of adaptation.

"The best accompaniment of all, was finally placed, to a peculiar and rather difficult Portuguese song, probably not known to a dozen persons in America besides myself. I cannot myself play the guitar, but I have heard it played a good deal and I know that the accompaniment was an extraordinary thing, apart from the mystery of its origin. I know that I was beyond the reach of any part of Mr. Willis's person, and that it was physically impossible for any one to touch the instrument, without my detecting it.

"During all those various phenomena, I felt repeatedly a delicate grasp upon my feet, precisely resembling that of a hand, with distinct fingers.—Upon my slipping off my shoe, it was more distinct, and was in all cases accompanied by a very peculiar electrial sensation, as when two persons complete the circuit of an electro-magnetic battery. Keeping my own counsel, I heard precisely the same phenomena simultaneously described by persons at the other end of the table. Afterwards, placing my hand beneath the table, I felt the same contact still more distinctly upon that. All the rest of the company held their hands upon the table, and I was beyond the reach of Mr. Willis.

"The question of the "spiritual" origin is not now raised; it is a simple question of fraud or genuineness. If I had not satisfactory evidence of the genuineness of these phenomena, which I have described, then there is no such thing as evidence and all the fabric of natural science may be a mass of imposture. And when I find, on examination, that facts similar to these have been observed by hundreds of intelligent persons, in various places, for several years back, I am disposed humbly to remember the maxim, attributed to Arago, "He is a rash man, who, outside of pure mathematics, pronounces the word impossible."

SPIRITUALISM—SUPERSTITION.

We have supposed that the present was an age of light—of reason. But when we learn that thousands in New England believe in "Spiritualism," as it is called—that living persons can converse with the dead—that by some mysterious, incomprehensible process, the professors or orators can, by mere volition, or the imposition of hands, cause inert matter, even of the weight of a ton, to rise and ascend from its fixed position one or more feet, we humbly confess that we begin to doubt whether the days of superstitious ignorance are past.

We have read books on Demonology, Witchcraft, Legerdemain, and the various cunning arts and contrivances with which the ancient magicians, and imposters, and the modern imposters have imposed upon the credulity of the superstitious ignorant. The latter, being unable to detect the deception and imposture, come to the conclusion that the professors of miraculous powers can really perform miracles. In past ages, it was believed that the Devil delegated power to the imposters to perform wonders and miracles, by supernatural agency. How sad the reflection, that in Europe perhaps half a million of human beings have been executed for being, as alleged, guilty of Witchcraft. Even New England is not entirely guiltless.

But we believed that the miserable delusion of Spiritualism would have passed off before the present date, as have many other base impositions, such as Clairvoyance, Ventriloquism,* the "Invisible Lady," conversing for years from a small box—the Chess-player in a box, and very many other tricks of the kind, all got up for the temporary support of idlers and vagrants.

How it has happened that Spiritualism has for so many years imposed upon the public credulity, is indeed marvellous!—Men supposed to possess some science have been called to its aid—their names have been trumpeted through the country.—Wonderful deeds were said to have been performed, and a plenty of certificates published. Books, detailing the mysterious performances, have been circulated by the imposters; and, because the impositions or tricks are not fully exposed or explained, they pass for genuine facts!

We lay down a few truths to show that Spiritualism is absurd, and contrary to the nature of things, and the immutable laws of God. Inert matter, in and of itself, cannot move. Its mobility must be caused by force, or external action. It cannot be moved by human volition, (the human body excepted;) but it may be moved by the will of the Creator of all things.

Living human beings cannot hold communication with the dead. If we believe in the Christian Revelation, we believe that upon the dissolution of the body, the soul returns to God, who gave it—that at the great judgment day there will be a resurrection; that the Almighty Will only can cause the dead to rise. We have no warrant for a belief that the spirits of the deceased will be hovering about this earth until the judgment day. But were it even so, who will believe that it is left only for wicked imposters—money catchers—to hold converse with the souls of the dead? Again, the faculty of speech is a result of the organic structure of the body under the influence of the mind. The immaterial spirit is divested of that organic structure, and cannot be reinvested, without a supernatural or miraculous agency. The sacred record informs us that in several instances (prior to the Christian era, when miracles ceased) the dead have been raised—that Enoch was translated; but those miracles were not the effect of human agency. If these two positions be correct, then it is a logical conclusion that "Spiritualism" is false—that its doctrines are blasphemous against the Supreme Ruler.

No enlightened Christian will, for a moment, believe that the Almighty would delegate His power to such performers to hold communication with the spirits of the departed, or to perform miracles by raising inert matter by their mere volition. Could we believe that such power would be delegated to any, it would be a more rational belief that it would be delegated to virtuous, pious, and christian persons. But the imposters may more properly pretend that they derive their authority to perform their wonderful deeds from his Satanic majesty, who may, ultimately, have dominion over them.

It matters not how imposters perform their jugglery in order to deceive the multitude—it is sufficient for us to know that they cannot change physical laws, or the immutable laws of Nature and of Nature's God. That is beyond the power of mortal man.

Spiritualism may have its day, like other gross superstitions; but we hold it to be the duty of every good person to endeavor to undeceive the ignorant, whose minds are injured or affected by the sinful delusion.

PHILOS.

*The Ventriloquist speaks in the same way that others do. His art consists only in the modulation of the tones of the voice.

EDITORIAL NOTE.

Above we give the views of an old fashioned scholar.—We do not agree with all of them; especially we do not believe, either that God is far away from us, or that the spirits of the departed, who are said in the Bible to go to him at death, are far from us. On the contrary, we believe he is nigh to every one of us, and they also. But our belief about the whole matter is beautiful and not frightful—it tends to calm confidence, and not to excitement, distrust or agitation. U. T.

☞ The reception of Ex-Attorney General Cushing at Newburyport, Thursday, was a very interesting and succesful affair. Gen. Cushing's speech is very eloquent and able.

THE SECRET DISCOVERED AT LAST.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the NEW STORE, No. 15, always seems crowded with customers. We have at last discovered the secret of it. On stepping inside, we find that the proprietors, MESSRS. ALLEN & PAINE, are fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discover that the store contains a Sky-Light, giving them facilities for showing their Goods possessed by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived in the color or quality of goods. We notice, also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, altogether, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

☞ Take notice, dear reader, that for 40 cts. you can buy a pound of good Tea, Ningyong they call it, at Tilton & Nowell's Union Store, No. 12 Market street,—also shoes for men and women at very reasonable rates; and all other goods cheap. tf

"BALM OF A THOUSAND FLOWERS"—A COUNTERFEIT. A person pretends to have been a partner with W. P. Ferridge in the above article, is palming off a spurious preparation on the public. All are counterfeits unless the name FERRIDGE & Co. is written on the side, and W. P. FERRIDGE & Co., printed on the front of the label. The genuine article is for sale by all respectable Druggists, who from down countries and islands, have sent us WRITTEN TESTIMONIALS, that PERFUMED BREATH AND BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION can be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the Balm of a Thousand Flowers would render it sweet? m28 dawlm

For sale in Portsmouth by Joseph H. Thacher.

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S LIVER INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

Use Dr. Clough's Columbian Pills,

A WONDERFUL Medicine, good in all diseases, and for persons of all ages, and especially for Females to use in Pregnancy and child bed. Ladies, please read what Mrs. Sears, an old, experienced nurse of Litchfield, says:

"I have used Dr. Clough's COLUMBIAN PILLS in my business, at times, for three or four years, and find them just what the sick need; they act on the stomach and bowels so mildly, relieve the head, do not debilitate, and calm the nerves. I am sure I but do my duty to my female companions in recommending these Pills for their use, in preference to any similar preparation.

SARAH SEARS, Nurse."

This recommendation is valuable, because it is by a lady of large experience as a Nurse, and she knows just what the ladies need to regulate and strengthen them, so as to be able to do their duty cheerfully and safely, as women and as mothers.

These Pills will give satisfaction!
These Pills are doing great good!
These Pills are extensively used!

LAW AND JUSTICE.

Ladies and gentlemen who are in favor of good order in our streets, of temperance, of a government of wholesome laws carefully enforced,—and who are not in favor of being ruled by assaulters and rioters who set the law at defiance,—will please to assemble in the Temple at 3 o'clock on SATURDAY afternoon, when several gentlemen will address the meeting.

ANOTHER ASSAULT.—On Thursday evening, as Mr. Robert N. Bodge was walking with a young lady in the south part of the city, they were met by two men in their shirt sleeves, upon the run. Mr. B. and the young lady stepped aside to let them pass, when one of the men struck Mr. B. with his fist, knocking him down.

The case will be tried before the Police Court this forenoon, we are told.

THE PRINTING CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION. Mr. Fuller of the Gazette has just issued a neat pamphlet record of this interesting celebration, comprising a full report of the proceedings, the Oration, Poem, Speeches, Sentiments, Letters, Decorations, Reception of the Veterans, the Regatta, Ball, &c. &c. A list of the subscribers in aid of the celebration, (not quite full, however, we observe,) and the incidents of the occasion, are also given. The pamphlet is for sale at the book-stores and the Gazette office.

We are glad to see it, as a matter of local history, and a preservable record of so agreeable and important an occasion. In each pamphlet, is a fac-simile of the first number of the N. H. Gazette, the pioneer newspaper of New Hampshire — alone worth the price of the book, to all interested in antiquities.

Mr. J. C. Cluer will Lecture on Temperance, at the Temple, Sunday Evening, at 7 o'clock. His daughter will also recite a Temperance Poem; and good Music is expected. A collection to defray expenses.

☞ Mr. Stanton, the new Secretary, and acting Governor of Kansas until the arrival of Mr. Walker, has reached Leavenworth, where he delivered an address to the people. The Leavenworth correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says that in opening, he announced himself as a native of Virginia and a resident of Tennessee, and then informed his hearers that they might judge from that fact "of his proclivities."

He thought the Free State people were making a great mistake in not voting for Constitutional delegates, and mentioned that the laws of the Territorial Legislature must be enforced. The Free State men are greatly disappointed in his speech. The Pro-Slavery men are much depressed at the victory of the Free State men at Leavenworth.

The correspondent says:

"It may be mentioned as a single fact in connection with Mr. Stanton, that he followed Dr. Stringfellow, who delivered a pre-eminently pro-slavery address, holding that he had, as a national Democrat, two great objects in view, the first to do all in his power to make Kansas a slave State, and failing in this, to make a Democratic Free State, which is about the same thing."

☞ The Dalton divorce trial, in Boston is still in progress. On Thursday several witnesses for Mrs. Dalton were examined and some fifteen letters between Mrs. Dalton and her husband relative to difficulties introduced and read. The letters were mostly written when he was in prison and show a strong affection between the parties. Mrs. Dalton was much affected by the reading, and when her father, Mr John Gove, immediately subsequent to the reading of the letters, was giving his testimony, she fainted and was carried from the court room. The case was then rested for the day, at 2½ A. M.

FROM EUROPE—2 DAYS LATER.

ARRIVAL OF THE AMERICA.

HALIFAX, April 24.—The Royal mail steamship America, Capt. Lang, arrived at this port last evening. She left Liverpool Saturday morning, 11th inst., and her advices are two days later than those received by steamship Edinburg, at New York.

Politically, the news presents no feature of special importance.

Liverpool Cotton market exhibited a drooping tendency, and an actual decline had been submitted to on some of the higher grades.

In Breadstuffs a general dullness prevailed in the market.

☞ The New York Liquor Dealers' Association numbers over 5600 persons, and has a cash fund of $300,000, which, it is said, will be expended in testing the constitutionality of the license law recently passed by the legislature. A committee of nine has been appointed to proceed to Albany to obtain the opinion of the Attorney General on the question. It is stated that under this law not one dealer in five hundred will be able to obtain a license.

☞ In Lowell, Francis McQuade, of the Exchange Coffee House, and his barkeeper, John Doe, otherwise unknown, have been each bound over in $200 as common sellers of liquor.

☞ Mr. John H. Burbank of Londonderry, last Monday, had one of his legs broken by the kick of a horse. As he was riding down hill in a wagon, the horse set to kicking, and in the scrape Burbank met with the accident.

LOWELL FIREMEN.—The committee on the fire department have unanimously agreed to report to the city council in favor of increasing the pay of the firemen to $35 per year—the foremen and stewards to have $40, and assistant engineers $50.

A WEDDING PARTY BLOCKADED BY SNOW IN APRIL.—On the 21st inst., a wedding party in North Brookfield, having arrived within half a mile of the house of the bride, were blocked in by the snow, and it required the laborious services of eight men for an hour, before the banks were shovelled away, so as to admit of a passage.

☞ Capt. John C. Long, of Exeter, N. H., is ordered to the command of the U. S. steamer Merrimac on her next cruise.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected grain grown from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

☞ Dr. William Fields, of Wilmington, Del., has publicly stated that forty-five out of every fifty cases of scarlet fever and small pox can be cured with yeast. His dose for an adult is a table spoonful three times a day, diluted and sweetened. In scarlatina he gargles the throat with yeast, and in small pox follows a milk diet throughout the disease.

RECANTED.—Hannah Corcoran, the girl who occasioned so much excitement in Charlestown, a few years since, by joining the Protestants, has returned to the bosom of the Catholic Church. She now resides in Boston, and on Monday recanted in St. James' Church, Albany street.

BORN ON THE WAVE.—Mrs. Roland, an English lady just arrived by packet at New York, to join her husband at Boston, gave birth to a girl on the steamer Connecticut, while crossing the Sound, a few nights since. The event created quite a commotion among the lady passengers.

WARNING TO LIQUOR DEALERS.—A gentleman of Cincinnati is in possession of the names of all the liquor dealers in two streets of that city for the past fifteen years. There were sixty-seven in all, of whom fifty-three are dead, and forty-six of them died drunk!

ANOTHER NEWSPAPER CO.—A bill was introduced into the Massachusetts House of Representatives on Saturday to incorporate the "Boston Journal Newspaper Co."—The capital stock not to exceed $150,000, and the corporation to be allowed to hold $50,000 in real estate. This looks as if the Traveller "consolidated" paper is to meet with vigorous competition, by an enlarged plan of operations on the part of the Journal. Go on and prosper all, but remember the remark of the western editor in reference to his blanket contemporary—"It is not the biggest calf that always makes the best veal."—Lowell News.

We find the following parody upon Mackay's "Tell me, ye winged winds," going the rounds:

Tell me, ye winged winds,
That round my pathway roar,
Do ye not know some spot
Where women live?
Some lone and pleasant dell,
Some "holler" in the ground,
Where babies never yell,
And cradles are not found?
The long wind blew the snow into my face,
And snickered, as it rushed past me,—"Navy place."

Tell me, thou misty deep,
Whose billows round me play,
Knowest thou some favored spot,
Some island far away,
Where weary man may find
A place to smoke in peace,
Where crinoline is not,
And hoops are out of place?
The loud waves sounding a perpetual shout,
Stopped for awhile, and spluttered 'Yen git out!'

HOOPS IN A GALE.—Tuesday was a good time to prove how dress hoops work in a gale. We noticed a half dozen young ladies carrying theirs down State street upon their shoulders and backs. What became of the dear creatures nobody looked to see; we are quite certain that no gentleman went to their rescue.—Newburyport Herald.

LOTTERIES.
The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. Tansey & Co. are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and verify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawings. Facts or facts not generally known call attention to, is, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication comes to hand. The prices of tickets range from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are by the principle of the number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Ternary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

Tremont Mills.
WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.
E. E. DYER & CO.
141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest Cash prices.—Their Stock consists of Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Tarracacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.
Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."
To give customers some idea of our sales, we annex the following sales for cash, viz:—5 lb. Souchong Tea, 1 00 | 5 lb. Mocha Coffee, 1 00
5 lb. Oolong do. 1 25 | 5 lb. Java do. 90
5 lb. Young Hyson do. 1 25 | 5 lb. good do. 80
☞ The spices are put up in 4 and 1 lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish their superiority with the public favor.
SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process of roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.
DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion now made.
TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city, and constantly bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one teaspoonful to a pint of Coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.
The medicinal properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as bearing upon the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is recommended by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Billious affections, &c., &c.
☞ Be careful to observe that all our Tarracacum has our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called Taraxacum, in the market.
☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the lowest rates.
☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other dealers.

WESTERN EMIGRATION.—The Effect at Wheeling.—It is stated that every boat that leaves the city of Wheeling goes freighted with families emigrating westward, and that the same is true of boats loading at Pittsburg, Marietta, Zanesville, Parkersburg, Cincinnati and Louisville. It is not too much to say that steamboats on the Ohio river are carrying as many passengers as the railroad. Indeed, the tremendous emigration from the country towns in Ohio and Pennsylvania is creating alarm. A Wheeling paper of Friday says:

We heard yesterday that some twenty-six of the best men in Barnsville, Belmont county, Ohio, had all departed for the West at the same time. This is also true of all the towns in this section of the country. The travel through Pittsburg alone, according to the papers of that city, average one thousand a day at the lowest computation, while along the lake shore routes it is estimated at from two to three thousand.

This immense rush to the West this spring cannot but lead to financial derangement. Hardly a day passes but some of our wholesale merchants are informed of the failure of some of their country patrons. Nearly all of the emigrants carry considerable amounts of capital with them, and thus help to embarrass for a time our monetary affairs. The demand for money absorbs all that is offering, whether in bank or out of it.

SNOW IN BERKSHIRE—LOSS OF LIVES.—The Pittsfield Sun states that during Monday night, and Tuesday to 10 A. M., snow fell almost uninterruptedly. Had not most of it melted soon after falling, it would have been two feet deep when the storm ceased. It is very seldom that such a storm occurs in Berkshire at as late a day in April. Sleighs were in requisition on Tuesday forenoon.

The same paper states that four persons, with bottles by their sides, were on Saturday found dead on Petersburg Mountain, in the State of New York, a few miles west of William town, in that county. They perished in the storm of Friday night. The victims were Amasa Ballou and wife, Lucinda Curtis, a colored woman, and her boy, about ten years of age. They were returning home from Petersburg village, where they had been to sell baskets. They had partaken freely of spirituous liquors, and are supposed to have become bewildered by the storm, and wandered some distance from the road, where they perished.

FAILURES.—New York, April 23.—Messrs. S. G. Weston and Moses Allen, operators in Michigan Southern stocks, failed to-day. Their liabilities are said to be heavy.

WHAT MAKES A MAN.

A truthful soul, a loving mind,
Full of affection for its kind;
A spirit firm, erect and free,
That never basely bends the knee,
That will not bear a feather's weight
Of Slavery's chain, for small or great;
That truly speaks from God within,
That never makes a league with sin;
That snaps the fetters despots makes,
And loves the truth for its own sake;
That worships God, and Him alone,
And bows nowhere but at His throne;
That trembles at no tyrant's nod,
A soul that fears no one but God,
And thus can smile at curse or ban;
That is the soul that makes a man.

COMPOSITION.—A distinguished Georgian lawyer says that in his younger days he taught a boys' school, and requiring the pupils to write compositions, he sometimes received some of a very peculiar sort, of which the following are specimens:

On Industry.—It is bad for a man to be idol. Industry is the best thing a man can have, and a wife is the next. Prophets and kings desired it long, and died without the site. The End.

Here is another:

On the Seasons.—There is four seasons, spring, summer, autumn and winter. They are all pleasant. Some people may like spring best; but, as for me, give me liberty, or give me death. The End.

A BAPTISM INCIDENT.—The Baltimore Patriot states that a lady residing in the western part of that city, formerly a communicant of the Episcopal Church, having lately been converted to the Baptist faith under the ministration of the Rev. Dr. Williams, of the First Baptist Church of Baltimore, was on Sunday evening immersed in the presence of a large congregation. This lady had been afflicted for a number of years with the rheumatism, so much so that she was unable to walk without assistance. After her immersion she "came up out of the water," relieved of her affliction, and was enabled to proceed to her home without the help she formerly required. This wonderful cure was made the subject of some very feeling remarks by the pastor of the church, who attributed it to the agency of the Divine Spirit.

EMIGRATION OF NEGROES.—The Pensacola (Fla.) Gazette of the 4th inst. says:—"On Tuesday last thirty-five free colored persons took their departure from this city for Tampico, and in a few days those who are still remaining will also leave for the same place. It was a painful sight to see them parting from their friends and their native country to seek their homes in a foreign land.—They take with them the sympathies of all our citizens on account of the causes which have led them to leave us, and also their best wishes for their future happiness and prosperity in their new homes.

☞ The Boston Bee of Friday says,—In the Roxbury Police Court Thursday morning, Mrs. Ellen O'Beirne, who keeps a shop on Washington street, was convicted of selling liquor to one Francis Delaney, and the usual sentence was imposed. It appeared in evidence that Delaney offered his coat in pawn for a quart of liquor.—The woman was to sell the coat, and pay Delaney in liquor the amount received above the quart advanced.

☞ At Philadelphia on Sunday, the family of Col. Wm. T. Kleve, consisting of his father and two sons, one a physician, were poisoned by taking tartar emetic, which had been mixed with their sugar, in the proportion of thirty grains to the ounce of sugar. They were very sick, but are recovering. There were three servants in the house.

A distinguished poetical writer sends to a paper, in response to its inquiry why he does not write any more, the reply that his "matrimonial enterprise, some time ago, has compelled him to relinquish the muse and confine his attention to music!" A very good reason, but an old bachelor suggests that it must be very doleful music.

ONE OF THE LAYS.—A hen belonging to Elijah Amidon of Belchertown, Mass., made a mistake last week, and laid two eggs in one shell, the result being a monstrous specimen of its kind, measuring 8 1-2 by 3 inches. It was laid twice—first by the hen in Mr. Andison's barn, and then by Mr. Amidon upon our table.—The hen cackled and Amidon crowed!—Springfield Republican.

Morning Chronicle.

MONDAY, APRIL 27, 1857.

Too Fast.—The Manchester American considers that the prevailing sin of our present age is wild impetuosity unrestrained by the maxims of prudence, morality or religion. Did the young prodigal at the commencement of his career of dissipation and excess, soberly sit down and reflect upon on the short and miserable career upon which he is about to enter, intemperance would lose two-thirds of her victims, and half the crimes that have stocked our prisons with culprits and supported our lawyers, would never be perpetrated. Had Huntington adopted the wise proverbs of Benjamin Franklin at the commencement of his business career, he would have needed no plea of moral insanity to justify his misdeeds, nor have been at the present time an inmate of a penitentiary.

Had the reverend gentleman whose trial has of late so occupied the public attention, exercised a moment's thought, he would never have exposed himself to the accusation—well grounded or not—of open and brazen licentiousness.

Skeleton Found.—Some little excitement prevailed at Gloucester, last Saturday, in consequence of the finding of the bones of a full grown person, in building a new wharf; in excavating a bank, the entire bones of a human skeleton were dug out. They were not more than a foot below the surface, and were compressed into a space of about four feet in length. The bones were all perfect, and are pronounced to be those of a young but full grown female. The teeth were perfect. Not a particle of flesh, or anything to indicate how long they had been in the ground, were found, and they may have lain there for a century or more.

☞ A man named Harris, keeper of a saloon in North street, Boston, was examined on a charge of stealing a $100 bill, the property of a gentleman who wished to view the lions of North street. The owner of the bill and a friend went into Harris's saloon, for the purpose of getting a drink, and the $100 bill was exhibited, much to the surprise of the latter, who requested permission to examine it, and, after satisfying his curiosity, handed back a $1 bill. Harris was held in $800 for further examination.

The above item is from the last issue of the Boston Times. There are hundreds of just such men as Harris, who keep in saloons, as they call them.

The American turfman, Ten Brock, who carried the American race horse to England, astonished the people of Florence, Italy, by driving eight horses, two abreast, attached to a light team, upon and down the slippery streets. His speed so affrighted the police that they waited upon him with a prohibition to limit himself for the future to four horses, as royalty itself never aspired to more than six, even with the aid of postillions.

Stock Failures.—There were three or four failures in Wall street on Thursday among the stock-jobbers. The victims this time were the bulls, and some of the large profits which the bears have been figuring up so confidently have vanished in thin air, or what is about as bad, are represented by very thin promises to pay. It was the day for the opening of the transfer-books of the Southern Michigan Railroad Company.

☞ A man named Chubbick, residing at Niagara city, walked off the bank of the river at the Suspension Bridge, on the Canada side, last Saturday night. He had been engaged in moving a building on the Canada side, and was returning homeward, somewhat intoxicated, when mistaking a light for that on the bridge, he walked off the precipice, and fell a distance of one hundred and fifty feet, striking the rocks below, and breaking almost every bone in his body.

Gov. Slade's Schoolmistresses.—The New York Evening Post says:—"The society to provide teachers for the West, of which Ex-Governor Slade, of Vermont, is the head, reports that 452 teachers have been sent out—39 from Connecticut, 110 from Massachusetts, 116 from Vermont, 85 from Lew York. Of the 452 sent out, 170 have returned, nearly all of them after teaching two years; 146 have married, 24 have died—nine of them after marriage."

☞ The carriages to be used on the road over Mt. Washington will be of peculiar construction, so that the body of the vehicle will be level, when ascending or descending the mountain. Each passenger will have a separate seat, so arranged that a full view of the scene can be enjoyed.

EUROPEAN NEWS.

Great Britain.—The elections are now almost over. The London Post announces the result thus:—Liberals, 338, Liberal Conservative 74, Conservatives 206. Ministerial losses 13, gains 76.

The Great Western Railway of Canada declares 9 per cent. dividend.

The English government has agreed to furnish three steamships to the Atlantic Telegraph Company; one to make soundings, and two to assist in laying the cable. The Agamemnon, a 90 gun ship of 3000 tons burthen, is to be employed to lay down the cable, in connection with the United States steamship Niagara. The entire cable will be completed in June, and laid in July next.

France.—Various rumors, which had been circulated for the last few days about an attempt on the Emperor's person, are unfounded. The only thing certain, is the fact of several arrests having been made in Paris and departments, connected with secret societies.

Spain.—A royal decree enacts that the battalions of Infantry of the army of Cuba, shall be formed into eight regiments of two battalions each.

A Madrid letter says:—"Very active communications are taking place between the Spanish governments and those of France and England on the subject of the difference between Spain and Mexico. The Spanish government hopes to obtain the moral support of those two powers, and in the event of the question going beyond a war between Spain and Mexico, their material support also."

Italy.—The papal government announces a further reduction in the Customs tariff, to take effect immediately. The import duty on manufactured articles of coarse silk, linen, cotton, wool, hair and leather, is reduced from 30 to 7 per cent; on wearing apparel 50; on linen and woolen thread 33; felt for paper mills 50; palm oil 50; common soap 40; books bound in cloth 40. On exports the duty on coarse silk, carded and combed is reduced two-thirds; woolen rags 4-5ths; on wool obtained from rags one bajocchi per 100 lbs. The duty on the export of wine is doubled.

Russia.—A letter from St. Petersburg, in the Nord Brussels, says:—The operation of raising the vessels sunk in the port of Sebastopol has commenced. There are upwards of 80 of them,—and 16 have already been recovered, viz.: the Chersonese, steamer, 260 horse power; four transports, one brig, two schooners, two tenders and six smaller craft.

The Chersonese is under repairs at Nicolaieff, and will be launched again in the spring.

Besides these vessels, the government has six sailing transports, and some steamers of from 60 to 100 horse-power, and has lately bought five screw schooners, which are to cruise along the Eastern coasts of the Black Sea.

Washington, April 24.—The Governorship of Utah has been tendered to Major Ben. McCulloch, and it is believed that he will accept the appointment. A letter is now on the way to him, requesting his presence in Washington. The design of the administration is to pursue a peaceful policy towards Utah, in order that the laws may be executed, and the rights of every inhabitant in the territory protected without recourse to arms.

The Postmaster General has concluded a contract with the Panama Railroad Company, to convey the mails across the Isthmus until the expiration of the present contracts with the steamship companies, two years hence. The rate is $100,000 per annum.

Washington, April 25.—The following vessels have been ordered to rendezvous at Panama, during the pending troubles with New Granada: frigate Independence and sloops-of-war Decatur and John Adams.—The two former are already there, and the John Adams is on her way from Callao.

Steam frigate Wabash and sloops-of-war Cyane and Saratoga, of the Home Squadron, have been ordered to Aspinwall. The Cyane is already there, and the others are on the way. The steam frigate Roanoke and sloop-of-war St. Marys will soon be added to the squadron.

New License Law in New York.—The Legislature of New York has passed a new law for licensing the sale of intoxicating liquors. It creates a Board of Excise in each county to grant licenses. No storekeeper licensed to sell liquor to be drunk on the premises. No liquor to be sold to minors, nor to persons complained of as habitual drunkards. No sales of liquors on Sunday, and every petition for license must be signed by at least twenty respectable freeholders.

☞ The Boston Bee of Saturday says; "A man named Christopher Dean, generally known as "Chris," was found dead yesterday morning, in a cellar, which he occupied as a beer saloon in East Cambridge. An inquest was not deemed necessary, and as he was in destitute circumstances, the body was ordered to be interred by the City Marshal."

Another.—Nathaniel Crombie, a shoemaker of Byfield, on Wednesday morning of last week, was found dead in a peat swamp. He was last seen at a house about a quarter of mile from where his body was found, at which house it is supposed he became intoxicated, a habit which he frequently indulged. It is thought he perished in the cold storm on Monday night. He was about fifty-five years of age, and without a family.—Newburyport Herald.

LOVE, HONOR, AND OBEY.

BY PHŒBE CARY.

Promise to love! why woman thinks
To love a privilege, not a task;
If thou wilt truly take my heart
And keep it, this is all I ask.

Honor thee! yes, if thou wilt live
A life of truth and purity:
When I have seen thy worthiness,
I cannot choose but honor thee.

Obey! when I have fully learned
Each want and wish to understand,
I'll learn the wisdom to obey,
If thou hast wisdom to command.

So if I fail to live with thee
In duty, love, and lowliness,
'Tis Nature's fault, or thine, or both:
The greater must control the less.

Generous Gift to Rev. Mr. Kalloch. Dr. David Jayne, a well-known and wealthy citizen of Philadelphia, on Tuesday last forwarded to Rev. Mr. Kalloch a check on the Girard Bank for the sum of two thousand dollars, for the purpose of defraying the expenses of Mr. Kalloch's recent trial. This is certainly a very generous donation and reflects much credit upon the liberality of the Philadelphian. Mr. Kalloch has every reason to be gratified with the manner in which his friends rally to his support. He has also been offered the pastoral charge of one of the largest congregations in Philadelphia.—Boston Bee.

Really there is no disputing about tastes.

The Secret Discovered at Last.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the New Store, No. 15, always seems crowded with customers. We have at last discovered the secret of it. On stepping inside, we find that the proprietors, Messrs. Allen & Paine, in fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discover that the store contains a Sky-Light, giving them facilities for showing their Goods unknown by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived in the color or quality of goods. We notice, also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, altogether, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

☞ Take notice, dear reader, that for 40 cts. you can buy a pound of good Tea, Ningyong they call it, at Tilton & Nowell's Union Store, No. 12 Market street,—also shoes for men and women at very reasonable rates; and all other goods cheap. tf

"Balm of a Thousand Flowers"—A Counterfeit. A person pretending to have been a partner with W. F. Fetridge in the above article, is palming off a spurious preparation on the people. All are counterfeits unless the name FETRIDGE & Co., is written on the side, and W. P. FETRIDGE & Co., printed on the front of the label. The genuine article is for sale by all respectable Druggists, who frown down counterfeits and imposters.

White Teeth, Fragrant Breath and Beautiful Complexion are to be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath, when using the Balm of a Thousand Flowers would render it sweet? m28 dawlm

For sale in Portsmouth by Joseph H. Thacher.

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Lung Complaints. We have reference to Dr. Sanford's Invigorator or Liver Remedy that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of the cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

Use Dr. Clough's Columbian Pills,

A WONDERFUL Medicine, good in all diseases, and for persons of all ages, and especially for Females to use in Pregnancy and child bed. Ladies, please read what Mrs. Sears, an old, experienced nurse of Litchfield, says:

"I have used Dr. Clough's Columbian Pills in my business, as nurse, for three or four years, and find them just what the sick need; they act on the stomach and bowels so mildly, relieve the head, the bowels and calm the nerves. I am sure I but do my duty to my female companions in recommending these Pills for their use, in preference to any similar preparation.

Sarah Sears, Nurse."

This recommendation is valuable, because it is by a lady of large experience as a Nurse, and she knows just what the ladies need to regulate and strengthen them, so as to be able to do their duty cheerfully and safely, as women and as mothers.

These Pills will give satisfaction!
These Pills are doing great good!
These Pills are extensively used!

POLICE COURT.

The outrage upon Mr. Robert N. Bodge, referred to in Saturday's Chronicle, came under examination in the Police Court on Saturday. Henry L. Foote, a police officer, and James M. Pickering, were charged with the offence. Pickering plead guilty. It appeared that the respondents met on the evening of the assault a little after 7 o'clock, and continued together, in various parts of the city, until after 11 o'clock.—That about 10 o'clock, as Mr. Bodge, with a lady, was coming up Pleasant street near the Wentworth house, he was met by the respondents going in the opposite direction, and Pickering struck Mr. Bodge and knocked him down. Mr. Bodge then went, with the lady, into the house of Mr. Henry Lowd, and after there bathing his face came out and saw the respondents in company, and one of them kicking Mr. B.'s hat.

After going home with the lady, Mr. Bodge, in company with the City Marshal, went back to Pleasant street in quest of his hat, and found it torn into fragments.—The respondents went down to the South Mill Bridge, and were afterwards, after 11 o'clock, seen together at a bar on Market Square. It seems in proof that they were together all the time for more than two hours before the assault and more than an hour afterwards. But one blow was struck. It did not appear who kicked the hat, but it did appear that the respondents were together when it was kicked, and had drank together in the evening. Mr. Hatch contended that the evidence did not sufficiently connect Foote with the assault to render him guilty, even if he had approved of the assault after it was made.

Mr. Hackett, for the prosecution, contended that as Foote was a police officer, it was his duty to have arrested Pickering on the spot, and having failed to do this, and being seen in company with Pickering, kicking Bodge's hat, immediately after the assault, and continuing in his company till a late hour, proved that Foote was as much to blame as Pickering; that Foote and Pickering were acting in concert, and as the facts show that they were united in purpose as well as in sympathy and company, they should be united in punishment.

But the Court discharged Foote, and fined Pickering $7 and costs, and ordered him to give sureties to keep the peace.

MEETING AT THE TEMPLE.

On Saturday afternoon, April 25, agreeably to notice, an assembly of ladies and gentlemen convened in the Temple.

Capt. John Chase was called to the Chair; prayer was offered by Rev. L. Whiting. Remarks were made by Hon. Horton D. Walker, T. H. Miller, A. J. Penhallow, Esq., and by Mr. J. C. Cluer.

The following resolutions were passed.

Resolved, That the recent exhibitions of rowdyism in our city, the gross assaults upon persons and property, and the frequent disturbances of the public peace, develope a condition of affairs which calls for vigilant and effective action on the part of all citizens in favor of law and justice.

Resolved, That the prime cause of all the rowdyism that has recently disgraced and continues to disgrace our city, is to be found in those nurseries of crime with which our city abounds—the grogshops which exist among us in violation and in defiance of law.

Resolved, That it is among the duties which our city officers have sworn to discharge, to cause to be enforced the law for the suppression of intemperance; and that in neglecting the performance of that duty they have set an example of disregard of law destructive to the moral welfare of the community.

Resolved, That Mayor Morrison, in his Inaugural Address, has clearly set forth the duties of the City Council, as follows:

"Having accepted the trust committed to us by our fellow citizens, and taken our respective oaths of office, we have incurred responsibilities of no ordinary nature. To us is committed the general welfare of the city; and the public look to us for its healthy and moral condition. Whatever, therefore, tends to the quiet of our streets; to the safety of our dwellings; to the means for the education of our youth;—and to relieving the condition of the helpless and unfortunate, will be fit subjects for your consideration, inquiry and action.

"Our Police should be men of unexceptionable character; skilled in the knowledge of human nature; firm, yet conciliatory; and who observe the laws they are called upon to execute. They should be vigilant in suppressing disorder and detecting crime; and should exercise a healthy influence on the morals of the city. If our laws are violated, they must be enforced; not in a fanatical spirit, but in a manner calculated to accomplish the most good."

And we call upon them to perform the duties so clearly pointed out, and pledge our hearty cooperation in all efforts of the city government to preserve the peace and enforce the laws.

Resolved, That the action of the Attorney General, County Solicitor, and Sheriff of this County, in prosecuting violations of the law for the suppression of intemperance, deserves and receives our warm commendation, and that we pledge our hearty cooperation in future efforts in the same direction.

The meeting was then adjourned to meet on Wednesday afternoon next, at 3 o'cl'k, in the Temple.

☞ We learn that besides the wanton attack on Mr. Bodge, on Thursday night, there were other persons attacked, one of them, a sailor, who, wishing to go to sea directly, did not wait to prosecute.

☞ Sch. Admiral, Capt. Farnsworth, from Annapolis, N. S., for Salem,—which went ashore near the mouth of this harbor, last Tuesday, was got off on Friday.

The British brig Plantagenet, which went ashore at the same time in York Harbor, has also got off.

☞ The steamboat "Lady of the Lake," Capt. Walker, made her first trip for the season over Lake Winnepiseogee, on Tuesday last. The "Dover" is being repaired, and will commence running in a few days.

The Piscataqua Steam Ferry Boat is to commence running this week, also.

EXETER, April 24.

No. 153, Cyrus Fellows, plff. in review, v. Sarah Fellows, is on trial to-day.

☞ Rev. S. S. Fletcher, of Exeter, School Commissioner of Rockingham county, is to deliver a series of lectures on Phrenology and Physiology in Wolfborough, this week.

N. H. STATE FAIR.—The Annual Exhibition and Fair of the New Hampshire State Agricultural Society, is to be holden at Concord, this year.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in phrenit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-similie of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN

Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is a delicious tonic beverage, and by its peculiar flavor (so different from other gins) is universally esteemed by all who use it. It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

SALE OF SUBURBAN HOTELS.—The Brattle House estate at Old Cambridge, has been purchased for the Law School of Harvard College, to accommodate the students with suitable rooms. The sum paid was $19,000. The Norfolk House in Roxbury has been sold at auction to Horace King for $50,000, but owing to some misunderstanding, the property is to be again offered for sale.

☞ Amos Butler, for many years conductor of the old Mercantile Advertiser, in New York, died recently at the residence of his son in Mississippi. Mr. Butler was one of the most enterprising of the pioneer editors of this century.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.—The machine-shops of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, at Wheeling, Vt., were burned on Monday afternoon, together with several locomotives, all the machinery, and the out-houses. Loss $150,000.

THE RAG-PICKERS OF NEW YORK.—It is stated that there are in New York city, not less than one thousand professional rag-pickers. The Express says that some of them have, by picking rags, accumulated fortunes, and live in splendid mansions, while others reside in shanties located in the outer wards.

Col. Benton, in the second volume of his abridgement of the Debates in Congress, appends a note on the Administration of Mr. Adams, absolving it from the imputation of extravagance—a phrase which became a household word in that day, and contributed largely to the discredit of the party, and their overthrow.

Mr. Benton was one of the most industrious and malignant circulators of the original slander, and his tardy retraction of it is too much like a "death-bed repentance" to be of any great value.—Dover Enquirer.

LIQUOR AGENTS.—The Mayor and Aldermen of Newburyport have, this month, made an addition of a half dozen agents or so, to their already long list of names, so that now we have some twenty-five agencies. We believe these last were to sell for mechanical purposes.—Herald.

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. Fraser & Co are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well secured as if they themselves were present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers call attention to, is, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, and the lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the application and money is at hand. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Tertary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES.

E. E. DYER & CO.

(Sign of the Cinnamon grinding Coffee,)

141 Washington St., Boston,

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest Cash prices.

Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar, Tarraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the undersigned may rely upon having them pure and genuine as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give customers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz.: 5 lb. Spring Tea, 1 50 | lb. Mocha Coffee, 1 00
5 lb. Oolong do. 1 25 | 5 lb. Java do. 90
5 lb. Hyson do. 2 25 | 5 lb. good do. 1 00
5 lb. Young Hyson do. 2 00 | 5 lb. Rio do. 90

Our Spices are put up in 2 oz. and 1 lb. tin cans, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our "Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up for convenience having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city at a cent per pound, and is put up in our "Cinnamon grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of Coffee. The price is 20 cents per lb. and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by Druggists.

The medicinal properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee not as beverage, but as medicine, and will be found cheap and economical as a tonic beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections, &c. &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Teaches use the trade mark, "Cinnamon grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called Taraxacum, in the market.

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same price with us.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

STRANGE ADVENTURE.—Few of us often pause to reflect on the vast amount of human suffering that prevails in our midst—still fewer ever think of the misery that can be found in the back regions of the country. Much of this suffering and misery can be speedily banished and alleviated by very simple means, as will be seen by the following letter:

To the Editors of the Sunday Times:

As I was travelling from Batesville, Arkansas, to Carrollton, I witnessed one of the most distressing, heartrending scenes of suffering that has ever enveloped a family in misery; but, thank God, my timely arrival at the cabin of the sufferers, was the means of relieving them from their torturing situation.

Three years ago, William Edwards was a thriving farmer in Western Pennsylvania, and for the county in which he lived was considered wealthy; but as ambition is the prominent feature in the American organization, and as great inducements were held out to our enterprising farmers to purchase a large section of land in Arkansas, he selected that State and accepted the proffered inducements as the foundation on which his ambitious desires were to be realized. With his wife and seven children he emigrated to his new home in Arkansas. But, alas! for human calculation. Distantly settled from any habitation, where, if in need of any assistance, he was shut out from the friendly aid of those, who, in the hours of sickness and danger, would lighten with friendly counsel and prompt assistance the heavy burdens entailed by that sad infirmity.

The first blow of sorrow was the sickness of his youngest child. She was seized with diarrhœa, which, from neglect and the want of proper remedies to check it when it first made its appearance, had become chronic, and the fine, hearty, chubby, square-built, rosy-faced child of six years, had wasted away to a peak-faced skeleton. The father's hopes in the life of his child were lost, and, to increase his sorrows, a second was seized with the same complaint; and that, too, began to waste away. The medicines obtained from the doctor, who lived twenty-five miles distant, were worthless, and both children were in a dying condition. A third was seized with fever and ague, and became so weakened as to be helpless. A fourth fell a victim to typhus fever, and every hour the parents expected to be obliged to perform the sad office of burying their own children. A fifth, a strong lad of sixteen, while cutting sway some small shrubs, had accidentally cut a severe gash in his leg. The wound was so painful as to disable him, and to keep him in company with his sick brothers and sisters. A sixth, a young man of twenty-one, was seized with a severe attack of bilious cholic. The seventh had almost forfeited his life through his own carelessness, by the discharge of his gun, that accidentally went off while his hand rested on the mouth of the barrel. His hand was shattered to a jelly. The father—the poor, distressed father—on discovering the last sad accident, was so terror-stricken as to become paralyzed. The poor, heart-wounded wife and faithful mother bore up like a woman, but she, too, was stricken down with grief and care.

In this sad situation I found this suffering family engulphed in misery. With a prayer to God to help me in relieving them from their misery, I commenced the work of applying the means of cure. To the children afflicted with diarrhœa, I gave ten drops of Radway's Ready Relief, every fifteen minutes, and told the mother to give them thickened milk as a diet. The fever and ague I treated successfully by giving large doses of the Ready Relief every fifteen minutes, and rubbing the extremities of the body until a glow of heat was obtained. The typhus fever yielded to the treatment of the Relief and Regulators, and the wound in the young man's leg healed by applying the Relief.

Every one of the family was restored to perfect health in six days' time by the use of these remedies. Had Radway's Ready Relief been used, and a dose or two of the Regulators been taken, on the appearance of either of these complaints, not six hours' sickness would have followed their use. So with the accident of the axe and gunshot wounds. The Ready Relief, applied after the shot were taken out, healed the wound and allayed the inflammation. I never in my life witnessed such joy and gladness—such thankfulness, as in the family of William Edwards.

I write this to you, that you may warn all emigrants seeking homes in the West, to provide themselves with Radway's Remedies. G. A. C.,
Travelling Minister of M. E. C.

The above letter endorses our frequent warnings through the press, of the importance of persons emigrating to new countries supplying themselves with the remedies. With Radway's Relief and Regulators, you are safe against all diseases; and if you meet with accidents, either by falls or injuries—if no bones are broken—Radway's Ready Relief and a few doses of Regulators, will save you from serious harm. There is no disease known to man, but that these remedies will remove. They are all powerful.

It is absolute recklessness on the part of those emigrating to new countries, who neglect to secure a supply of these remedies. All emigrants suffer more or less by change of water. A few drops of the Ready Relief in the water will give you a pleasant and a healthy beverage. With Radway's Relief and Regulators, you need not fear cholera, yellow fever, fever and ague, typhus fever, small-pox, or other disease.

The public will please bear in mind, that the R. R. R. Remedies consist of Radway's Ready Relief, Renovating Resolvent, and Regulators.

The Ready Relief is the most remarkable and miraculous remedy for the instant relief of all afflicted with any pains, over discovered. In a few moments it will soothe the most terrible and excruciating paroxysms of pains, cramps and spasms. No matter what the pain may arise from, this marvellous remedy will, in a few moments, give ease and comfort to the afflicted.

Radway's Resolvent is for the cure of scrofula, humors, nodes, sores of all kinds, syphilis, bronchitis, and all diseases that have become established in the system, whether inherited by hereditary descent, or inoculated by imprudence or exposure. It is in cases where physicians have failed, and other medicines will do no good, where Radway's Renovating Resolvent proves its superior curative efficacy. In simple maladies, such as eruptions of the skin, pustules, tetters, rash, ring worm, salt rheum, and diseases arising from impure blood, it will cure in a few days, and all chronic diseases, it is sure to cure in a short time.

Radway's Regulators are in the form of pills, and are an improvement on all other pills in use. If there were not qualities in Radway's Regulators superior to all other pills, it would be folly in us to introduce them. There are many excellent pills in the market, but there are none that possess such wonderful curative powers, developing new medicinal principles like Radways Regulators. If you desire a purge take one or two of Radway's Regulators, by their use the weak become strong—the sick healthy—and those who take them are blessed with a happy flow of spirits.—Radway's Remedies are sold by druggists everywhere.

MORMON IMMIGRANTS.

We have already recorded the fact that 800 Mormons, converted in Europe, have arrived in Boston, in one ship from Liverpool. A correspondent of the Boston Courier puts some questions about them, as to age, sex, condition, &c.—To which that paper gives the following interesting answer.

It is impossible to ascertain from parties here, exact answers to the precise questions asked by our correspondent. The company was composed of persons of all ages and conditions, in about the usual proportions to be found in rural communities. The captain took them as he took other passengers, making but little inquiry as to their former occupation or character. The following general facts, however, may be of interest, as bearing on the subject.

There were on board 808 passengers, divided in nationality, as follows, viz.: English 720; Scotch 43: Welch 22; German 13; Irish 6; French 4. The English were from all parts of England; more, however, from Nottinghamshire than from any other part. Among the passengers were 40 elders, who had been preaching the doctrines of the sect, throughout the old world. One of these elders, named Mercer, of Philadelphia, was on his return from a mission to the East Indies. The rest of the passengers were collected by the elders' representations of duty and the promised land of Utah, and were of all ages and both sexes. Some of the women were over 70 years of age, and there were 21 infants under one year old.

The proportion of married men, and women and families, was somewhat larger than is usual among immigrants. The married men had only one wife each.

Many of the families were possessed of considerable property. The captain estimated the amount of British gold upon the passengers at £20,000, and said that he knew of more than one person who had £1000 for his own use and that of his family.

Several had left relatives and friends behind them. One woman had left her husband, that she might go to the land of the saints; and there was another beautiful, dark eyed young woman, with a young infant, whose story, as told by the captain, was quite touching.

The captain noticed her when they started, as possessed of great beauty, but lost sight of her, in a day or two, and supposing she had changed her quarters, did not inquire concerning her for eight or ten days. He was then told that she had been very sick, and was still quite feeble. He had her brought from between decks, where she was, upon the deck, and laid on a mattress, got her some port wine and cake, and tried to bring back her health. Under this treatment she improved much, and in reply to his questions, told him that she had left a pleasant home, in a quiet village in England, and a husband to whom she had been married but a year or two, for this journey. He asked her reasons. She replied that she had done so for Christ's sake, who had promised that if one forsook father and mother and husband for him, she should receive more abundantly in this life, and in the next world everlasting life.

Nearly all the men were armed, with from two to four revolvers, which they had purchased at the suggestion of the elders, who had told them that they would need something of the sort in crossing the plains. They had no muskets or rifles.

One of the elders had been acquainted with Joe Smith, at Nauvoo, and firmly believed in his miraculous and prophetic powers. The elder said that on one occasion two rumsellers came to Nauvoo, and refused to leave when ordered by the "Prophet." Smith told them he should curse them. They paid no attention, and in fourteen days they were both blind. The captain asked the case of their blindness. One of them, the elder said, was made blind by an inflammation in his eyes, and the other lost his eyes while blasting a rock. This same elder had had his wife cured of a severe sickness by Smith. Smith came, prayed over her, anointed her with oil, and she recovered.

As soon as the immigrants had left Liverpool, they formed themselves into eight divisions, with about one hundred in each division, and chose a bishop, and an elder to preside over each company. They had morning and evening service—praying and singing—and in the evening, generally, a sermon. On Sundays, a sermon was preached to each section.

In their personal habits, they were very cleanly. Only four of them used tobacco, very few drank tea, although nearly all of them ate animal food. During the whole passage, the captain said no theft occurred, and no angry words passed between them.

A considerable regard was paid to external morality—no female being allowed on deck after 8 P. M., and all the single men having a particular apartment forward. One death occurred on the passage and that was of a man 80 years old. The ceremonies over his body were very short—much more so than the captain had anticipated.

Capt. Comings was much pleased with their appearance. They were, he said, quite intelligent and well educated, and exceedingly well disposed. Every regulation of the ship was obeyed with alacrity and fidelity, and he had merely to mention to the presiding elder any rule to have it immediately enforced. The laymen were all evidently sincere, and filled with glowing anticipation of their home in the "Far West." The captain did not seem to entertain a very high opinion of the sincerity of the elders. These elders had impressed upon the minds of their followers that in the "promised land" they would find a pious and moral people and happy homes, and the captain's warm sailor heart was grieved to think of the bitter disappointment in store for his passengers.

We have heard that a number of these Mormons have not the means to reach Utah, and are stopping in Boston at various boarding houses. The majority, however, have taken up the march for that fair valley, where Nature has showered down beauty and fertility with a liberal hand, —but has guarded it with those fearful plains, where the trail is marked by putrid bodies and blanched bones, among which, doubtless, will be reckoned before the Summer ends, many of the Mormon immigrants on the packet ship George Washington.

CAPT. RYNDERS AND AFRICAN SLAVERS.—Isaiah R. Rynders, the newly appointed U. S. Marshal for the district of New York, has signalized his accession to office by the seizure of a vessel fitted out for a voyage to Africa for slaves. The vessel is a small, fast sailing schooner, called the Merchant, built in Baltimore, and formerly in the coasting trade between New York and Richmond. She was fitted out ostensibly for Corsica. Capt. Rynders kept constant watch upon her, day and night, while fitting out, and, according to the New York Post, had some little fun in acting the spy upon her himself. The Post says:—

On Tuesday night he went on board of a ship lying beside the little schooner, in the disguise of a countryman. He acted the "greeny" to perfection, and says the captain and mates of the ship had their own fun with him. They inquired where he was "raised," and he told them away above Albany, at the head of navigation, (Rynders was born in that part of the world,) and then manifested the utmost curiosity as to "what all them ships a layin' around there was a goin' to do?" He says the officers then "gammoned" him considerably, winking to each other, during the conversation, but at length told him that "that little schooner out there was a blackbird."

"What do you mean by blackbird?" asked the Captain. "Why, she is going to Africa after niggers." "She ain't big enough," said Greeny. "Oh, she's just the kind," was the answer. They then related to the supposed countryman a number of circumstances in relation to the schooner, many of which he knew from previous information to be true. They also regaled him with some marvellous tales of the slave trade.

On Wednesday the schooner obtained her papers, and the Marshal chartered a steamer to be ready for pursuit, placing on board one or two of his deputies, with warrants obtained by District Attorney McKeon, and Captain Faunce of the revenue cutter, with some of his men. The schooner sailed early on Thursday morning and the steamer followed suit. When just below the Narrows, the tow-boat cast off from the schooner, and another steamer approached and put on board some Portuguese and Spaniards, who did not dare to venture on board sooner, after which she took the schooner in tow. The steamer, with the officials on board, then gave chase and captured both vessels. Seven men were arrested on board the schooner, and some papers were seized. Four Spanish sailors were found secreted on board the steamer. The vessels were placed under the surveillance of the revenue cutter, and their crews taken to New York and locked up for examination. The Merchant has on board every thing usually found on a well-appointed slaver. Capt. Rynders vehemently expressed his determination to break up the slave trade, and says he will let those who are opposed to him understand that, although he will catch a "nigger" if called upon, in the discharge of his duty, he will go a sight further to catch a slaver, because the game is bigger, and he is particularly fond of cruising down the bay.

POOR SLAVES' CHARITY.—The Portland Argus says, the following from the Augusta (Ga.) Dispatch, speaks well for the poor, down-trodden, over-tasked slaves of the South:—

"Persons unacquainted with the facts, can hardly be aware of the extent of contributions at the African churches in this city. Not long since, $218 was raised at one church, to assist friends gone to Liberia. Only think of it—slaves sending a part of their surplus earnings to help feed and clothe free persons.

The members of "Thankful Church" are now building a chapel in the rear of the Church for their own use. We have some statistics to show our Northern friends in a few days."

That's right, says Uncle Toby, send them along,—and when you make it plain that the negro slaves of Georgia are benevolent, christian men,—then we will point you to Judge Taney's famous opinion, that the negro has no rights which the white man is bound to respect;—and will ask you to put the two things together, and see how they look.

HONOR TO MR. EVERETT.—St. Louis, April 25.—There was a pleasure trip over the Pacific Railroad yesterday, in honor of Edward Everett. He repeats his oration on Washington, here to-night.

EXETER BANK.—For a year or two, the public confidence in this bank has been very weak, and growing no stronger continually. But as the bills have been promptly cashed at their own counter, little or no inconvenience has been occasioned. We cut the following statement of the failure or stoppage of this bank from Dye's Wall Street Broker, of April 25th:—

The last week has been one of unusual activity in Wall street. The friends of the Exeter Bank have been shinning it from 10 to 3, as tight as possible, to save their institution from discredit. But alas, all their efforts proved unavailing. Their funds were exhausted, and the Exeter Bank died, without a struggle, on Wednesday last, at 10 o'clock.

LIQUOR CASES.—In the Court of Common Pleas for Plymouth County, Mass., Ann Swift of Wareham and George Bennett of Middleboro', were each sentenced to pay $50 and costs of prosecution, and be imprisoned three months in the House of Correction, for violation of the liquor law.

☞ Harper's Magazine for May is a spirited number, better illustrated than ever. THE SECRET DISCOVERED AT LAST.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the NEW STORE, No. 15, always seems crowded with customers. We have at last discovered the secret of it. On stepping inside, we find that the proprietors, MESSRS. ALLEN & PAINE, are fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discover that the store contains a Skylight, giving them facilities for showing their Goods possessed by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty, in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived in the color or quality of goods. We notice, also, that their stock is well and compossed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, altogether, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

☞ Take notice, dear reader, that for 40 cts. you can buy a pound of good Tea, Ningyong they call it, at Tilton & Nowell's Union Store, No. 12 Market street,—also shoes for men and women at very reasonable rates; and all other goods cheap. tf

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have no reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

ROWDYISM IN PORTSMOUTH.

In our Police Court report on Monday morning, we gave some details of the outrageous and aggravated assault on Mr. Robert N. Bodge, one of the most quiet and peaceable young men in the city. He was so badly injured as to be half-insensible for a while; and has been obliged to wear a shield over the injured eye ever since. What renders this case the more flagrant is, that Mr. Bodge was walking with a lady at the time: and that one of the assailants, or at least an accessory after the act, is one of our Assistant Marshals!

Previous to this assault, on Wednesday evening, a man said to be a U. S. Marine, half drunk or more, is stated to have insulted some ladies at the South End. H. L. Foote, (Police Officer,) and John M. Pickering, who are said to have been at Pickering's house, not far from South Mill, came to the scene of action, in their shirt sleeves, (wonder who "took their jackets off,") and after pummelling the soldier somewhat, took him up Pleasant street, they said to go to the watch-house: but the Marine had not reached there at last accounts!

After this, when Foote and Pickering were going down Pleasant street again, Mr. Bodge was knocked down. A man, said to be a sailor from a vessel lying at Newcastle, was also knocked down, and very badly injured, near the South Mill, on the same evening; and human blood, it is said, was to be seen the next day, sprinkled round pretty freely.

We have also heard of other assaults of late, which have not been reported or come before the Police Court. Among others, "Dr." Stephen Drew, of Stratham thieving-rendezvous notoriety, was badly bruised in the face, a week or two since, without giving provocation. Also a peaceable journeyman shoe-maker in this city, was brutally assaulted recently, knocked down and left senseless on the sidewalk—and that, too, by men who would be ashamed to be known in such business, and should blush to have been there.

In view of this existing sad state of things, many of our citizens think, as we certainly do, that the price of a knock-down is set altogether too low—$7 and costs. The extent of ——— the law, at least, ought to be tried on some of these half-drunken fellows, who break heads by way of pastime; and from what we see and hear, about town, of preparations for self-defence in case of assault, it may yet cost some of them more than the sum named, if this business is continued with so high a hand.

THE TEMPERANCE MEETING

At the Temple, Sunday evening, was a rouser. The hall was filled by one of the best audiences that can be gathered in Portsmouth: and the exercises of the evening were interesting, appropriate, and impressive. The meeting was opened by a stirring Temperance Ode written by Mrs. Sigourney, and sung to the tune of Rockingham, by a volunteer choir. Then, after prayer, by Mr. Wm. Tuckerman, Mr. Cluer spoke for nearly two hours, on the moral and religious aspects of the liquor traffic—pausing for a few moments, while his wonderful little girl recited a touching and appropriate poem.

Mr. Cluer's remarks were rather out of the common course, and he made some terrible hits. But as those who are interested in this cause, have had opportunity of hearing him, we shall make no sketch of his discourse.

After he had concluded, his daughter recited another touching poem; and the exercises were closed with Old Hundred.—Mr. C. and his charming little daughter are to visit Portsmouth again, during the summer; and he proposes an out-door gathering. He has helped to create quite an interest in the Temperance cause here, and all its friends will be glad to meet him again.

☞ We regret to learn that Mr. Samuel Parsons, while at work with an ox-team, on his farm a couple of miles from this city, on Friday last, was seriously injured. One wheel of the cart passed over his foot at the ancle, and crushed it so badly that it is feared he may never regain the use of it.

☞ The Dalton divorce case is postponed for a day or two, on account of the sickness of Judge Merrick.

☞ Col. J. W. Forney has recovered from his severe illness and has gone to Washington.

THE INDIAN OUTRAGES.—New York, April 25.—The Dubuque Tribune has details of the Indian massacre near Minnesota. A band of Sioux Indians attacked Springfield 2d inst., killed 7, wounded 3, and carried 4 women into captivity.—Among the killed are Wm. Wood, George F. Wood, Mr. Church and Josiah Stuart. Two Indians were killed during the attack, one by Mrs. Church. Two of the women carried off were Mrs. Marvel and Miss Gardner.

Thirty volunteers, under Drs. W. F. Lewis, started in pursuit of the Indians, and coming up with one of their encampments, charged upon it, killing 4. Fifty men under Capt. Dodd, had gone from St. Peters, and another party from Traverse de Sioux. A later account says the party under Capt. Todd had a fight with the Indians, killing 12 and losing none. A party of Winnebago warriors had gone out against the Sioux. Gen. Shields, with a company of volunteers, had also started for the seat of war. One account says 53 persons are missing, not including the four women made captives.

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Herald has advices from Honduras of April 1st.

Mr Stevenson, the British Superintendent at Belize, had left a few days previously. Mr. Seymour, his successor in office, landed from the British brig-of-war Arab, on 30th ult., and next day was sworn into office.

Strong prejudices still existed in Honduras and Guatemala against our countrymen. In Guatemala 6 Americans had been shot, and others banished from the country, by order of Gen. Carrera.

It was reported that San Salvador had declared in favor of Gen. Walker.

NEW YORK, 27th.—Daniel T. Watson has been arrested in this city, charged, on his own confession, with having fired the ship Acorn, which was burnt in Waldoboro' in January, 1855. He implicates the owner in the transaction. The Acorn was insured in this city for about $65,000.

☞ The Jayne check for $2000, sent to Mr. Kalloch, of Boston, turns out to be forged. It had been cashed in Boston;—and Mr. K. has refunded the money.

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the signature of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN
Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

MARRYING IN FUN.—Another instance of the folly of marrying in fun is just now exciting the good people of Fonda, N. Y. It seems that a banking officer in that town met at a ball a young lady who was very good-looking, sprightly and attractive.—While waltzing with her, he proposed in jest that they should be married. The lady accepted this proposition, and they adjourned to a side room, where a person present was called upon to perform the ceremony, which he did, to the infinite amusement of all concerned. The gentleman thought no more of the matter until the breaking up of the ball, when the fair partner called upon him to conduct him to his residence. He demurred, and thought she had better go to her own residence. She said that the home of her husband was her home; "whither thou goest, I will follow thee." He could hardly understand that she was his wife. She insisted on her marital rights, and claimed that as the ceremony had been performed by a Justice of the Peace, it was a perfectly fair and legal transaction. Gentlemen inquired into matters; found that her positions were correct and that he was in a bad box. He is now endeavoring to ignore his wife and back out of the bargain, with little prospect of success, however. The lady has before been married, and was, it is understood, divorced from her former husband, but under such circumstances as admitted of her marrying again.

ELOPEMENT OF A PRIEST WITH HIS PENITENT.—The European Times publishes the following article of news from Paris:—

One morning last week every newspaper office of Paris was visited by a government messenger, who in breathless haste, forbade them to print a word of the news which had just arrived from Meaux. The grand vicaire had fled with one of his fair penitents, Mademoiselle Vacquerin by name, and one of the most beautiful girls in the place. What makes the affair so terrible just at this moments is, that this intrigue of the grand Vicaire, which forms one of the accusations upon which Verger based his proofs of the corruption of the clergy, breaks out just as Verger and his damning proofs began to be forgot. The young lady, who has refused the most brilliant offers of marriage, and who is possessed of a large fortune in her own right, has, by the advice of her paramour, who is supposed to have been her lover ever since she first attended his confessional, five years ago, only waited until her coming of age and the transfer of her property from the hands of her relations to her own, to take this extraordinary and decided step. The grand vicaire is a tall, handsome man, of good family. The fugitives have landed in England—and rumor declares that the reverend father has written to his bishop, announcing his intention of throwing his froc aux orties, and threatening on the first sign of persecution or anoyance on the part of the ecclesiastical authorities, to issue a public confirmation of all the "horrible calumnies" which were suppressed in Verger's trial.

The New York Mirror intimates that the first class hotels in that city, with a laudable disposition "to keep pace with the times," propose to raise the price of board to $3 a day. We wonder if it ever occurs to any except to the unfortunate men engaged in publishing them, that while everything else is rising, it costs more to publish a newspaper than it did five years ago. We have a very strong conviction on the subject.—Prov. Jour.

LOTTERIES.

THE WELL-KNOWN Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. FARNER & Co are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawing. Another fund which is pledged for the security of the state, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. The schemes are drawn every day in the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication comes to hand. The price of tickets range from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Tertary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Cocoas, Spices, &c.

WHOLESALE,—AND ALSO IN SMALL PACKAGES,

E. E. DYER & CO.

141 Washington St., Boston.

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest Cash prices.—Their Stock consists of Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspices, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamons, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Tarracondon, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine as they are put up under our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give customers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Souchong Tea, 1 25 | 5 lb. Mocha Coffee, 1 00
5 lb. Oolong do. 1 75 | 5 lb. Java do. 90
5 lb. Hyson do. 1 25 | 5 lb. Rio do. 1 00

☞ The Spices are put up in ¼ and ½ lb. tin cases, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE.—This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, in retailing it to family grocers and dealers in city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the best article. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of Coffee. It is put up 25 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by druggists.

The medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. Being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, may be mixed with coffee or not, as beets suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a simple beverage, equal of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Billious affections, &c., &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Taraxacum is put up under our trade mark, "Chinaman Grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called Taraxacum, in the market.

☞ Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at the same low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profit, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

Hutchins' Hair Dye.

The very best now in use, as the many thousands that have tried it will testify.

THE great superiority of this Dye consists in its easy application, having but one preparation. It also contains twice as much as any other, and sold at much less price. This Dye impart to the hair the most natural color of any yet discovered; and instead of injuring, it gives it the beauty and elasticity of youth. This Dye is having the largest sale of any Dye in the market, and is warranted to give better satisfaction than any yet offered to the public.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

DR. CHEESEMAN'S PILLS FOR FEMALES.

Prepared by an old Physician of 40 years experience.

THE combination of ingredients in these Pills, have been used in a long and extensive practice; they are mild in their operation and certain to restoring nature to its proper channel. In cases where have the Pills proved successful. They are certain to relieve those obstructions to which females are liable, and bring nature to her proper channel, whereby health is restored, and the pale and sickly countenance changed to a healthy one. No female can enjoy good health unless she is regular: and whenever an obstruction takes place, whether from exposure, cold, or any other cause, the general health immediately begins to decline, and the vital energy of the remedy has been the cause of so many consumptions among our female females

APPLES.—A correspondent of the New ssay Farmer says he had occasion to r-haul some apples the other day. They re picked in the same orchard and on same day, and were put away the same y; some in flour barrels, and some in e barrels. Those in flour barrels were ch decayed, while those in the lime bars were sound, and but very few showing y signs of decay.

THE POISONING AT WASHINGTON.—The
w York Mirror says there are still sever-persons very seriously ill in that city,
m the effects of the National Hotel mal-
y. Among others the Hon. Robert J. alker is not yet entirely recovered from s severe attack. Senator Hale of New mpshire has become a thin, lean man, der its ravages.
It is now the opinion of many persons t there was a deliberate purpose to ison Mr. Buchanan; and that the dia-lical scoundrel hazarded the lives of ousands in the attempt.

☞ Benjamin Tappan died at Steuben-lle, Ohio, on Sunday last, at the age of hty-five years. He was the oldest broth-of John Tappan of Boston, and Arthur d Lewis Tappan of New York. He was the United States Senate from 1839
1845, and supported Democratic meas-
es.

☞ Mr. Harrison G. Cole, a liquor
aler of twenty years' standing in Port-d, has reformed, and been lecturing in vor of prohibition. He says about all e liquors now sold are impure, adulterd and contain the most deadly poisons.

VALUABLE PROPERTY ON THE WING.—
wenty-two slaves, we are informed, re-ently escaped from a Southern city, bar-led up. They passed safely out to a, when the barrels were unheaded, d they came safely to New York, here they took different directions for the nd where Dred Scott decisions cannot ach them. Six of them, a mother and e children, came this way. In Thompnville, upward of thirty dollars were aised for them, and in this city they ob-ained funds to carry them as far as Sus-ension bridge. They were a hard look-g set, and appeared as if they had been arrcled up during the winter; but the hildren are bright, and will make the anada woods ring, one of these days.—

THE UPAS TREE.
BY MRS. L. H. SIGOURNEY.

Their sprang a tree of deadly name,
Its poisonous breath, its baleful dew
Scorched the green earth, like lava flame,
And every plant of mercy slew.

From clime to clime its branches spread
Their fearful fruits of sin and woe;—
The Prince of Darkness loved its shade,
And toiled its fiery seed to sow.

Faith poured her prayer at midnight hour,
The hand of zeal at noon-day wrought,
And armor of celestial power,
The children of the Cross besought.

Behold! the axe its pride shall wound,
Thro' its cleft boughs the sunbeams shine,
Its blasted blossoms strew the ground,—
Give glory to the Arm Divine.

And still Jehovah's aid implore,
From isle to isle, from sea to sea,—
From peopled earth's remotest shore,
T' uproot that deadly Upas tree.

☞ The Charleston (S. C.) Mercury says the recent cold weather, frost and ice, has seriously injured the early planted rice in that State.

Manny's Celebrated Mower
—AND—
MOWER AND REAPER.
IMPROVED.
Built expressly for the New England States.

THE MANNY MOWER has been extensively used for the past two years in New England, and more than six years at the West.—Its success is beyond that of any other Mower or Reaper ever constructed. Over 150 1st Premiums have been awarded it, including the Grand 1st class Silver Medal at the WORLD'S FAIR, PARIS, 1856.

With the two past years' experience, we have been enabled to make a number of very important improvements. We find New England farmers require a different Machine from other sections;—the fields generally being small. It must be light, at the same time possess great strength; portable, with facilities to raise the cutters to pass obstructions, and to remove from field to field. A perfect cutting apparatus, to cut the fine grasses without clogging, and so constructed as to stat in the grass without backing, easily adjusted to cut high or low, and have a Reel to cut equally well with or against the wind, and to be worked with ease by a light team, and so easily managed and simple that any one of common ability may operate it successfully, and to be built in the most thorough manner.

With this knowledge of the farmers' requirements, and with the determination to build a better Machine than has ever before been constructed in this country, we offer the Manny Mower of 1857 with confidence, as combining the qualities enumerated above, and as one particularly adapted to meet the wants of New England farmers.

☞ We invite the farmers to call and examine Machines. Orders should be sent early. Circulars, with testimonials, forwarded FREE, on application.

Pressed Boat, Ship, Brad & Countersunk Railroad Spikes
ARE well known in the United States, and are conspicuous for their regularity and finish, their unvarying uniformity of size, and for the excellent quality of iron from which they are made, to which may be attributed their rare strength. They are everywhere considered far superior to the hand made spike of common English iron, and inferior to nothing of the kind yet introduced to the public.

Hutchins' Hair Dye.
The very best now in use, as the many thousands that have tried it will testify.
THE great superiority of this Dye consists in its easy application, having but one preparation. It also contains twice as much as any other, and sold at a much less price. This Dye imparts to the hair the most natural color of any yet discovered; and instead of injuring, it gives it the beauty and elasticity of youth. This Dye is having the largest sale of any Dye in the market, and is warranted to give better satisfaction than any yet offered to the public.

Morning Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 29, 1857.

☞ We learn from a correspondent, that the dwelling house of Mr. Samuel Hayes, in Conway, N. H., built and formerly occupied by the late George K. Sparhawk, Esq., was destroyed by fire on the afternoon of Thursday, the 23d inst. The fire is supposed to have caught in the roof, from a chimney that had been burned out. Furniture mostly saved —No insurance.

A young man named Kingman, was drowned in the Saco River, at the West Village, Conway, N. H., on the morning of the 24th inst. While engaged in floating logs down river, he slipped off, and it is supposed, struck his head, as he never rose to the surface. Prompt exertions were made to rescue him, but when taken out, life was completely extinct. He was from Bartlett, 24 years of age.

DOVER.—The Dover Gazette of Saturday, says:

Rowdyism is fearfully on the increase in our city. It blockades our sidewalks, compels our wives and daughters to listen to its foul language and billingsgate as they pass along our streets; tears down our fences and gates; wrenches off our door-bells and awakens us at night, with its horrid screechings and howlings; breaks in our shop windows, tears down our signs, startles us on the streets with its cry of Murder, as was the case on Saturday night: and yet the people of this City look on with listless indifference.

Is it not time that something was done in this matter? If the present police force is insufficient, increase it. If inefficient, turn them out. If nothing can be done either way, why not call a meeting of the citizens and consult as to the best means of getting rid of this evil.

The evil of Intemperance is also on the increase. Why is this? We supposed the Maine Law would be a panacea for this evil, or at least we were told so; and yet it is quite the reverse. The Law is openly and boldly violated in thirty places in Dover.

We called the attention of our citizens to this subject because we believe it to be our duty to do so, and trust that those who have the power will endeavor to do something in the matter.

This is right. The city government of Dover can greatly diminish, and perhaps entirely stop the trade of those 30 places by repeated searches,—and the law calls upon them to do it!—And in stopping this evil, they would stop three fourths or nine tenths of all the rest.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE FAIR.—The State Agricultural Society of New Hampshire has decided to hold its annual fair and exhibition at Concord, on the 7th, 8th, and 9th days of October. Gen. Henry K. Oliver of Lawrence, will deliver the annual address on the second day of the fair. Nathaniel White, of Concord, has been appointed superintendent of the arrangements, and Col. Benjamin Grover, chief marshal. The managers design to do all within their means to set forth a superior exhibition.

OBITUARY.—Mr. Levi Sargent, a well known citizen of Manchester, N. H., died there on Friday evening, aged 47. Mr. Sargent was a native of Goffstown, and went to Manchester, at the first building up of the mills. In company with D. A. Bunton, he superintended the most of the stone work for the several manufacturing companies, and was a laborious and efficient business man. His disease was of a nervous character, and is thought to have been confirmed, and perhaps originally caused by the use of water impregnated with lead from pipes. He was a member of the Amoskeag Veterans.

"OLD FOLK'S" CONCERT AT EPPING.—The Choir of the Methodist Society in Epping, propose giving an "Old Folks" Concert, on Sabbath afternoon, May 3, for the benefit of the Society. Mr. W. F. Lawrence is leader, which is sufficient guarantee of its excellence.

☞ A letter from Bartlett, N. H., says that every bridge in that town is carried away, and many farms have been well nigh ruined by the sand brought down by the freshet.

THE WEATHER.—The Abington (Va.) Democrat says that during the week preceding Tuesday last, snow fell daily in Washington county. Vegetation was backward through the south-west part of the state, and many cattle were dying.

INDIAN TROUBLES.—New York, April 27. By way of St. Souis we have a report that great excitement exists at Platte, at the mouth of the Nebraska, in consequence of the Pawnee indians having driven out a number of settlers at Salt Creek. A fight occurred, resulting in the killing of several Indians and one white man. Thirteen Indians were captured. Gen. Thayer of Omaha city, had raised a party of volunteers to protect the settlers.

For the Chronicle.

TOMPKINS ON THE SPIRITS.

I am not a very superstitious man. I have no faith in the old woman's whim in reference to the position of the new moon, when first seen; nor do I think, that by going under a raised ladder, instead of going round it, I shall suffer some unexpected misfortune. But being a great observer of human nature, I have noticed that all persons have not the same mental proclivities. My friend Jenkins, for instance, is a remarkably superstitious person. He persists in believing that if his right hand has an "itching palm," he will, as a matter of course, be paid a certain sum of money; and, vice versa, if his sinister hand is in a ticklish condition, he will have to pay out an amount of the paltry lucre. But in the first place, I tell my friend that he would be a very unfortunate individual, did he not, at some time or another, find his exchequer replenished; and in the second place, he would be particularly fortunate were he not, once in a while, obliged to disburse for necessary expenses. To both of which profound remarks he nods assent, but still endeavors to win me to his side of the question by reading me a long lecture on astrology, demonology, &c.; to which I reply "bosh!" and so the matter ends.

Jenkins is a peculiar individual,—in his manner of thinking, talking, eating, walking, and peculiarly peculiar in his dress—it being all of a deep black from the crown of his head to the sole of his foot, with the exception of his linen—giving him very much the appearance of having been run over by a funeral; a striking contrast to myself, as I am addicted to turn-over cravats and blue collars—I mean blue collars—pshaw, you know what I mean.

From the description I have given, you may judge that Jenkins is one of the melancholy, dyspeptic sort,—and may not be surprised to hear that he is fond of moonlight walks, and has a morbid passion for spiritual rappings. The last named institution is his weak point—he goes to a "circle" every night in the week, and such is the effect it has upon him, that he has been found by the watchman, quite often, trying to open the outside door with his watch-key. One evening last week, he invited me to go with him, and I accepted the invitation. When we arrived at the house we were ushered into a dimly-lighted apartment where, we were told, the spirits were wont to congregate. The room was rather nicely furnished, having two square tables in the middle, with chairs drawn up, one at each side of the square. A piano stood in one corner of the room, and in the other a small stove completed the furniture. On this small stove some water was boiling in a kettle, and on asking what that was for, I was told that the spirits wanted it. Soon after our arrival one of the company asked if there was any objection to the spirits; and being answered unanimously in the negative, he began the incantation ceremonies, by mixing several ingredients in some glasses and pouring therein the boiling water from the aforesaid kettle. In a little time this had the desired effect, and the spirits appeared to each individual, not in the usual way of rapping, but in the shape of punches, of which each person had his full share. Being asked if they had anything to communicate, they impelled one young man to take up a pack of cards which lay on a table, and display great skill in blowing aces from the middle to the outside of the pack, to turn a knave every time by simply throwing the cards down forcibly, and to tell the name of every card by holding the back of it towards himself—this was quite mysterious, and must have been done by the spirits, for the operator held the cards between himself and the light, making it of course quite dark where he was.

Again, the spirits requested a young lady to play on the piano, which she did in a wonderful manner. She did not apologize, as most young ladies do, but sat down, without waiting to be teased, merely saying she was "all out of practice," and commenced the performance. It was really wonderful. She played "Old Hundred," with variations, and so beautifully, that more than one person thought it was "Yankee Doodle."

She then gave us a little song entitled, "My Bark is on the Wave," and sang it so feelingly that a certain animal outside essayed an accompaniment; causing us to wish that his bark was on the wave, too.

The spirits then called upon a young man with a guitar in his hand and a cat-tarrh in his head, to "favor us with a song, if you please, Mr. Green." He sang in quite a jovial manner, "I would not live alway"—which we were not disposed to doubt—and on being encored, he sang "Pop goes the Weasel" in a very affecting manner, causing us all to cry.

But the most astonishing thing which occurred during the evening was the fact that Jenkins, who was playing cards during the musical performances, seemed to have a mint of money in the profound recesses of his pantaloons' pocket. It must have been put there by the spirits—for before we went to the circle, I endeavored to borrow some money of Jenkins, and he said he did not possess a cent. That has always been the way of Jenkins; since I first knew him. I have often tried to borrow more money of him, but he never had any. I thought I would never ask him again, and so refrained for several days, until I thought I would would try him this evening, but found no change in him. So I have come to the conclusion that Spiritual meetings must be good things if they put money into the pocket of a person who never had any.

Yours, in the Spirit,
TOMPKINS.

FATAL STEAMBOAT COLLISION.—Evansville (Ind.), April 27.—As the steamer Rainbow was yesterday ascending the Ohio river, when opposite Slim Island, she came in collision with the steamer Julia Dean, bound to the Wabash river. The Dean struck the Rainbow on the starboard side, breaking a hole in her hull and sinking herself immediately. Five or six persons were drowned, four of them deck hands.—The Dean's cargo is a total loss, but is insured. There was no insurance on the boat. The Rainbow received very little damage.

☞ It is stated that ex-President Pierce has purchased 60 acres of land in the northern part of Concord, N. H., whereon he intends to erect a splendid mansion.

EXPLOSION.—Toledo, April 27.—The boiler in the steam planing-mill of Raymond & Hathaway exploded this morning, seriously injuring five persons, one of whom has since died, and two others are not expected to live. The building was nearly demolished.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Here's a treasure for mothers,—Lawrence's Carminative. See advertisement.

THE SECRET DISCOVERED AT LAST.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the Dry Goods store of Messrs. ALLEN & PAINE, in fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discover that the store contains a Sky-Light, giving them facilities for showing their Goods to advantage, as well as for the benefit of their customers. Any Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived in the color or quality of goods. We notice, also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, altogether, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to call on them. Read their advertisement in another column.

☞ Take notice, dear reader, that for 40 cts. you can buy a pound of good Tea, Ningpong they also sell at Tilton & Nowell's Union Store, No. 12 Market street,—also shoes for men and women at very reasonable rates; and all other goods cheap. tf

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING throughout the country that has obtained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to believe, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany each bottle. It is, in truth, the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they will have physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of sufferings.

Use Dr. Clough's
Columbian Pills,

A WONDERFUL Medicine, good in all diseases, and for persons of all ages, and especially for Females to use in Pregnancy and child bed Ladies, please read what Mrs. Sears, an old, experienced nurse of 1 titsfield, says:

"I have used Dr. Clough's Columbian Pills in my business, as nurse, for three or four years, and find them just what the sick need; they act on the stomach and bowels so mildly, relieve the head, do not debilitate, and cleanse the nerves. I am sure I but do my duty to my female companions in recommending these Pills for their use, in preference to any similar preparation.

SARAH SEARS, Nurse."

This recommendation is valuable, because it is by a person of large experience as a Nurse, and she knows just what the ladies need to regulate and strengthen them, so as to be able to do their duty cheerfully and safely, as women and as mothers.

OH! DEAR!!

We were horror-struck, when coming down Middle street, Tuesday afternoon, on seeing that the splendid old elm which has stood (doubtless for a hundred years or so) in front of the residence of the late Wm. Haven, Esq., on the corner of Austin street, has been cut down! Yes, that beautiful, majestic thriving tree is converted into firewood. If we had previously known it, we would not have passed that way.

We were told that the elm leaned over the street, so much as to cause fears that it might fall. Well, if the property had belonged to us, we would have stayed the tree to the house, and let both go together, when they got ready—which we guess would not have been for a century or two.

That house was built for Mr. Wm. R. Hardy, about fifty years ago; and the beautiful winding entrance (which we also notice has been replaced by a starved-looking porch, not worthy to be mentioned with the old one) was constructed by Mr. Hardy's orders, with especial reference to the preservation of that tree—which was then quite large and much to be admired. The house was set so that the tree came just in the centre, before the front door.

The late Mr. Haven gloried in that tree, as also did thousands of others who appreciate the beautiful. We are also told that Mr. Haven, when a boy, set out the elm, then a mere twig, which now obstructs Pleasant street a little, but ornaments it a thousand times more, standing in front of the residence of Mrs. N. A. Haven, where he then lived. Long may it wave!

A gentleman acquainted with such matters, who has examined the fallen trunk, and counted the "rings," considers the tree about ninety years old. A century plant cut down, eh? A man should as soon think of cutting down his grandfather.

But, alas! the glorious old elm, of which we meant to make mere mention, is down,—and the house is shorn of its beauty, the street is robbed of its glory;—and all the public can do is to mourn. We are glad we don't live in that neighborhood now—if we did we should want to move out. We hope we shan't ever have to pass that way again.

☞ We understand that at the adjourned meeting, held at St. John's Church, last Monday afternoon, it was voted to accept Dr. Burroughs' resignation of his pastoral charge; to take effect on that day. It was also voted that the Bishop of New Hampshire be requested to concur in the dissolution of this connexion between Dr. Burroughs and his congregation.—We are gratified to learn, that Dr. B. consents to the request to give his services to the church, whenever they may be required, until some other minister shall be employed. Under the ministration of Dr. Burroughs, St. John's Church has attained a prosperity and stability, never before enjoyed since its foundation.

☞ Rev. J. W. Chickering, D. D., of Portland, is expected to peach at the North Church, this, Wednesday evening, at 7 1-2 o'clock.

☞ We regret that by a mistake one of of our compositors, in setting up our manuscript, on Monday, the name of John M. Pickering was given as one of the assaulters of Mr. R. N. Bodge, the other evening. We wrote it James M., as it should have been. Mr. John W. Pickering, we have always regarded as one of the most efficient and gentlemanly of our Police Officers; and we should be certainly sorry to have occasion to record his name as concerned in such a cowardly scrape—a good deal more sorry than we are that we published it without cause.

☞ The meeting which was adjourned from Saturday, to be held on this, (Wednesday) P. M.,—is to be held on Thursday evening, at 7 o'clock, in the Temple. See the Call.

☞ A small boy named Cornelius Bryant, fell into the dock near H. D. Walker's, on Tuesday noon while playing, and was rescued just as he was sinking, by a man who was at work near by.

☞ The new ship, belonging to Mark H. Wentworth and others, now lying at Pray's wharf, has received the name of "Sagamore."

THE MURDER OF YOUNG NORCROSS.—On Friday a young man named Michael Bonner, an old associate of McKim, the alleged murderer of young Norcross, at Altoona, was taken to Philadelphia, from Delaware County. It seems that at McKim's request a subpœna was served upon Bonner, and the officer who served it found him somewhat under the influence of liquor.—The upshot of the matter was, that a letter, written to him by McKim, from the prison at Holidaysbug on the 6th of April, was got from him.

The writer of this extraordinary letter almost admits his guilt of the murder, and then earnestly implores Bonner, and others of his old associates, to come to his rescue and swear him out of the difficulty. McKim lays out the plan of action, tells what sort of a story is to be told, and how the witnesses are to prove an alibi for him.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded in the year 1845, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Phila ielphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of public execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable, the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible; while, in cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession.

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN
Is shown by the Records of the Custom House to be the only London Cordial Gin IMPORTED and sold in bottles; all others are made here in imitation of it.

It is a delicious tonic beverage, and by its peculiar flavor (so different from other gins) is universally esteemed by all who use it. It is adopted with great success in cases of Dyspepsia, Gout, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Gravel, Colic, Cholera, Fever and Ague, Stricture, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Epilepsy, Female Irregularities.

Dr. Valentine Mott of New York, in a letter to the proprietor, says:

Charles' London Cordial Gin, is the purest, best, and most reliable Extract of Juniper I have seen.

CHARLES' LONDON CORDIAL GIN is sold by all Druggists and Grocers in the United States, and so also are numerous poisons called "London Cordial Gin"—to avoid them buy only "CHARLES'." Reject any other offered to you as you value your health. Price one dollar for quarts, fifty cents for pints.

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. Tassard & Co. are the managers, are chartered by the state of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a fair and honest manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present. The managers call attention to the fact that the managers call attention to, that all persons have a legal right to send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state, and the lottery draws every day of the month. If no particular class is named, orders are filled in the first drawing to take place after the communication comes to hand. The prices range the same from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sent unless the money for the same is received with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (either the Havana plan, or 3d and Ternary combination. Prizes vary in amount from $20 to $100,000. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

SUPPLY the best, finest and purest articles, at the lowest Cash prices. Their Stock consists of

Teas, Coffees, Chocolates, Allspice, Pepper, Mustard, Ginger, Cayenne Pepper, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Cream Tartar; Taraxacum, or Prepared Dandelion Root, &c., &c.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the several articles named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine, as they are put up in packages of our name and label, "TREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give customers some idea of our sales, we annex the following scale of prices, viz:

5 lb. Bouchong Tea, 1 00 | 3 lb. Mocha Coffee, 1 00
5 lb. Oolong do. 1 75 | 5 lb. Java do. 90
6 lb. Young Hyson do. 1 00 | 3 lb. Chocolate, 1 00

☞ The Spices are put up in 1 and ½ lb. tin cans, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish their superiority.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and great care and attention bestowed on its preparation with particular care, and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1½ lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and put up in packages having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, in a manner to meet the approbation of the city and country, and bearing our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as the GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of Coffee, and price 20 cents per pound, and it is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents a pound by druggists.

The medicinal properties of Dandelion are well known, and held in high estimation by all who use it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be mixed with coffee or not, as beats suits the taste, and will be found cheap and economical as a family beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is recommended by many eminent physicians to invalids, children and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and a remedy for Dyspepsia, Billious affections, &c., &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our Teas, are our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, called Taraxacum, in the market.

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made to enable them to supply their customers at the wave low rate.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot fail to tell upon those who do business on the credit system; and we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our articles, and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY, solicitor of Patents,

(Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1837.)

No. 76 State st, opposite Kilby st, Boston,

AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twenty years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France, and other European countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on liberal terms, and with despatch. Advice made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of Patents or Inventions,—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the Claims of any Patent issued, by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

The Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages for securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, unsurpassed by, if not immeasurably superior to, any other Agency offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below given prove that none is MORE SUCCESSFUL IN THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscriber; and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has abundant reason to believe, and can prove, that at no office of the kind are the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years past, has enabled him to accumulate a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond question, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

A necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office; and there were none who conducted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I cheerfully bear testimony to the ability, and success of Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most skilful Patent Solicitors in the United States, and I know of no institution in this country where inventors can more confidently place their interests, than in the hands of Mr Eddy."

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner of Patents.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

Manny's Celebrated Mower
—AND—
MOWER AND REAPER.
IMPROVED:
Built expressly for the New England States.
THE MANNY MOWER has been extensively used for the past two years in New England, and more than six years at the West.—Its success is beyond that of any other Mower or Reaper ever constructed. Over 150 1st Premiums have been awarded it, including the Grand Chase Silver Medal at the World's Fair, Paris, 1856.
With the two past years' experience, we have been enabled to make a number of very important improvements. We find New England farmers require a different Machine from other sections;—the fields generally being small. It must be light, at the same time possess great strength; portable, with facilities to raise the cutters to pass obstructions, and to remove from field to field. A perfect cutting apparatus, to cut the fine grass without clogging, and so constructed as to start in the grass without backing, easily adjusted to cut high or low, and have a Reel to cut equally well with or against the wind, and to be worked with ease by a light team, and so easily managed and simple that any one of common ability may operate it successfully, and to be built in the most thorough manner.
With this knowledge of the farmers' requirements, and with the determination to build a better Machine than ever before been constructed in this country, we offer the Manny Mower of 1857 with confidence, as combining the qualities enumerated above, and as one particularly adapted to meet the wants of New England farmers.
☞ We invite the farmers to call and examine Machines. Orders should be sent early. Circulars, with testimonials, forwarded free, on application.
Price of Mower, $110; with Reaper attachment, $15 Extra. Delivered on board the cars at Worcester, Mass. JOHN P. ADRIANCE & Co.,

Morning Chronicle.

THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1857.

For the Chronicle.

REV. T. W. HIGGINSON,

OF WORCESTER.

The name of this clergyman will now probably be trumpeted through the country as a convert to Spiritualism. He bears testimony to certain wonderful physical phenomena, at the expelled student's (Mr. Willis) exhibition. It is to be regretted that men of science will give countenance to impositions on the too credulous public. But clergymen are not always men of high attainments in the sciences, and are more prone to superstition than some other classes. Henry Ward Beecher was called upon to give his opinion, and did, in a long article apparently expressing his belief in the new doctrine or discovery; but wound off with the opinion that the performers dealt only with evil spirits.

If the Spiritualists are governed by moral honesty, why do they not reveal the way and manner they perform the wonderful deeds, in order that all others may share the benefits of their discoveries? That would spoil "their craft:"—there would no longer be the cry "great is Diana of the Ephesians!" Mr. Higginson makes some statements tending to show that the tables, musical instruments, &c., did not move about without some external agency—a slab of the table flew up while the knees of the company were underneath it. In another case of which we heard, a real knee raised a table, after the company had sat with their hands upon it half an hour. He says that a guitar crept up from underneath the table between his legs, and was an accompaniment to his song! Mirable dictu! But he saw flickerings of light upon it. Again he says that he felt upon his feet an electrical sensation, like such as may be felt by the action of an electro-magnetic battery.

His statement, then, tends to show that there was some external action, and that the electric fluid was the motive power.—Mr. H., with all his superstitious belief, does not hazard his opinion that the phenomena could have taken place in the absence of Mr. Willis. We must therefore believe that by his agency and not by any supernatural agency, the table moved and the musical instruments gave out sweet sounds. The secret is his. How ancient magicians raised infernal or any other kind of spirits, appearing in a cloud of smoke caused by burning incense, the superstitious could not understand. It was the secret—"the craft"—by which the magicians lived. There have been in the world a thousand other secrets of the kind, and after a lapse of time, they have exploded like bubbles in the air.

Now we do not believe that Mr. Willis has any connexion or communication with invisible disembodied spirits, good or bad. As a necessary sequence (if he has not) he must be the operator. The contrivances to carry on the deceptions are doubtless skillful and ingenious, but when understood, perfectly simple. Has there been a more wonderful discovery, than for persons a thousand miles apart, to converse by the electric wires? Yet the process is simple, when understood.

We do not attempt to disclose the deceptions of the Spiritualists. But it cannot be doubted that many of their wonderful phenomena may be produced by the electric fluid as an agent; such as the rappings, or holding conversation with the dead, &c.—Secret wires may be used to conduct the fluid. It may be useless to speculate upon the various arts and contrivances of impostors—the world is full of them. It is sufficient for us to know that inert matter can not move without some external action upon it—and that no human agency can reverse the laws of nature. That a guitar can play a tune as an accompaniment to a pious clergyman's song, without an operator, or without some skilful contrivance, is too silly a story for an enlightened age.

The greatest mystery in respect to Spiritualism is, that its deceptions have been so long continued, without having been more fully exposed. It is said that a small portion of the community love to be deceived. Certain it is that not a few love to deceive others.

While some profess to believe in a part of the new doctrine, they reject other parts as being contrary to the nature of things. But if the professors of the art can give a motive power, by their mere volition, to inert matter, and can call up the the spirits of the dead, they must be vested with a miraculous or supernatural power, or be divinely inspired, as were the twelve apostles of old. If so, why should we withhold our confidence in respect to any part of their miracles? Can we believe a witness, who we know will commit perjury in any part of his testimony. PHILOS.

EDITORIAL NOTE.

We understand Philos, that he has never seen the manifestations of the spirits or tables, instruments or persons—but is a disbeliever of the whole thing, on general grounds. Having given Mr. Higginson's statement in part, we now give the above, as the views of an old school philosopher and scholar.

☞ The trial of Robert alias Cornelius Sullivan, indicted for felonious assault, &c., upon Ellen Desmond, in a building in Williams court, in Boston, has occupied the attention of the Municipal Court over 2 days, and was concluded on Wednesday, by the jury returning a verdict of guilty. The minimum punishment for the crime of which Sullivan is convicted, is imprisonment at hard labor in the State Prison during the remainder of the natural life of the offender.

☞ The Burlington, Iowa, State Gazette says that while some workmen were engaged in excavating for the cellar of Gov. Grimes' new building, on the corner of Main street, they came upon an arched vault, some 10 feet square, which, on being opened, was found to contain eight human skeletons of gigantic proportions. The wall of the vault was about fourteen inches thick, well laid up with cement or indestructible mortar. The vault is about 6 feet from the base to the arch. The skeletons are in a state of preservation, and we venture to say are the largest human remains ever found, being a little over eight feet long.

THE CALIFORNIA RESTORATOR, NEWBURYPORT.—Mr. James Burnham, the keeper of this house, says the Herald, was brought before the Police Court on Monday, on two complaints—first for selling plain spirituous drinks, and second for selling drugged liquor to a master of a vessel, which was the case we mentioned last week. He was convicted on both complaints, and appeared to the Court of Common Pleas. In default of $800 bail he was committed.

☞ The Sheriff of St. Clair county, Ill., advertises a negro man for sale at public auction, he being guilty of the "high misdemeanour" of having come into the State of Illinois and remaining there ten days, for which offence, he was fined $50, as provided by the Black Law of 1853, and in default of paying of which fine, the Sheriff of the county, in which he was found, is directed to sell him to any body willing to pay the fifty dollars.

ANOTHER NEW YORK MYSTERY.—The body of a young woman, about eighteen years of age, was found on Sunday morning, in the North river, near the foot of Reade street. The deceased had a rope round her neck, and was dressed in night clothes. No marks of strangulation or violence were found upon the body, which had been in the water about three weeks; her features were regular and her hair brown. On a finger of her left hand was a plain cornelian ring.

FIRES.—The tannery of Walter Adriance & Co, was destroyed by fire on Tuesday. The stock was insured for $4000, which will cover the loss. The building was owned by George M. Flanders, and valued at $200. So says the Mirror.

We also learn from the Manchester American that in Nashua, on Monday morning, 3 car loads of cotton belonging to the Nashua Manufacturing Company, which had been placed on a side track in the vicinity of the Concord Railroad depot, were set on fire and nearly consumed before the flames could be extinguished.—Loss about $3000.

SUGAR CROP IN SANDISFIELD, MASS.—This year the aggregate sugar crop of the town of Sandisfield is 130,000 pounds, which, at ten cents a pound, amounted to the handsome sum of $13,000. The sugar is mostly run into moulds and sold in cakes, the largest portion in the city of New York, a smaller amount in Boston. On account of the high price of sugar, more than usual has been reserved for home consumption.

☞ The Montreal Minerve (Roman Catholic organ) has an article entreating subscriptions to the fund of a society for the salvation of infidel infants. It states that the agents of the society have baptized 329,368 infants, of whom 217,104 are already dead and gone to heaven. For twenty sous, according to the report of the missionaries, four children can be saved, and for 1000 francs 4000 children.

☞ It is stated that there is one silver coffee pot in a jeweller's shop in Baltimore, that has figured at three dozen weddings as the "gift of my uncle."

Messrs. Editors,—Radway's Ready Relief and other Remedies, which you advertise in the Daily Chronicle of Tuesday, April 28, in an article copied from Richardson's New York Journal, I consider to be humbug quack medicines—and the whole story about their wonderful cures to be false and deceptive. ANTI-QUACK.

☞ At the foundry of Messrs. W. & E. T. Fitch, in Westville, Conn., on Friday afternoon, the workmen let down the basin in which the iron is melted, before the metal was sufficiently drawn off, into a pool of water underneath, when an explosion took place, blowing out the windows of the building, and seriously, if not fatally, injuring four or five of the workmen.

GEOMETRICAL QUESTION.—I have eight square lots of land, and the difference between each two of the four larger squares is 175 feet, and between each two of the four smaller squares 21 feet. How many square feet are there in the eight square lots?

The New York Mirror says that Mr. Boker, the owner of the Dusseldorf pictures, in consequence of his recent domestic infelicities, proposes to close the Dusseldorf Gallery; and will probably send the pictures back to Europe. This collection, the finest in America, has cost Mr. Boker over two hundred thousand.

And because Mr. Boker's daughter has seen fit to marry a decent Irishman,—therefore Mr. Boker, gets the sulks and sends back the pictures. What a silly picture he makes of himself! O, codfish aristocracy! O. flunkeydom?

ANOTHER BOSTON PULPIT VACANT.—We understand that Rev. Dr. Waterbury, pastor of the Bowdoin Street Church, has resigned his office, to take effect immediately.

☞ Lieut. M. F. Maury recommends the raising of sunflowers as a preventive for fever and ague. His theory is, that the sunflower plants absorb from the atmosphere the obnoxious moisture that causes the fever.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

PRESENTS.—If you wish to give a present to some mother of a worrisome child buy a bottle of Lawrence's Carminative.

THE SECRET DISCOVERED AT LAST.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the NEW STORE, No. 15, always seems crowded with customers. We have at last discovered the secret of it. On stepping inside, we find that the proprietors, Messrs. ALLEN & PAINE, in fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we discovered that the store contains a Sky-Light, giving them facilities for showing their Goods possessed by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and can not be deceived in the color or quality of goods. We were also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, altogether, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

☞ Take notice, dear reader, that for 40 cts. you can buy a pound of good Tea, Ningyong they call it, at Tilton & Nowell's Union Store, No. 12 Market street,—also shoes for men and women at very reasonable rates; and all other goods cheap. tf

THERE IS AN ARTICLE SELLING Throughout the country that has attained the widest celebrity ever known as a remedy for Liver Complaints. We have reference to DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR OR LIVER REMEDY that has performed cures almost too great to be believed, were it not for the undoubted evidence that accompany the testimonials. It is, in truth the greatest remedy known for Dyspepsia, Jaundice, or a general debility that so often baffles the skill of our most eminent physicians.

Dr. Sanford has been for a long time one of the eminent physicians of New York, and it is said, most of his cases were treated with the Invigorator with such invariable success that he has been induced to offer it as a family medicine, and let the world have the benefit of his discovery. If those who are troubled with debility, headache, languor, or slow, lingering fever, will try a bottle, we think they might save physician's bills, and days, perhaps years of suffering.

"BALM OF A THOUSAND FLOWERS"—A COUNTERFEIT. A person pretending to have been a partner with W. P. Fetridge in the above article, is palming off a spurious preparation on the public. TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES

CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded, in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was depaived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Sharpers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the alteration of a letter to evade a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.

WOLFE'S SCHEIDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS is made from barley of the first quality, selected with great care from the products of the most celebrated grain-growing districts, is flavored with the essence of the aromatic Juniper Berry of Italy, and is rectified by a peculiar process, which expels from the spirit every acrid particle.

As a means of preventing and correcting the disagreeable and often dangerous effects produced upon the stomach and bowels by a change of water—a visitation to which travelers and settlers, and all unacclimated persons in the West, the South and South-West are peculiarly liable—the Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps will be found absolutely infallible. In cases of dropsy, gravel, obstructions of the kidneys, diseases of the bladder, dyspepsia, and general debility, it is recommended most emphatically by the most distinguished members of the medical profession

It is put up in quart and pint bottles, in cases of one dozen, with the name of the undersigned on the bottle and cork, and a fac-simile of his signature and label.

For sale by all respectable druggists and country merchants. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

JUST REBUKE.

In the N. H. Gazette of the 25th, we read;

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Hatch took occasion to allude in just terms of rebuke to the attempt of the complainant to create a public prejudice through the columns of a newspaper, against the witnesses for the defence.

We suppose this to mean that the rebuke was just.—If, so the terms are of little consequence: but let us look, and see if it was just. What was the offence, on which the rebuke was administered?

Uncle Toby, the complainant, was eye and ear witness to an unprovoked, premeditated and violent assault, made on a defenceless man, by a worthy representative of the rum power, who struck the blows not merely for himself, but for a set of men who had conspired to wound and intimidate the sufferer, and through him, any and all others who should offend that power.

The man who was injured, had been, with Uncle Toby, followed a mile or more out of town, by half a dozen persons or more, who seemed to have no business there, except to partake in or to see such assault and intimidation.

Three of these followers had volunteered to say, before the blood was washed off, that they would testify that Coult, the injured man, struck first—doubtless intending to stave off a complaint by this threat.

Somebody made a complaint, and Mr. Hatch had issued a warrant thereon, against this same sufferer, Mr. Coult, for assault, —and Mr. Hatch had instructed the officer, Foote, who held the warrant, not to serve it, if the man would go out of town, as "the poor —— had been punished enough." One of the three who volunteered to say Coult struck first,—also said on the assault ground, that he should not be hurt, if he would leave town. A most remarkable thing, this, for a man to say, of another man who began an assault!

All these things pointed plainly to a conspiracy to intimidate Coult and any other like persons from abroad, and to stave off, or swear down, any prosecutions at home.

Nevertheless, Uncle Toby told his story in the Chronicle; and told it over again in the Police Court. He told it, as it was—and the people believe it.—The prisoner himself, and his accomplices, know it is true.

Their counsel, when he moved a continuance, said that Mr. Rowe had told him he would swear that Coult struck first—but when the time came, Mr. Rowe did not come!

In the mean time, Uncle Toby had published his item about tall swearing, as it must have been tall, if it could begin to swear away the circumstances of the case! He cautioned the swearers against perjury and conspiracy.

And his cautions, no doubt, reduced the swearing to a moderate stature, but the testimony showed a conspiracy to defeat the ends of public justice.—Five witnesses for the defence, all testified that Coult struck at, or made a pass at Pierce, before the latter struck him,—but none that he struck him.—All these five were among those who followed: Rowe and Pierce made up 7.—And no one of this seven showed any other probable errand on that road, than either to make or see such assault.

Editorial articles in the N. H. Gazette, and one in the Manchester Mirror, apparently written in Portsmouth, and a Portsmouth letter in the Boston Times, all pointed in the same direction,—viz. to a conspiracy to intimidate every man who dares to lift his hand or voice against rum and riot.

If to speak plainly against these evils,—and to call public attention to them,—be just cause for rebuke—then Uncle Toby is justly rebuked.

But if, on the other hand, the conspirators, the assaulters, the rioters, the law breakers, and their hired defenders and advocates, whether of the bar or the press, go a little too far and bump their heads against public opinion, they may deserve, and possibly receive a just rebuke.

A DIFFERENCE.—Pumpkin and Lumpkin, two topers, meet and drink together in Slipslop's bar-room; they get into a quarrel, and Pumpkin knocks Lumpkin down; the case is tried next day, and Pumpkin is fined $1 or $5 for assault and battery. Very well, served him about right.

Again, Pumpkin and Lumpkin drink themselves crazy at Slipslop's—and then they rush out and knock down the first decent looking man they see,—and are fined $1 or $5. This is well as far as it goes,—but the penalty is not up to the crime, nor to the mark of prevention!

Once more, Pumpkin, Lumpkin, and Dumplin, with their associates, steam themselves up in Dumplin's saloon, and then go out with malice prepense, to attack, assault and injure a peaceable citizen against whom they have a grudge. The assault is committed,—and Dumplin being tried and found guilty is fined $1 to $5. It is well he is found guilty,—but the penalty is quite inadequate to the end of public justice or public safety.

POOR FELLOW!—Passing through Market street yesterday, we observed an old farmer, with an ox-goad in his hand, travelling along (not exactly in a bee-line,) the pavement, gazing up at the signs over stores, until arriving in front of the store of Mr. Albert Laighton, he stumbled off the side-walk, and in his erratic course his head became entangled in the hoops, which hang in front of the store, and it seemed for a moment, doubtful, whether he could extricate himself without assistance. But at last he succeeded in disengaging himself from their meshes, after dropping his hat, (which probably had a brick in it) and nearly losing his balance, which he succeeded in retaining, by the help of the aforesaid goad.

We left, after seeing him safe at Mr. Laighton's counter; and passed on, wondering if he wanted to buy a "patent skeleton brass hoop skirt?" c.

☞ A telegraphic despatch was received in this city on Wednesday afternoon, stating that the ship Arabella, of this port, had been struck by lightning and totally consumed by fire. The crew were taken to Bermuda. No particulars given.

WANTED, a Daily Chronicle or two, of Monday, April 20.

FROM SANTA FE—INDIAN TROUBLES.—A file of the Santa Fe Gazette for March is received. A portion of the remains of the Indian Agent Dodge had been found and interred at Fort Defiance. Capt. Gibbs had been severely wounded in an engagement with the Indians. Gov. Merriweather had gone on a visit to the Navajos and Pueblos. Indian depredations had been frequent and extensive. Numbers of the savages had been overtaken and killed by the troops. Major Fry had arrived at Albuquerque, with $150,000 for the department.

FREAK OF A RAILROAD WHISTLE.—We learn from Julian T. Pember, Esq., ticket master of the F. R. R. Depot, that Saturday morning as the steamboat train which left this city at 4 1-2 o'clock for Boston, when between Titicut and Bridgewater, the whistle of the engine commenced blowing of its own accord, and before it could be stopped, had blown all the steam from the boiler and stopped the train. It caused a detention of about an hour and a half. No other damage was done.—Fall River Evc. Star.

LOTTERIES.

The well-known Maryland Consolidated Lotteries, of which R. Fabian & Co are the managers, are chartered by the State of Maryland, and a commissioner elected by the people, who is sworn to superintend and certify that everything connected with them is done in a strictly honorable manner, and that the interests of parties who reside at a distance are as well protected as if they themselves were present at the drawing. Another fact which the managers call attention to, is that all persons in the country who send orders for tickets to Maryland, as lotteries are legalized by special law in that state. A lottery is drawn every day of the month. If any person who is named, ordered in the first drawing to take place after the communication comes to hand. The prices of tickets vary from $1 to $20. No tickets are, however, sold for less money than the price named, with the order. The drawings are upon the principle of one number on each ticket (after the Havana plan), and Ternary combination, from one to ninety, amount from $20 to $100 $00. All orders for tickets or packages will receive prompt attention, and the drawing mailed to all purchasers immediately after it is over.

Having every facility for manufacturing and preparing the articles above named, the public may rely upon having them pure and genuine as they are put up carefully, and bear our name and label, "PREMONT MILLS, E. E. DYER & CO."

To give customers some idea of our sales, we quote the following prices, viz:—Teas, 5 lb. Souchong Tea, 1 00 1-2 lb. Mocha Coffee, 1 00 5 lb. Oolong do. 1 25 5 lb. Java do. 1 00 5 lb. Y. Hyson do. 2 25 5 lb. good do. 1 00 Articles put up in packages of 1-2 lb. are sold at cost, expressly for family use, and are warranted to be strictly a pure article, and only need a trial to establish them in public favor.

SPANISH COFFEE.—We would call the attention of customers and dealers to our "Spanish Coffee, as an article which is highly esteemed, and gives the greatest satisfaction. It is prepared with great care and by a peculiar process in roasting, one pound of this coffee, it is believed, is equal to 1 1-2 lb. of any other.

DANDELION COFFEE. This article is carefully prepared at our Mills, and we are the sole agents having our trade mark, and may be relied upon as the best and most approved mixture of dandelion and coffee.

TARAXACUM, or Prepared Dandelion Root.—This article is prepared and roasted at our Mills, is retailed by Family Grocers generally in city and country, and bears our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," may be relied upon as a GENUINE ARTICLE. The proportion used is about one-half the quantity of Coffee. The price is 20 cents per pound of one lb. It is warranted to be the same as that which has been sold for fifty cents, pound by Druggists.

The Medical properties of Dandelion are well known, and sold at high retailers prices, will value it. This being a preparation of the root, with all its medicinal virtues retained, can be sold at a price which will suit, as well the taste, and will be found cheap and economical. As a life beverage, one pound of which being nearly equal to two pounds of coffee. It is prescribed by many physicians in preference to coffee, for old and aged persons, as a nutritious beverage, and as a remedy for Dyspepsia, Bilious affections, &c., &c.

☞ Be careful to observe that all our TARAXACUM has our trade mark, "Chinaman grinding Coffee," as there are many imitations of our article, sold throughout the market.

☞ To Grocers and Dealers a liberal discount is made, enabling them to supply their customers at a small profit.

☞ TO CASH PURCHASERS.—Our object being to secure large sales at small profits, we offer inducements which cannot be afforded by those who do not sell for cash. To such persons we confidently invite an examination of the quality of our stock and our prices, as compared with those of any other house.

American and Foreign Patents.

R. H. EDDY, solicitor of Patents,

(Late Agent of U. S. Patent Office, Washington, under the Act of 1836.)

No. 78 State st, oppo. Kilby st, Boston, AFTER an extensive practice of upwards of twelve years, continues to secure Patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France, and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all Papers or Drawings for Patents, executed on the shortest terms, and with despatch. Researches made into American or Foreign works, to determine the validity or utility of any Patent or Inventions,—and legal or other advice rendered in all matters relating thereto. Copies of the claims of any Patent furnished by remitting One Dollar. Assignments recorded at Washington.

This Agency is not only the largest in New England, but through it inventors have advantages of securing patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions, which cannot be obtained in any other place, and which are not immeasurably superior to, any which can be offered them elsewhere. The testimonials below show that the business of R. H. EDDY is MORE SUCCESSFUL, AT THE PATENT OFFICE than the subscribers, and as SUCCESS IS THE BEST PROOF OF ADVANTAGES AND ABILITY, he would add that he has the testimonials to these facts, and can prove, that at no other office of the kind, can the charges for professional services so moderate.—The immense practice of the subscriber during twenty years, in the preparation of specifications, a vast collection of specifications and official decisions relative to patents. These, besides his extensive library of legal and mechanical works, and full accounts of patents granted in the United States and Europe, render him able, beyond competition, to offer superior facilities for obtaining patents.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

Testimonials.

"During the time I occupied the office of Commissioner of Patents, Mr. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, did business at the Patent Office, as Solicitor of Patents. There were few, if any persons acting in that capacity, who had so much business before the Patent office, and there were none who transacted it with more skill, fidelity, and success. I regard Mr Eddy as one of the best informed and most faithful practitioners in the United States, and have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a person more competent and trustworthy, and more capable of putting their application in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

From the present Commissioner.

AUGUST 17, 1855.—During the time I have held the Office of Commissioner of Patents, R. H. Eddy, Esq., of Boston, has been extensively engaged in the transaction of business with the office, as a Solicitor. He is thoroughly acquainted with the law, and the rules of practice of the Office. I regard him as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS. MASON,
Commissioner of Patents.

A SHIP'S CREW STARVED TO DEATH.—An English ship was wrecked, probably in February last, on the coast of Norway, relative to which a letter received in England says:

"A pilot on the 21 of March boarded a vessel about eight miles from the land, off Kinn, near Stavanger, dismasted and water-logged. Found in the forecastle the bodies of six men, which he brought with him on shore, and another body was found between the cargo, in the hold, which he could not succeed in landing. A certificate found on board proved the vessel to be the Holingen, from Narva for Gainsborough, with a cargo of deals, &c. The vessel was found to be without provisions; the crew are therefore supposed to have died from starvation, and especially as one of the bodies appeared to bear marks of having been attacked by the others to satisfy their hunger. Some of the bodies had evidently been dead some time, others only a few days. The most remarkable circumstance connected with this wreck is that the crew could have been starved to death on a voyage from Narva to Gainsborough, as, even admitting that they ran short of provisions, or that these were spoiled on the vessel filling with water, the crew must still have existed four or five days, and during that period on a track so frequented as the North Sea, it appears strange they fell in with no vessel of any kind."

FAMINE IN FINLAND.—The famine in Finland continues, and has reached a frightful point: many have actually died of starvation. The harvest last year, it seems, fell far short of the wants of the population—whence the present distress. The poor have been living on a bread composed of bark and straw; but many have been unable to obtain even this sustenance. In the north of Sweden, things are as bad.—Lapland is suffering fearfully, and it is even said that children have gnawed their own hands from hunger, and that adults have died from starvation while endeavoring to sustain life by straw. The Swedish Government has acted energeticlaly, in giving relief to the famishing.

IS IT FREE OR SLAVE?—The Cheraw (S. C.) Gazette moots a single question. J. P. Smith arrived at Cheraw a few weeks ago from Scotland, with African twins, of whom some little talk has been made.—During her stay in Scotland, their mother gave birth to another child, whom she brought home with her. Now the question arises, if that child, born on the soil of Scotland, is bond or free? If born free, how can it be held in slavery here? And was not its introduction in this country a violation of the law prohibiting the foreign slave trade? The mother became free when she entered Scotland, but returning here, she returns to her owners. The remaining question is, can she enslave her child by her own return to servitude?

"I can marry any girl I please," said a young man boastingly. "Very true," replied his waggish companion; "for you can't please any?"

CAN'T DO WITHOUT A PAPER.

What! do without a paper? no,
I've tried it to my sorrow,
So to subscribe for one I'll go,
Nor wait until to-morrow.
Should lovers frown or hang themselves,
Or other foolish caper,
I'll never get to hear of it—
I do not take the paper.

Why, there's my neighbor, Jotham Stout,
He always has the news,
And having news to talk about,
He never has the "blues."
While others yawn in ennui,
His mind is like a vapor;
The cause is plain to half an eye—
He always takes the paper.

While neighbor Stout hears all the news,
And knows each current price,
And always minds his Ps and Qs,
By taking good advice.
I cannot tell the price of calves,
Of poultry, coffee, tape, or Any kind of merchandise,
Because I take no paper.

Though I have studies which require
Much time and mental labor,
Yet I can spare a little time,
As well as Stout, my neighbor.
Though time be precious, I can use
A longer midnight taper;
And thus take time to read the news—
Therefore, I'll take the paper.

FRIDAY, MAY 1, 1857.

TREATMENT OF SAILORS.—How the sailor is sometimes treated, may be learned from the following extract from a book lately published in New York, entitled Seven Years Preaching in San Francisco, which gives some graphic descriptions and true illustrations of wrongs perpetrated on sailors:

When the sailor's bill at the boarding house runs up to cover the 'advance,' the landlord says to him, 'Jack, you must ship.' 'I won't do it,' says Jack. 'You shall do it; you owe me a hundred dollars, and you must either pay me to-day or go to sea in the ship Challenge.,. 'Oh, I don't want to go to sea yet,' says Jack. Oh, well, never mind,' says the landlord, 'you're a clever fellow, and you may stay at my house as long as you please, and pay me when you get ready. Come let's take a drink.' Jack, very glad to be on such good terms with the landlord, walks up to the bar, and drinks to the health of his master. In ten minutes he is as insensible as a log. When he recovers from his mysterious sleep, he is out sight of land. He is awakened by the stern command, 'Wake up here, and go to work.' The poor fellow, rubbing his eyes, inquires, 'What ship is this? 'Whither bound?' 'To Hong Kong.' 'How did I get here?' 'Why, you shipped, sir,' says the master. 'I never shipped in this ship' 'Yes you did, sir, and you must go to work without any more grumbling,' replies he captain, sternly. 'I want to see the articles,' says the sailor. 'Well, sir, here they are. What is your name?' 'My name is John Waters.' 'There it is, written on the articles in two places, once by the landlord and once by the shipping master.' 'I never signed these articles,' replies John. 'No,' replies the master, 'you were too drunk to write your name, but there's your mark.' John put his hand to his head and studies a moment, and says: 'I want my advance before I go to work; how much was I to get?' 'One hundred and twenty-five dollars for the run, paid in advance,' replies the captain, 'and here's your account from the shipping office; your bill with the boarding master took one hundred dollars, leaving twenty-five, which he handed me to give you when you got sober.' John takes the twenty-five dollars and goes to work. 'But, you ask, what did the landshark give to the sailor to take away his senses so suddenly?' It was a compound of whiskey, brandy, gin, rum and opium. which, if a man drinks, he sinks into the Lethean stream for a dozen of hours.

But the kidnappers practice not alone on seaman. Here is a case from the same volume:

"A landlord, lacking a man to make a crew, met a German glazier on Long wharf with a pack of glass on his back, and said to him, 'Hie, my good fellow, don't you want a job?' 'Yes, sir.' 'I want you,' said the shark, 'to put some glass in the stern of that ship,' pointing to a ship in the stream. 'Jump into my boat here, and I'll take you on board.' So off they went. As the German sat in the stern of the boat, much pleased with the prospect of a good job, the shark said to him, 'Will you have a cigar, sir?' 'Yes.' So the glazier sat and puffed away as he used to do in his Faderland, but before they reached the ship he tumbled over in the bottom of the boat. The shark threw his pack of glass into the bay, and running alongside hailed—'On deck their! lower away and haul up this man.' A rope was lashed around him and he was hauled up. The shark ran into the Captain's office, saying, 'Captain, I've got a first rate sailor here; he's a little boozy to-day, but he'll be all right to-morrow,' and got his advance.—The poor German waked up at sea, with a longer job than he had engaged for, and the worst of the business was he must not only work for nothing, but be kicked and cuffed through the whole voyage for having the presumption to impose himself on the ship as an able seaman, when he knew nothing about the business. The cigar was drugged."

On one occasion a shoemaker stepped to the bar to take a drink, and waked up the next day at sea, and did not get back to his business for nine months.

Another case is given of a man who was put on board, as it was supposed, dead drunk, and his advance wages drawn; but the next morning, when the captain tried to awaken the man, he found that he was dead, and had been for a day or two.

RAILROAD SWINDLERS ARRESTED.—A conductor on the Great Western (Canada) Railroad, named Wm. J. Fairman, and a brakeman named Hayes, a resident of Detroit, have been arrested for swindling the company by appropriating tickets, and selling them to other parties, who again retail them at a large profit. Fairman has been carrying on the operation for a long time, and is supposed to have made a small fortune by it. His operations in real estate led to his detection, by arousing suspicion.

NEW ORLEANS, April 29.—Letters from Texas state that the recent cold weather had done much to damage the crops in various parts of the State.

SEWING IN SCHOOLS.—Messrs. Editors—As the subject of introducing sewing into our public schools is occupying some attention, at present, among our school committees and the parents of girls attending these schools, you may not think it amiss to insert the following very sensible passage from a letter published in the New York Tribune. A LADY.

Strange as the assertion may seem, very five women know how to sew. Consequently those in moderate circumstances hire work, which they might do themselves (extravagant) or do it slowly and poor (shiftless). The poor do worse still; their sewing is unskilfully done, garments badly cut, much is wasted or wears poorly—for want of skill in cutting and making. One of the greatest difficulties of a housekeeper is to find those who can sew well. There is as much in sewing skillfully and rapidly as in any other trade. A good seamstress can almost always find employment and can earn a good support. Those so poorly paid generally do poor work. Often and often I could give a woman work, but she is incapable of doing it. I have looked about for a remedy for this—have thought of a system of sewing schools, but the undertaking looked too formidable; there is but little hope for improvement, as things now are. The mothers are ignorant, and so the children go untaught.

Sewing machines are not much to the purpose. There will always be plenty of work left, and the work of a family needs a good human machine. The best remedy I can devise, is to have sewing taught regularly in our public schools, if we can only convince the men in charge of the importance of it. For the mass of girls taught in them, it is vastly more important than anything beyond the rudiments of education.

I believe men think women sewing instinct—but it is a sad mistake. Reading and writing are quite as apt to "come by nature."

POISONED WHISKEY.—It is said that many fish have been killed lately in the Scioto River, near Chillicothe, Ohio, by the drainage from the whiskey distilleries.—This did not formerly occur, and there is nothing in the grain that should prove fatal to the fish. It is no doubt the effect of strychnine, recently introduced into the manufacture of whiskey. By the use of a certain quantity of this poison mixed with tobacco juice, every bushel of grain produces five gallons of whiskey, while with an honest distillation the product is only half that amount. The slop from this filthy compound is found to be fatal to the distillery hogs, and a chemist who carefully apalyzed the whiskey, found that a barrel contained enough strychnine to kill thirty men. So notorious and alarming had this use of a deadly poison become, that the Ohio Legislature has just passed a law making it a State Prison offence to use strychnine in the manufacture of whiskey. Is it surprising that so many of our free drinkers swell up and rot in a very short time!

FUGITIVE.—The Manchester Mirror of the 29th says, this morning a police force went up and arrested La Fayette Goodenough, who keeps a suspicious place on Manchester street, near Union, under Atwell's Building, with the idea of searching the place for liquors. While the officers were searching, Goodenough fled to parts unknown, and is now liable to be arrested as a fugitive from justice. Bad rum in abundance was found there, and the implements of a groggery—grog that is surer death than any of Allen's pistols.

☞ The suicide of Mrs. Ford, at Concord, is denied to have been caused by adventures, as was everywhere stated. A "mere domestic trouble" is said to have been the probable occasion. We have long since learned to discredit statements made concerning a theory or creed, or its consequences, by those who either oppose or know nothing about it.

☞ Horace Hamblet, Esq., has again resumed the charge of the Ocean House, Newburyport, which has been refitted and improved. There are but few landlords superior to Mr. Hamblet.

☞ A well-posted New York correspondent of the Boston Bee says that "Ticknor & Fields have made arrangements to publish the poems of T. B. Aldrich, one of the most promising young writers of this country."

☞ We wish to call the attention of our readers, to an advertisement in another column, of a Grand Musical Festival, to be held in Boston, on the 21st, 22d and 23d of the present month, and we are assured that it will be a grand affair in every respect. It will undoubtedly crowd Boston full of music loving people, and fill Music Hall to overflowing.

We shall give further particulars as to price of admission, &c., in future advertisements.

CALIFORNIA AND ISTHMUS.

NEW YORK, April 29.

Steamer Illinois, from Aspinwall evening of 20th, arrived here this afternoon. She connected with the John L. Stephens, which brought down nearly $2,000,000 in treasure.

The Illinois brings upwards of 600 passengers, and nearly one million and a half in specie.

The sloop-of-war Cyane and British frigate Tartar were at Aspinwall, the latter having on board the remainder of Lockridge's men, two hundred in number, who were to be sent to the United States in sailing vessels.

The British ship-of the line Orion had left San Juan for the purpose of blockading Carthagena.

Lockridge's men on their arrival at Greytown, were protected by the British gunboats from the Costa Ricans, who followed them down the river. Lockridge remained at Greytown.

Col. Anderson was awaiting at Aspinwall the next news from Walker.

The 20th of April was the day set by the Costa Ricans for the finishing attack upon Walker.

The Costa Rican papers give a different version of the battle on the 6th of March, at Rivas. Walker, they say, at the head of 300 men, was routed, with great loss of men, arms and ammunition.

In the battle of the 16th, near San Jorge, 100 fillibusters were killed, as stated by deserters from Walker's camp. The allies lost 22 killed and 60 wounded.

At the last accounts in the same papers, Gen. Mora held a position on the north and south sides of Rivas, within four hundred yards of the Plaza, and was soon to open fire.

The latest accounts (March 28) state that fighting had continued at Rivas, for four days, without much impression on either side.

A correspondence had taken place between the Costa Rican General Xatruch, and Capt. Davis, of the St. Mary's, in which the latter refused to interfere between the belligerents.

The British Admiral in the Pacific had seized the Peruvian war vessels Loa and Tumbes.

Vessels were still loading at the Chincas, under permits from the insurgent General, Vivanco.

CALIFORNIA.—The act of the last Legislature for protecting actual settlers, has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Mining prospects are generally prosperous.

A fire at Sacramento had destroyed $50,000 worth of property of the California Stage Company.

Ex-Senator Foote advises the American party to disband.

Serious dissensions have arisen among the Mormons at San Bernardino and Salt Lake.

The San Francisco markets were dull. Flour, domestic, $12 50; pork, clear $24, prime $35: Chicago beef, $25 50; Carolina rice 7 1-2; proof whiskey, 49 c. The auction sales of dry goods, clothing, boots, &c., went very low, at a heavy loss to importers.

The money market was easy.

No provision has been made for the payment of the state debt. There have been no sales of state stocks.

OREGON dates are up to March 26. The steamer Portland was carried over the falls at Oregon city, on the 17th, killing Capt. Jameson and a seaman, and entirely destroying the boat.

Fears are entertained of another outbreak in Washington territory.

SANDWICH ISLANDS.—Advices from Honolulu are of March 15. A schooner had arrived there from Nantucket Islands, with a cargo of guano. The Islands had been taken possession of by Americans.

FROM WALKER.—Costa Rica papers of April 8, contain letters from General Mora to the Minister of War. He says General Walker is hemmed in the Plaza at Rivas, the allies being entrenched within 400 yards of the lines, and that he was subsisting on mule and dog flesh.

THE SECRET DISCOVERED AT LAST.—We have noticed in passing through Market street, lately, that the NEW STORE, No. 15, always seems crowded with customers. We have at last discovered the secret of it. On stepping inside, we find that the proprietors, MESSRS. ALLEN & PAINE, in fitting up their store in the beautiful manner they have, had an eye for the useful, as well as for the ornamental; we noticed that the store appeared very light and cheerful, and on looking for a solution of the mystery, we found that there contains a Sky-Light, giving them facilities for showing their Goods possessed by no other Dry Goods store in town; as Customers by such a light, have no difficulty in seeing just what they are purchasing, and are not be deceived in the color or quality of goods. In notice, also, that their stock is always composed of the best qualities and very latest styles, which is explained by the fact that one of the firm visits the market to replenish their goods every ten days,—and as they buy for Cash, collectively, they are able to offer their goods at as low prices as any other parties.

Those about to purchase Dry Goods will do well to visit them. Read their advertisement in another column.

WOOD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE.

It is highly recommended by all who have used it, and has effected wonderful results by its magical influence. We know of gentlemen in this country who have been almost bald for years, had their hair entirely restored to its former luxuriance and beauty, by the use of Wood's Hair Restorative.—[Lagrange Bulletin.

LAWRENCE, K. T., April 25.—Secretary Stanton addressed the citizens last evening, and was introduced by Governor Robinson. He repeated the general points of his published address, and said the laws of the bogus legislature must be enforced, and the territorial taxes paid. The latter imposition was decidedly negatived by the audience. He was listened to pleasantly and respectfully throughout.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A mother says she cannot do without Lawrence's Carminative.

IT IS AN ESTABLISHED FACT that DR. SANFORD'S INVIGORATOR will cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, and General Debility. Many people, personally known to me, whose word cannot be doubted, have given their certificates to prove this, and with such a mass of evidence who can doubt.

It is truly the invalid's friend, and will give relief when all other remedies fail, and in some instances that come under our observation, it seemed the means of snatching the victim from the grave; we wish all our readers who need medicine, would try one bottle, for it will surely give relief.

Use Dr. Clough's

Columbian Pills,

A WONDERFUL Medicine, good in all diseases, and for persons of all ages, and especially for Females to use in Pregnancy and child bed. Ladies, please read what Mrs. SARAH SEARS, an old, experienced nurse of Litchfield, says:

"I have used Dr. Clough's COLUMBIAN PILLS in my business, as nurse, for three or four years, and find them just what the sick need; they act on the stomach and bowels so mildly, relieve the head, do not debilitate, and calm the nerves. I am sure I but do my duty to my female companions in recommending these Pills for their use, in preference to any similar preparation.

SARAH SEARS, Nurse."

This recommendation is valuable, because it is by a lady of large experience as a Nurse, and she knows just what the ladies need to regulate and strengthen them, so as to be able to do their duty cheerfully and safely, as women and as mothers.

These Pills will give satisfaction!

Our advertising columns will also be seen to be more crowded than ever before.

Messrs. Editors:—As there has been complaint by some that in my remarks at the meeting at the Temple, on Saturday last, I, in an impassioned manner, spoke of "patience" and "moral analysis," and that they could not detect the point of my remarks—will you have the goodness to state, that the above two terms combine pretty much all the point which I had wished to urge, viz: that a patient and persevering moral analysis, rather than recourse to the sword, afford the only practicable remedy for the tremendous moral evils that are now complained of.

A. J. PENHALLOW.

☞ On Wednesday evening, the City Phalanx, Capt. Sides, were out for street drill, with full ranks—fifty muskets, or more; accompanied by the Portsmouth Cornet Band. It was the first appearance of both Company and Band; and they were watched with interest by our citizens generally.

The Phalanx appears to be in a fair way for a creditable organization of the sort, and we hope that at least it will never prove a source of injury to any young man. The Captain is a staunch teetotaller, and we wish every member of this Company might follow his example; and thus steer clear of the tippling habits, too commonly encouraged in military companies. The Phalanx parade well, considering the short drill time they have had, and made a fine show.

The new Band certainly, did themselves credit, when it is remembered that this is the first time they have played on the march. They are a capital set of fellows, and have splendid instruments; and we see nothing to hinder their becoming the best Band old Portsmouth ever had, which is saying not a little.

By the way, the action of our late City Council, in refusing to appropriate two or three hundred dollars towards their instruments, was not liberal, to say the least. The members of this and all similar Bands must needs have much "more plague than profit," and as the Band is to be incorporated, and the instruments will not be private property, the members should to be relieved of contributing ought besides their time and services. We hope our newly adopted City Fathers will make up the deficiency; and thus do something to encourage music at home.

We understand that the Contract for the new Custom House, and Post office, in this city, has been completed and signed.

The U. S. ship Vandalia was taken into Dock, at the Navy Yard, on Thursday.

Loss of Ship Cathedral.—Ship Cathedral, of Boston, was lost off Cape Horn, Feb. 18, on her passage from Philadelphia to San Francisco. Nine men were lost, including Capt. Howard and Dr. Kirkendal, of Trenton. The remainder of the crew had arrived at Panama in an English steamer. She was 1650 tons burthen, built by Samuel Badger, Esq., of this place, and launched March 3d, 1855.

☞ When Washington was about to visit Portsmouth, N. H., after being elected President, it became a question with the town authorities by what title they should address him in public reception, and in their doubts they applied to Rev. Samuel Haven, D. D., for advice, which he gave them in the following lines:—

Fame spread her wings and loud her trumpet blew,
Great Washington is near! What praise his due?
"What title shall he have?" She paused and said,
Not one! His name strikes every title dead.

☞ The N. H. Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church commenced its annual session, at Lawrence, Mass., on Thursday, Bishop Morris presiding.

The Fourth.—We hear repeated inquiries as to whether we are to celebrate the coming Fourth of July, in Portsmouth;—or let the day "go by default," as has been the case for the past three years. As far as we can discern, we think our citizens generally wish for a public celebration, and would take hold with a will to help out one of the right sort.

Joe's Courtship is an amusing story, as natural as New England Life.

The Observation on the N. Y. Observer, cuts up that paper and the Rev. Mr. Prince very handsomely, as they richly deserve.

History as expounded by the Supreme Court, is a notice of the Taney opinion, more true than complimentary.

Kingston, Ja., Jan. 23.—An English man-of-war has carried into St. Anns an American schooner, from Africa for Cuba, with 378 slaves. 137 had died on the passage, and the remainder were in a starving condition. It was rumored another slaver was off the coast, and a British steamer had started in pursuit.

Partition of Nicaragua.—New York, April 30.—Advices from San Salvador, state that the partition of Nicaragua among the Allies has been finally settled. The native Nicaraguans are represented as consenting parties to the division.

Dartmouth College.—It is announced that at the next Commencement, George W. Curtis, Esq., of New York, will deliver the oration, and John G. Saxe a poem.

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES
CAUTION TO THE PUBLIC.

After several years experimenting in the manufacturing of Gin, I fortunately succeeded in the year 1848, in making a discovery in its manufacture by which it was deprived of all acrid and inflammatory properties, and rendered perfectly pure.

My manufactory is at Scheidam, Holland. After several months' reflection what title to give it, I introduced it to the American public under the name of "Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Schnapps." Scheidam is the name of the place in Holland where the Gin is manufactured. Aromatic derives its name from the Italian Juniper Berry with which it is flavored, and the word "Schnapps" is the German for drink—Cogne, Dram—Wolfe's Scheidam Aromatic Drink. No sooner had my Schnapps been introduced to the American public and received with approbation, than the Liquor Mixers of New York, Boston and Philadelphia, started in pursuit with their mixed and poisonous stuff under various names: Scheidam Gin, Scheidam Schnapps, London Club House Gin, London Cordial Gin, &c., and in several cases my labels have been so perfectly imitated, with only the addition of a few letters to plead a technical avoidance of the law, and so carefully prepared as to impose on careless purchasers. I understand a large quantity has been purchased by the merchants of the Eastern States on account of the cheapness of the articles. A merchant who participates indirectly in the fraud by selling the spurious articles, is as much an offender as the principal who planned the imposition.

I hope every respectable citizen who values the health of the community in which he lives will aid me in ferreting out and exposing the unscrupulous merchant, who, for the sake of a few cents, will put in jeopardy the lives of the community in which he lives. Such men should be nailed to the pillory of popular execration.
